TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

"GOD WOT."

A garden is a lovesome thing, I know—
The folks who visit mine all tell me so.

A thousand times I've heard—I knew it, too—
That larkspur is a heavenly shade of blue;

That roses are the sweetest flowers seen;
The lawn's a velvet carpet, soft and green;

That pansies have an almost human air
With faces like our own. My guests declare

That gardens must of all things be most fun!
I wonder have they ever tended one.

Pushing a lawn-mower is a dreary way
Each week, all Summer long, to spend a day.

Oh, how a back can ache when crying need
Of smothered plants means bending, hours, to weed!

What evenings spent in dragging heavy pails
To thwart the drought when dripping hose-length fails!

And heavy on the mind, both early, late,
Lies the necessity to cultivate.

A garden may of all things be the best.
From mine, October brings me blessed rest!

BLANCHE REBECCA MORE.

"Let us have peace" must have been the sentiment of the vast crowd who welcomed the Peace Ambassador from England and his fair daughter. As one says. "Man in the collective form should conquer the natural law of killing. Let us spread around us the great sea of peace."

We, who are fond of working puzzles, but are rather inclined to put them down when our briny friends join us, for fear they will think us silly and wasting time, will be g[lad] now that there is a big organiza[tion] as "The Puzzler's League of A[merica]." They not only solve puzzles but m[ake] them. Among the members are James M. Beck, Secretary Trent and other bright minds. They say the advantage of working out puzzles is that it keeps men interested and youthful and it fights off boredom, the great enemy of the human race.

A Drug store dealer almost started a riot in front of his store last week. He was painting a sign in front of his store when he was called off by a customer.
Hearing a great noise in front of his store, he went out and found a crowd of children struggling to get in. But it is free!" they cried. He looked up and found that his sign read "Ice cream free" as he had been interrupted before he could add "zers."

Perils by land, perils by water, perils by air, but the greatest is perils to the pedestrian.
It is true he has no rights, that he ought not to be on the street. Will not some inventor make moving elevated platform that will carry these poor unfortunate to the place where he would be?

"Why the thunder didn't you signal what you were going to do?" demanded the angry he-motorist.
"Because I couldn't make up my mind what I wanted to do, and I wasn't going to give you the wrong signal and chance a smash-up," retorted the lady driver, haughtily.

"When our dreams come true." How often we hear the sweet notes of the song on the radio. And we wonder if the dreams are not walking dreams of all we hope to accomplish and all we wish to have in the Some Day Land.

Some Day Land.
From the Washington Star
We look to the West in the twilight,
With purple and gold on display.
While the sun leaves a lingering high light
On the beautiful land of Some Day.

And westward, still hopefully turning.
We gaze on the lingering ray
Which tells of reward of our yearning
For the beautiful land of Some Day.

TURKEY POOL CARDS

AUTUMN

Glorious windy Autuin Days,
Red leaves flying in a maze
Up and down the sun drenched street.
Why Autumn days just can't be beat!

Blue the sky as sapphires bright,
Orange shines the moon at night;
Sparkling waters dance with glee
In their emerald majesty.

Spicy smells the fragrent air,
Ruddy glows the grape and pear;
Sunny days and moonlit nights
Make up Autumn's festive rites.

TO REOPEN OLD ST. PAULS

Old Saint Paul's Church which has been closed for the greater part of the summer, will be re-opened tomorrow, Sunday, after having been thoroughly repaired and painted. The interior has been freshly decorated and the edifice now presents a most attractive appearance.
The walls of this church were built in 1711 and are in excellent condition having been faced up several years ago.
Recently while digging a grave in the rear of the present building an old wall was descovered. This wall is made of large field stones and is believed to be the foundation of the original frame church which was built about 1693. As the top of this wall is only six inches below the ground, an effort will be made in the spring when the ground is soft to locate the boundaries of this old foundation and mark it. The first Vestry of Old St. Paul's church was elected in 1693.
The re-opening will be a very happy occasion for the congregation and a special service will mark the event. The service will be: Holy Communion at eleven o'clock at which the Rector will officiate and the special preachers will be the Rt. Rev. George W. Davenport. Bishop of Easton.
The following is the order of the service.
Processional, "Christ is made the sure foundation."
Hyrie Eleison, Gounod. Gloria Libi, Gounod.
Hymn, "O Heavenly Jerusalem."
Sermon, by the Rt. Rev. George W. Davenport, D. D.
Offertory Solo, "Open the gates of the temble," by Mrs. Owen S. Selby. Sanetus, Garrett. Aqueas Die, Garrett.
Gloria in Excelsis, Old Chant.
Nunc Dimittis, Stainer.
Procesional, "For thee, O dear, dear country."
A cordial invitation is extended to all by the Rector, Vestry, and Congregation.

LIVESTOK SHOW IN BALTIMORE

TO INTEREST STATE IN BEEF CATTLE PRODUCTION

Those thinking of beef production as a means of marketing home raised feeds without the labor incident to dairying, will be interested in Livestock Show to be held in Baltimore, October 22-24. Here they will see hundreds of feeder steers of varying ages and degrees of flesh. These steers will be judged so that beginners may observe the types that meet the modern requirements. This show is the means of bringing into Maryland suitable feeder steers. The rating of the various car loads is of great educational value to those just entering beef production or contemplating beef production. There is undoubtedly place for beef cattle in Kent County, not in competition with dairying, but as a supplement to dairying and a of getting away from straight corn and means of getting away from straight corn and wheat farming.
Another phase of the show is the 4-H Club Baby Beef Roundup. Here the baby beeves raised in six Maryland Counties will be brought together for competition and sold. It will also afford opportunity for 4-H Club Members to buy calves to feed over winter, which is a more desirable time for steer feeding than during the summer, if suitable feed is now on hand. Any club member interested is beef animals world do well to attend the Show and see the feeder calves and steers, also the finished baby beeves as presented by the 4-H Club Members.
Doubtless another Roundup will be held next May at which the feeders secured at this show may be brought together to measure progress made by adult and 4-H Club feeders.
The County Agent stands ready to accompany a group of interested Kent County Farmers to this Show. Those desiring to go should notify him.

—Mrs. Evelyn Harris is advertising in this issue for Keifer pears. Her advertisement will be found on page 5.

WILL POOL KENT TURKEYS

ENDEAVORING TO ORGANIZE SHORE TO KEEP PRICE STANDARD

Following the letter of information and instruction sent out by the Extension Service, return postal cards have gone out from the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County. These cards ask for information concerning the number of turkeys each grower will have for shipment at Thanksgiving and at Christmas, with the estimated average weight of each bird. The card explains that all expenses, including grading, handling and package, will be pro-rated among members on pound basis, keeping the overhead as low as possible.
Any turkey grower in the county or on the Peninsula is eligible to take advantage of the marketing methods upon joining the Growers' Assn. County Agents on the Shore have been notified of the plan and urged to form a similar organization or come in with the Kent growers in order to obtain a more uniform price for turkeys. It was found last season that further down the Shore buyers were able to purchase birds at such low prices that it hurt the price standard of this northern section considerably. Northern buyers are showing an interest in Kent's plan and several letters have already been received inviting business through commission houses. The bidding plan is hoped for an in order to attract satisfactory bids the number of pounds of birds to be offered is essential, therefore growers are urged to use the cards and return as soon as possible to the secretary so the statistics may be forwarded to possible bidders.
Any one who has not received a card may have one on application to the office of the Chamber of Commerce in Chestertown.

Coleman, of Chestertown, is resting comfortably at Easton hospital following an accident on West high street near his home. He was struck by an automobile driven by Mr. Charles Porter about 5 p. m. Tuesday at the corner of High street and College Ave. An Xray examination showed that his leg was broken in three places. Witnesses to the accident stated that it was unavoidable. FACTORY LABOR TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

Response to the advertisement of last week has been excellent and is indicative of the need of a factory which will employ high class labor in this territory. A meeting of prospective workers, members of the Chestertown Mercantile Section of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Purnell Elburn, proprietor of the Rock Hall Manufacturing Company, is set for Tuesday evening, October 15 at 7.30 p. m. at the Court House. Every lady interested in obtaining work in the shirt factory, if established in Chestertown, is urged to be present.
Mr. Elburn is considering Centreville and the question of the quality of labor will decide his locat[ion] either in Centreville or Chester[town]. Chestertown can certainly supply quantity but as experience counts in the quality of obtainable workmanship, it remains to be seen which community can offer the best. Mr. Elburn can secure a splendid building in Chestertown and everything done by the Mercantile Section and other business interests to help present an attractive solution of the problem of locating a branch factory of the Rock Hall plant, he[re].
