CAMPING PARTIES

Fishing and camping parties are quite nuerous along Chester River. Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Atwater are camping at Newnam's wharf, while Camp Carvill is much in evidence on the Kratzer farm further down the river. A crowd is always seen at Bookers wharf and smaller numbers at various places further down the river.

DEATH TO CATS

E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, urged all sportsmen interested in saving young game during the nesting season to kill off all cats found straying in the open country. He declared that such cats are the greatest menace to young wild life.

They are especially destructive to young rabbits and bob white quail which are being killed in a great number by the felines.

THRESHING WEATHER IDEAL

The threshing season in Kent county is said to be the most ideal season ever experienced here by elderly farmers living in this section.

The grain is in excellent condition and grain dealers are shipping from thirty to forty thousand bushels a day.

Only a small percentage of the grain shipped to-date has been sold, due to the price fluctuation.

Railroad sidings and grain boats are being pushed to the limit to take care of the shipments and all available sidings are crowded with grain cars.

Due to the wet threshing season in the middle west, and a poor grain season in the north west the price of wheat in Kent county jumped from $1.08 per bushel to $1.31 in a very few days.
