COUNTY HEALTH NURSE REPORT

During the absence of the State Health nurse, colored, Miss White, the Kent County nurse carried on the work alone during the month of August.

In that time twenty patients were operated upon in the Kent County Hospital for tonsils and adenoids. All were discharged in good condition. The summer is proving a popular time for the operation as the majority of patients are children and absence from school is so avoided.

Pre-school age clinics were held during the mnth. Thirteen white children were examined at Betterton and fourteen colored children at Fountain. Dr. Catherine Goodson conducted the clinic with the assistance of the local health force.

One adult and two children were taken to Easton Hospital for X-rays of chest. The nurse accompanied one patient to a Philadelphia hospital in the Kent Co., ambulance; one to Wilmington and a third to Easton.

Nine white patients were examined at the tuberculosis clinic at the Health Center on August 9 where Dr. Nicklas was in charge. Two applications were examined at the tuberculosis clinic at the Health Center on August 9 where Dr. Nicklas was in charge. Two applications were made to the Maryland Tuberculosis Sanitorium and three white patients were admitted to that institution during the month.

One colored woman was admitted to Provident Hospital for operation and a colored child admitted to Harriett Lane for treatment.

Twelve white births and ten colored births were reported for August.

Diet cards and educational matter was distributed throughout the County, 106 visits were made which included nursing visits, social service and instructive visits and a number of office interviews were made.

RED CROSS WORKERS TO MEET IN ANNAPOLIS

The only Red Cross regional meeting to be held in Maryland this year has been arranged in historic Annapolis for October 4, to be held in St. Anne's Parish House. Governor Albert C. Ritchie will be a speaker.

The conference opens with a welcome by the presiding officer, Mrs. John DePeyster Douw, Vice chairman of the host Red Cross chapter. Phases of Red Cross service in the State will be gone into by Miss Alice Edmonds of the Washington County Chapter, Mrs. Lilian Richards of the District of Columbia chapter, Miss Hazel L. Fisher of the Dorcester County chapter, Mrs. Otho H. Lee of the Harford County chapter, Duncan dean chairman of the Talbot County chapter, Mrs. A. B. Gahan, secretary of the Prince Georges County chapter, and Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein of the Cumberland chapter. Walter Davidson of the Red Cross national headquarters staff closes the morning session with a talk on the economic value of the Red Cross to the community. A first aid and life-saving demonstration follows by W. E. Longfellow, assistant national director of this service, who directed the water work of the American contingent of the Boy Scouts at the recent international jamborree at Birkenhead, England.

Governor Ritchie appears at the luncheon session, together with Dr. Thomas E. Green, national director of the Red Cross speakers bureau. John M. Green, treasurer of the local chapter, presides.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

I exult in thy beauty, O, Ocean!
As I sit all day on the strand;
And listen to the voice of thy billows
As they break and break on the sand.

Are they telling of the tragedies of the deep.
Of the noble ships lost on thy waves;
Of the priceless gems and the jewels rare
That lie hid in thy ocean caves?

Are they telling of the flyers that did not arrive,
In their mournful rhythm Oh sea?
Like the mist that enfolds them, their meaning to me.
Is wrapped up in mystery.

But I know as they pound and pound on the shore,
Scorning obstructions man made,
A voice they obey says,
"Thus far shalt thou go,
And here shalt thy proud waves be stayed."

Travellers up in Maine who motor over the Maine, United States, High way No. 1 are struck with its egotism, for everywhere one reads, Me-Us-I. A good road for egotists to travel.

The old things are coming back. Last week we saw advertisements of square dances and prizes for fiddlers. The men are playing horse shoes everywhere. There is a hint of croquet playing in the air, and Dame Fashion has actually decreed that knees are to be hid.

In the magazine of last weeks Sunday Sun it spoke of the Baltimore towns, that is the towns that were begun, thinking it would become a great city. One was at Snow Hill and another around Bohemia Manor. Both of them were doomed to disappointment, but one which they did not speak of was Chestertown. This promised to be a hustling city, the port of Entry here was an important place, the old Custom House, having great cellars to store goods, but the harbor facilities of Baltimore caused the settlers to settle there and Chestertown remains a home town, quiet and conservative.

It is a real come down to those heroes and heroines who have rejoiced in the title of pole sitters to be told by the truant officers that they must attend school. After being visited by numberless spectators and being told by the Sage Mayor of Baltimore that they have the real pioneer spirit, to have to descend to the level of common mortals is grating to their spirit. We can understand their hurt pride. We are sure though if pole sitters would be allowed to stay away from school, that there would be more boys as willing victims, than all the available poles could accommodate.

We think Mrs. Mansel Taylor must have known child's nature pretty well when she left the interest of $5000 to be spent each September for new shoes for the children of a Chicago Home. No wonder it is more looked forward to than Christmas or the Fourth of July. No rusty half worn shoes but bran new. For children love pretty things. We were in a fashionable church some time ago when a procession of orphans girls came in with their teachers. They were all comfortably clothed, second hand clothing given them by charitable persons, no doubt. A very stylishiy dressed young woman came and sat near them. One little thing with beautiful wistful eyes turned to look at her. Never have we seen a more admiring gaze. She seemed literally to devour the pretty clothes with her eyes with a childs longing to own them.

The new Waldorf Astoria will be many stories high. Some people are even talking of having air planes land at the different floors as it will be quicker than the time worn elevator.

By Zeppelin

The lady of the long ago
When knighthood was in flower,
For brave Sir Lancelot's gallant steed
Watched from her ivied flower;
The maiden of a later date
Gazed down the highway far,
To see the dust that heralded
Her lover's motor-car.

But lo! the girl of present times
Looking up with eager eyes
To scan the blue infinity
Of wide uncharted skies;
She watches for a wonder-ship
Of silver speeding in,
Bringing her best-beloved, for now
He comes by Zeppelin.

Minna Irving.

A GOOD SPELLER

The bookkeeper was peevish.
"What's wrong?" asked the boss.
"Why, he said, "that pretty typist you insisted on engaging spells atrociously."
"Is that so? She must be good. I couldn't spell it."

BOY LOST SATURDAY NIGHT

The police department together with a number of merchants of Chestertown were busy Saturday night trying to locate the parents of a little four year old boy who was found on the street.

The little boy's parents had come to Chestertown to shop and had left him asleep in the back of the car. The bright lights and crowded streets awakened him and he climbed out of the car to look for his daddy and mamma. In the meantime the parents returned to their car and returned home thinking the boy was still in the car.

He was taken to Noland's store and put in the window and amused with a supply of candy and cake. All efforts to find out who he was revealed the fact that his daddy was a Mr. Robinson and he lived on a hill. A colored man, who stated that he knew all the Robinson children living in the vicinity of Still Pond, failed to recognize him.

The hour was getting late and although the little fellow appreciated the kindness shown, he could not hide the fact that he wanted his daddy. As a last resort he was carried up and down Main street to see if he could recognize his daddy's car and during his travels an automobile came racing down the street and the cry of Daddy ended the search. A reunion was held much to the relief of all concerned.

The daddy was a Mr. Robinson, of Georgia, who is employed as a fruit pack at the fruit farm of Mrs. Evelyn Harris, near Betterton, and had been in the county about a week. He had not missed the boy until he arrived at the Harris' farm, after which a record trip was made to Chestertown. Among those who took care of the little boy were Messrs. Conlyn Noland, Carl Bordley and officer Samuel Cooper.

PLANS BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR NEAR FUTURE HERE

The Old Kent Chapter D. A. R. has announced a second student loan for women students at Washington College. The first student loan is already sending a girl through the local college and an applicant for the second loan has been made.

The Kent Chapter is planning for its ninth annual birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. William G. Smyth. Many of the State officials of the D. A. R. are expected for the anniversary celebration.

The first autumn meeting of the Kent Chapter was held last Saturday at the home of Miss Katie Trew, with Mrs. Charles Skirven, Regent, when plans were discussed for the birthday affair.

DEMUR FILED IN TOWN CASE

A demur has been filed by Mr. Harrison W. Vickers in the case of Mable S. Baker vs. the Commissioners of Chestertown for $25,000 damages as a result of the death of her daughter, Mae Apple in an automobile accident in Chestertown.

The demur is scheduled to be opened next week at Elkton. Mr. William Pepper Constable is the resident attorney with Mr. Vickers in the case. Mr. L. Wethered Barroll, of Baltimore, is the attorney for Mrs. Baker.

It is removed that Mr. Appel, father of the girl, from whom Mrs. Baker has been divorced, has employed an attorney and is attempting to become a plaintiff in the case and claim damages along with Mrs. Baker.

COL. LEONARD TAKEN TO SCRANTON

Colonel Ivers Leonard, of Kent county was carried from his home on Lankford Bay to Scranton, Pa., on Friday in a Navy ambulance air plane, where he will undergo treatment at Dr. Davis's hospital in that city.

Colonel Leonard, a retired army Colonel, has been very ill at his home and his condition would not warrant his being moved that distance in an ambulance. Arrangements were made for the plane this week by his brother-in-law, Mr. H. T. Hartman and the Navy plane, which is the only ambulance plane in that service, made the trip from Norfolk to Washington on Wednesday. It arrived in Lankford Bay yesterday morning and the patient was carried to the plane on a stretcher in a row boat. A very graceful takeoff was made and the plane landed in a large reservoir near Scranton. Dr. Davis, who will treat Colonel Leonard, was in his company in the world War.

—E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles has announced that the Maryland license tags for 1930 will have a green background with white numerals and lettering.

DONATION TO HOSPITAL FUND

A material donation to the Kent and Upper Queen Anne's county hospital was received this week by Mrs. Dr. Charles Whaland when the Royal Swan Club, of Betterton, composed of a number of wealthy men of Philadelphia, agreed to furnish the beds for the hospital at a cost of approximately $2,400. Mrs. Whaland stated that the beds furnished will be the best and most up-to-date that can be bought. The offer also included the marble steps for the hospital. This is a handsome donation and will carry the subscriptions well over the $40,000 goal.

The hospital committee on location have selected a number of sites and sub committees have been appointed to see the owners of the various properties with the purpose of securing options.

The committee on incorporation have obtained copies of corporation papers of other Eastern Shore hospitals and are now busy preparing papers of incorporation for the local hospital.
