WHEAT GRADING LABORATORY

County Agent McVean reports that farmers or dealers who desire to have wheat graded may submit samples to the recently established laboratory at Easton. The county agent has sample sacks, cons, and information and will be glad to assist those who desire to do so to have their wheat graded by official graders. The laboratory is fostered by the University of Maryland Extention service and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. Wheat shipped directly to the south may be sold on the grading made by the laboratory. If the grain is shipped through Baltimore it will be graded there also. This furnishes opportunity to check on the grading remover much of the gamble in wheat marketing. Doubtless the lab will be continued next year. It will function two weeks longer this season.

Betterton, Md.—A colony of prominent Wilmington physicians and other professional men are developing a thriving residential group on Still Pond Creek near this Chesapeake bayside resort and it is believed the suburban colony will shortly be appreciably increased by other Delawarians. Dr. H. Tarumians has opened his cottage as has also Dr. Paul R. Smith. Others who will shortly have their country places developed are Dr. John Mullen, Sherman C. Lloyd, Charles C. Keedy, Samuel B. Sturgis and Mrs. William T. Moseley. Yachting, fishing and other water sports are available to the suburban summer dwellers and the vicinity is rapidly being improved and developed into an up-to-date settlement.

Howard Van Sciver, of Philadelphia, vice-commodore of the Tri-State Yacht Club, of Essington, Pa., and president of the Royal Swan Beach Club here, has had his large vacht anchored in the harbor during the past week and other craft are expected to use the facilities of this resort before the summer wanes. The beach club has completed its eighteen hole golf course and plans are being made for the development of the clubhouse property and other projects which, when completed, will make the club one of the finest community organizations in the country.

Monday night a lucky number dance will be held at the Casino and excursions will be made by steamer from Havre de Grace and Port Deposit. Next Tuesday morning a special vaudeville and dancing program will be staged by Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia and Eastern Shore amateur talent and a German will be given Wednesday night. Each Thursday morning a juvenile carnival dance is being given.

Fishing is excellent, say veteran watermen, a record number of edible fish being caught during the week just ended.

BETTERTON

The first amateur shoot was held here on Wednesday afternoon with quite a number of shooters from both Betterton and around the county. The high scores were made by Messrs. Charles Rollison, Edward Wilkins and Harvey Moore. These shoots will be held each Wednesday afternoon during the summer.
