ELIASON MOTORS
Chestertown, Maryland

LOCAL MATTER

—The Chestertown Bank of Maryland will move into its new building today, August 10, and it invites the public to call and inspect their handsome new bank.

—The Second Annual Caroline County Poultry Tour will be held on Thursday, August 16, starting at Denton at 9 a. m. All poultrymen are invited to attend this all-day tour of Caroline poultry farms.

—The annual fireman's night at the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company's carnival will be on Tuesday of next week at which time fire companies with bands from many neighboring towns will compete in the parade. Prospects promise one of the largest affairs ever held here.

—The Chestertown Fire Company responded to a call from the tennant house on the farm of Senator S. Scott Beck at Beck's wharf when a brush fire set the roof afire. Water was pumped from Lankford Bay and the fire quickly extinguished. The house was vacant.

—The fire siren sounded Thursday morning at 8 a. m. but proved to be a false alarm The siren can be started at the fire house and at the telephone office but an investigation showed that neither button was pushed which leads officials to believe that a wire must have been crossed somewhere.

—A clinic for diseases of the chest will be conducted in Health Center, Chestertown, Monday, August 12, 1929. 10.30 a. m. Individuals desiring to attend should see their family physicians and obtain permission to attend clinic at the place announced above.

KENT WINS JUDGING CONTEST

Just before going to press yesterday, County Agent McVean received word from Mr. J. H. Conover that Kent 4-H Club judging team won first place in the five-county judging contest at Cambridge this week.

An article in this issue, which gives an account of the contest states that Kent was placed 2nd, as announced at Cambridge the evening of the contest.

The final revision of the scores was completed Friday noon and showed that Kent won with 3815 points with Dorchester second with 3760 points. The local boys are to be congrautiated on this victory as the competition was much stronger than last year.

BRIDGE WORK STARTS

After a delay of nearly five years, work of rebuilding Reisler's bridge over the tracks of the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company has been started.

The bridge was destroyed by fire and there has been contention between the railroad company and the State Roads Commission as to which one was responsible for the rebuilding of the bridge.

Meanwhile the only entrance to the town of Charlestown from the north was cut off. Persons desiring to get to the northern section of that town have been compelled to go more than a mile out of their way. The traveling public are glad to know this annoyance will soon be removed.

PIGNIC WAS WELL ATTENDED

About 100 people enjoyed the county-wide 4-H Club picnic on August 2nd at Mr. Page Gale's, shore. A goodly number of parents enjoyed the program. During the afternoon baseball and bathing were popular. These activities created large appetites for the "Weenie Roast" supper. Following the eats a regular 4-H Club Camp Fire program was carried out as follows:

Call to order—J. Z. Miller, Assistant County Agent.

Address of Welcome—Albert Nicholson, President Kent 4-H Clover Calf Club.

Purpose of Meeting—Wilbur Morris, President 4-H Progressive Poultry Club.

Group Singing.

Talk—"Club Week"—Stanley Sutton.

Stunt—Calf Club Special—Frank Sutton, Wilbur Morris.

Why I Am Going To Club Week—Isabel Fowler.

Why I Am Going To Club Week—William Carroll.

Kentucky Mountain Folk Songs—Mrs. J. Z. Miller.

What 4-H Club Work Has Meant To Me—Julia Williams.

What I have Gained Thru 4-H Club Work—Franklin Moffett.

Story—Miss Helen N. Schellinger, Home Demonstration Agent.

Talk—Parents and 4-H Club Work—J. D. McVean, County Agent.

This program was both interesting and instructive. The grip and power of 4-H Club Work on the members was apparent to all. Many fine tributes were paid to the 4-H Club by the various speakers. It is a fine thing for parents to hape such an opportunity to see the "inside workings" of the Club Work. It reveals to them the reasons why the 4-H Clubs have been such a construction force in the lives of the Club Members. It doubtless inspires some parents to greater efforts in allowing their children to take active part in club work as it also inspires new members to carry on the Club projects on the high plane set by the boys and girls who have been members for a number of years.

Writer Gives Us New Picture of Kitchener

It was while Kitchener's train was waiting at Elandslaagte that I was introduced by a member of his staff. My first sensation was one of disappointment. "K" was a very big, heavy-looking man with a forbidding, rather repulsive face.

He had a slight cast in one eye, and his manner at that interview was a little harsh and overbearing. The Tommy who described him as "Gawd's young brother Alf" was understandable.

And yet Kitchener was in truth a very gentle, shy and simple soul. It may seem a fantastic suggestion, but I shall always contend that G. W. Stevens ruined Kitchener when he wrote his fanciful pen-picture of the man in "With Kitchener to Khartoum."

Stevens shows him as a man of ice and blood—a man without bowels of compassion, remorseless, ruthless, relentless. I have the impression that Kitchener spent the greater part of his life trying to live up to that reputation, and that all his ferocity, his seeming boorishness, and his invariable aloofness, were due to another man's estimate which he had all too willingly accepted.—Edgar Wallace, in his autobiography, "People."

In the Days of Chivalry

A quaint law was passed in England in the Middle ages relative to the muddy and rutted highways of the day. According to the law bushes and trees were felled for 200 feet on either side of a road to prevent the gentle inhabitants of the countryside from rushing out and attacking travelers! The first toll for the maintenance of English roads was passed by Edward III in the Fourteenth century.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Wails and Whales

A certain club possessed one member who was notorious for grumbling. Wet or fine, warm or cold, he always found something to grumble about.

One evening he was holding forth as usual about his bad luck.

"I'm a Jonah and a Job rolled into one," he complained, "only I don't happen to possess the patience of Job."

"Never mind, old man," murmured his victim, preparing to make his departure, "you've still got Jonah's wail."
