TURKEY TOUR A BIG SUCCESS

"SOME TURKEYS CERTAIN"—A COMMON COMMENT—SEVEN STATES REPRESENTED

The Third Annual Kent County Turkey Tour was an outstanding success. Seven States were represented in the visits to eight (8) flocks where many high class birds were on exhibit as proof of the merit of the modern method of turkey rearing. Representatives of three farm papers made the tour and will discuss the merit of Kent's turkeys in their respective publications.

It was a speechless or talkless tour, with a very full schedule which was carried out to the minute. Those seeking information interviewed the growers and secured the maximum of information in the minimum of time. Keen eyes noted the clever adaptations of the modern plan. Many ideas were carried away to be applied in neighboring counties and states.

Visitors to the County were most agreebly surprised at the extent of volume of the turkey industry. Comment was heard relating to the fine farming selection covered in the tour.

Tours of this sort are stimulating as well as educational. Standards are set, methods are compared. Inspiration is gained. One lady from Jersey with 400 turkeys at home stated she would sell all her birds and buy in 50 hens and 7 toms to put her efforts on a higher plan.

The ladies of the Worton M. E. Ladies Aid served a fine lunch in a most satisfactory manner. They deserve thanks for the efficient part they played in making the tour a success. Thanks are due the growers for entertaining the large crowd of visitors, totaling 800 to 1000.

Former Kent County Agent H. B. Derrick, now county agent for Baltimore county, brought a large delegation from that county.

KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Thomas Skaggs, aged about sixty years, was instantly killed and his companion, Raymond Francis, about the same age, was probably fatally injured Sunday about 5 p. m. when the automobile driven by Sbaggs, struck an automobile driven by Mr. Edgar McGinnis' car on the hill at Fredericktown, and crashed into a deepditch and turned over.

Both of the men were residents of Townshend, Del. and were traveling from Elkton to Chestertown when the accident occured. Skaggs lost control of the machine as he was decending the hill and hit the end of Mr. McGinnis' car going in the same direction.

Doctors were summonsed but Mr. Skaggs was dead when they arrived. Mr. Francis was taken to Union hospital, Elkton in the Kent county ambulance by Dr. H. G. Simpers and Mr. R. Clarke Davis and the latest reports state that he is suffering from lacerations, a broken nose and jaw and a fracture of the skull.

MOVE TO CREATE MARKETING BODY

Creation of a marketing organization similiar to those of the California growers and packers again is being sponsored by agricultural interests in Queen Anne's, Kent and Talbot counties, it was learned this week.

According to interests promoting the organization increasing competition in every line of the agricultural industry is making unification of production and selling imperatve, if Shore farmers and canners are to survive.

Formation of the cooperative association has been informally discussed for some time in the central counties, and, with Agriculture in more or less of a stagnant state it is believed by many that the proper time has come for launching of an enterprise which might control output and advertise the products of the peninsula.

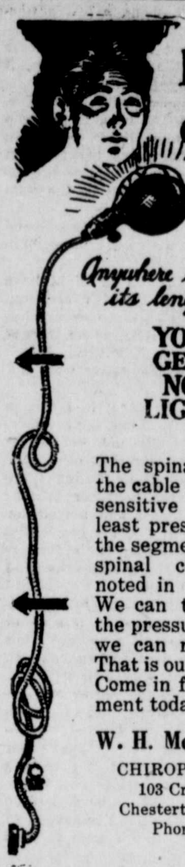

The first effort to merge the canning plants in Queen Anne's with those of others on the Eastern Shore was attempted in 1915 and since then several meetings have been held looking toward some sort of consolidation. In 1922 and again in 1923 it was thought by the packers that the formation of a selling organization embracing virtually all the canning plants on the Delmarva peninsula has been completed and the majority of the factories in the territory were audited and appraised. The plans fell through, however, when New York financiers arranged a financial set-up which contained concessions to which many of the canners were not willing to agree.
