DATE FOR TURKEY TOUR

The annual Turkey Tour in Kent County, Maryland, will be held on Thursday, October 17th. This date was chosen on Thursday at the meeting of the turkey growers at Chestertown.

Present plans vary the program of former years to some extent. More farms are to be visited. Farm flocks, as well as the specialized turkey farms will be studied. It is planned to visit seven farms spending a half hour net time at each place. The grower to mention brieftly the plan used in producing the birds and to answer the questions. No speech making is contemplated on the tour. At a later date a banquet will be served and the speeches made in cnnection therewith.

Last year a thousand people followed the tour with much interest. It is expected that a like number will again avail themselves of the opportunity to see at first hand the methods that have been responsible for the rapid developmen of the turkey industry in this and adjacent counties. Visitors from nearby States usually accompany the tour.

There is much of inspiration and instruction on a tour of this sort, many practical ideas and devices will be noted. Variation in conditions will reveal the ingenuity of the growers in adapting the method to fit conditions. New standards as to quality of breeding stock will be set. Perplexing problems may be solved through the discussions. Inspiration to discard old methods and to get in step with the more efficient methods will justify many in making the tour.

In the event of bad weather on Thursday the tour will be held one day later. It will be noted that the date set, October 17th, is three weeks earlier than last year.

HISTORY OF THE CATLIN-PEARCE HOUSE IN CHESTERTOWN

(COMMUNICATED)

Messrs. Editors:

A short time ago I read in some paper of the sale of the "Catlin-Pearce" house, and in the account were some errors which I would like corrected. For instance it was stated that my father, the late U. S. Senator James A. Pearce, built it. The house was more than half a century old before my father was born, in 1810. I have a full account which was copied for me, by my brother, Judge Pearce, which he copied from the Court House records. The first notice is the residence and dwelling of Nathaniel Hynson, October 30, 1735. It passed through several hands and in August, 1759, it belonged to Dr. Wm. Murry, grandfather of Miss Caroline Thompson, of Chestertown. In 1767 Dr. Murry sold it to Thomas Ringgold, Jr., an ancester of my mother, who was also a Miss Ringgold before she married my father.

Thomas Ringgold and his father and mother were buried in the garden and I had them moved to the cemetery.

Thomas Ringgold, Jr., in December 1807, sold it to Samuel and Tench Ringgold for Richard S. Thomas. Mr. Thomas, in 1811, sold to Mr. Isaac Spencer, grandfather of Mrs. Lottie Roberts. At his death his executors sold to Mr. James Barroll, grandfather of Hopewell H. Barroll, March, 1836. Mr. Barroll sold it to my father in September, 1857. The house was then 119 years old.

My father died in 1862 and left the house to my mother during her life and then to my brother. I bought it from Judge Pearce December 23, 1889, and sold it to Mrs. Catlin in the fall of 1916. Miss Caroline Thompson, an authority for many things, said my mother's ancesters, the Ringgolds, built the front of the house.

I cannot agreed that the grounds are at all improved, the old colonial garden has entirely disappeared and the beautiful trees and box wood taken away. There are no longer wide grass walks, and an old resident would never know the garden as the same.
