TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

BRIGHT CHALLENGE

There is new copper in the sky these days,
And on the looping hills a smoky haze
Kisses the flaming leaves of trees, unfurled—
The gallant banners of a dying world.

So, too—when Autumn frosts life's warmth for me,
I want to go, like some straight vivid tree,
Flaunting life's crimson banners swift and high
Against an Indian Summer's copper sky.

HELEN CRUM.

Talk about isolation! how can America be isolated from other countries these days when we can clearly hear voices from Paris and London. At the dinner given to MacDonald, the Prime Minister of England by the Committee of Foreign Relations in New York, his speech was heard by his countrymen as well as the listening world in this country? So far the premier has done what he said he had come to do, to make the great ocean between us smaller and easier to cross.

There is an old saying, "Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are." In these days of dieting in order to reduce you must be a very small potato indeed. Perhaps that is why in England they have revived old fashioned cooking, the food which was fed to Shakespeare, Ben Johnson, Marlowe and others of that period. In Markham's "English Housewife" published in 1615 we read. "Onions boyled and stript from their rind, "and served up with vinegar and oyl "and pepper, is a good simple sallet, "so is samphere, bean-cods, asparagus and cucumber." And again in a recipe for pancake there is little attention paid to quantity; "Take two or three eggs "and break them into a dish and "beat them well; then add unto "them a pretty quantity of fair running watter—thicken with wheat flower." But most of the recipes were of the different ways of cooking meats. And so the old essayists and poets were well feed with flesh. Boyled meats and banqueting cover much of the book. But we know too that Shakespeare died suddenly after eating a full meal. Mother Goose does not tell us whether Jack Sprat or his wife was most brainy. We would like to know.

Lindburgh has surely been a discover; first in making his daring flight to Paris and then in discovering ways and means to foil the reporters' eager search for news about his wedding. Now he has started on a new track. Flying over mountains in Colorada and sighting beautiful palm trees there, and then going to the old Maya settlements in Yucatan to fly over the ruins of old temples and houses which long ago has been claimed by the jungles. When we read of these old ruins we see them in our minds eye, a prosperous country loving people. Who they were and by whom overcome is still a mystery.

"Winds of the Desert"

Winds of the desert, speak to me
Tell me the things you know;
Was this a land of roses and palms
Once in the Long Ago?

Did caravans come with jewels and silks
For ladies of high degree?
Did barges with sails of purple gold
Drift by on a sapphire sea?

Did cities with towers and minarets
Rise white in their stately pride,
Where the lonely Joshua tree now stands
And the skulking coyotes hide?

Winds of the desert, speak to me,
Tell me the things you know—
You and the palms and the Joshua trees,
Out of the Long Ago.

CLARA GREENING CREAGER.

Do you ever feel let down when after you tell a good joke some one says. "I've heard it before?"

He Had the Floor.—

Whatever trouble Adam had,
No man, in days of yore,
Could say when he had told a joke,
"I've heard that one before."

—The New Outlook.

COLORED MAN SHOT HERE

Arthur Coleman, colored, of Chestertown, was shot just above the heart Saturday night and is now in Easton hospital where it is thought he will live. The colored man who is accused of the shooting is still at large and all efforts to locate him have failed. As far as can be learned his name is Sam Jones but commonly known as Shorty. He is originally from Virginia but was brought to Kent county from Baltimore during the harvest season.

FAMOUS BROADWAY MUSICAL COMEDY AT NEW LYCEUM

High-Priced Marx Brothers Stage Sensation At Popular Prices At New Lyceum

Praising "The Cocoanuts" is like giving an endorsement to June sunshine. Beyond question, it represents one of the greatest accomplishments of the talking screen.

"The Cocoanuts," which will show at the New Lyceum on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 24, 25 and 26. The New Lyceum is showing this great picture as a special feature of its First Anniversary.

Here is the method of musical comedy brought to the screen, all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing, all-laughing. If the lovers have a song in mind when they are in conversation, they sing it. If the chorus feels like interrupting the action with one of their dances, they skip right out. And through it all, the Marx Brothers, the world's four funniest men, the most high-powered and popular comedy team on the Broadway stage, twist a gay thread of laughter.

"The Cocoanuts" is the Marx Brothers great stage hit which played New York at $6.60 for one year. The music was composed for the original stage show by the king of composers, Irving Berlin. Berlin added a new theme song, "When My Dreams Come True," for the screen presentation and Oscar Shaw and Mary Eaton, in the romantic leads, sing this tuneful melody.

The setting is the picturesque seacoast playground of Florida, reproduced with lavish beauty and boundless imagination. Groups of beautiful girls make up the dazzling chorus and the photography introduces many unique and surprising effects.

Laugh come so fast they are always stepping on one another's heels. "The Cocoanuts" is a laugh-show from start tofinish. It is all the distinctive Marx brand of humor, turning from the absurd to the ridiculous, from the semi-sanity to complete lunacy.

SEADROME PORT SUCCESSFUL

Actual construction of the first seadrome, a structure of steel and concrete, 1,100 feet long and 200 feet wide, costing $1,750,000 and weighing 38,000 tons, riding 90 feet above the waves and carrying on its floor hotels, shops, hangars and storehouses, will be started early in December at the plant of the Sun Shipbuilding Company at Chester, according to the expectation of Edward R. Armstrong, of Holly Oak, its inventor.

This was his announcement at Cambridge, Md., following the launching of his experimental model which is 35 feet long and weighs 2,200 pounds. The preliminary experimental tests which followed the launching, and which will be continued for the next three weeks, gave sufficient evidence of the feasibility of the invention to warrant Mr. Armstrong in making his prediction about the building of the completed seadrome. If the seadrome proves successful, seven similar ones are to be strung across the Atlantic for the airline to Europe which is planned by the Armstrong Seadrome Development Company, in which the du Pont interests are reported to be associated.

A hint of the manner in which the seadrome may ride even hurricane wave in the Atlantic was given just after the model had been launched and had been floated free of the dry dock.

W. C. ANNOUNCES FIRST COTILLION

The Washington College Cotillion Club will hold its first dance on October 25. In previous years these dances have proved very enjoyable to the people of Chestertown who have found it possible to attend. The dances this year promise to be even better than they have been before.

Glenn Morris and his Joy Boys, formerly of Simpson and Morris, will furnish the music for the October dance. This orchestra plays regularly at the Mt. Holly Inn in Baltimore and the Cotillion Club of Washington College is extremely fortunate in securing them for its first dance.

MOTORISTS MUST KEEP TO THE RIGHT

The campaign by the State police against motorists who fail to drive to the extreme right on wide thoroughfares will be continued, Capt. Harry C. Butler, commander of the police force, said yesterday. Already more than one hundred motorists have been arrested for failure in observing this law, he added.

A mortorist passing another machine must swing back to the right immediately afterward, according to the ruling. It is hoped by officials that this law, which was passed by the past session of the legislature, will prevent sideswiping and minimize accidents generally.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOUSE

Fire destroyed the residence on the farm of Mrs. Isaac Dixon, occupied by Mr. Marion Ireland and family, near St. James Church, on Thursday night of this week. The property was formerly the Edwards farm.

When Mr. Ireland awakened about 10.30 p. m. the entire rear of the house was in flames, supposed to have started from the kitchen chimney. There bting no telephone in the home Mr. Ireland went to the house of a neighbor and called the local fire company, the active members of which had just returned to their home after a fire drill and demonstration at the fire house. When they arrived at the scene and found the house enveloped in flames they kept the outbuilding wet with a bucket brigade and the booster system. Fortunately the wind blew the sparks at an angle that kept it from falling on the outbuilding as the well water system went dry when pipes in the house burst. Late water was pumped from a nearby stream and the fire extinguished to a point where there was no danger of spreading before the firemen left. Sandwitches and coffee were serve at the fire house by the ladies auxiliary at 2.30 a. m.

The loss is estimated at $3,000. A small part of the furniture was saved.

ALL MILK AT BASIC PRICE

Announcement was made this week by the Interstate Milk Producers Associaton, whch handles the bulk of milk shipped from Kent county, that all milk shipped by dairymen that all milk shipped by dairymen during October, November and December will bring the basic price.

The basic for the coming year, in years past, has been established by the average bulk shipped during the months of October, November and December for the past three year period. The announcement this week stated that this year the shipper may take his choice for establishing the basic for the year beginning January 1st, 1930. His basic may either be established by the average milk delivered during the months of October, November and December of this year, or the average delivered during these three months for the past three years. This new method of establishing basic will help those dairymen whose shipment of milk last fall was small due to the slaughter of many dairy cows during the T. B. Test.

This announcement, together with the 25c increase for basic milk established last spring is of importance to local dairymen.

BLACKLEG APPEARS IN COUNTY

Blackleg, a disease dreaded by dairymen has appeared in the vicinity of Smithville, according to a statement made this week by Dr. G. Allan Jarman.

The diagnosis of the case was made from a speciment, sent to the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Depart of Agriculture, by Dr. Jarman and the report from that department stated that the specimen showed the presence of blackleg organism.

A prevenative of the spread of this disease, which is fatal to calves from three months to two years old, is vacination and it can readily be controled by this means.

NEW ASSESSMENT

The State Tax Commission on Friday announced its decision in the matter of the assessment of the Conowingo dam properties of the Philadelphia Electric Company. The Company gains a reduction of $1,741,438.

The valuation of the Commissioners of Harford County, who had assessed that part of the dam and other utility property in the county at $18,000,000, was set aside and the assesment reduced to $12,023.633.

The figure of the Commissioners of Cecil County, who had tentatively assessed the propery in that county for $4,000,000, also was changed, the assessment being raised to $8,234,929.

Hearings on the taxable basis of the property owned by the company at or near the Conowingo site on the Susquehanna river were held before the commission last June, and the testimony of many experts was heard. Since that time the Commission has given the subject deep study, and has set the assessments as given above.

Mr. Dukes' car, it was reported, collided with that of Rigby Stafford, of Sudlersville. Mr. Stafford was painfully but not seriously hurt. Both cars were demolished.

An investigation of the accident was made by members of the State police force. A coroner's inquest, which was held, exhonorated Mr. Stagord of blame for the accident. Mr. Dukes was a son of a former Sheriff of Caroline county and was related to the Dukes family of Kent County.
