BRIDGE WORK STARTED

Work on the new Chester River bridge started this week when work on a temporary approach on the Kent side was started.

The surveyors of the State Roads Commission have driven a line of piling across the river on the north side of the bridge which will be used to establish the line for the bridge. The center line of the bridge will be 70 feet south of this line of piling.

Work is expected to start on the making of concrete piling shortly by the Raymond Concrete Pile company. This company will also drive the piling. They own what is reported to be the largest pile driver in the world and it is understood that this driver, will be used at Chestertown.

In the meantime a series of test piles will be driven across the river to determine the nature of the bottom. Construction ativity will continue throughout the winter.

FAVORS RED CROSS ROLL CALL

STATEMENT BY BRIGADIER GENERAL FRANK T. HINES DIRECTOR, UNITED STATES VETERANS BUREAU

The American Red Cross is one of the agencies recognized under the World War Veterans Act for the purpose of assisting claimants in submitting their claims for compensation and other benefits to the Veterans Bureau.

The Red Cross has been most helpful in assisting ex-service men in presenting their claims in proper form so that they can be expeditiously and intelligently acted upon by the Bureau. Their work in the hospitals in providing recreational facilities and entertainments has contributed much to the moral and physical welfare of the patients. They render aid to the uncompensated veteran and his family, an das an agency dealing with the problem of veterans relief has been most cooperative and helpful. For these reasons, I feel that their request for public support in their annual roll call is meritorious.

FIRE DAMAGES KENNEDYVILLE HOME

The interior of the home of Mr. James T. Caldwell, was badly damaged by fire Sunday morning of this week, and only by hard work on the part of neighbors and Chestertown firemen was the home saved from being a total loss.

The house had not been occupied for two weeks and when the fire was discovered by neighbors it had made considerable headway. Residents of Kennedyville formed a bucket brigade and were doing good work but the timely arrival of the Chestertown Fire Company with the chemical hose saved the building as the bucket brigade had reached a point where they could not reach the fire. Someone called the Rock Hall and Millington Fire companies, the former was stopped at Fairlee and told the fire was out. Millington stood by for a further call.

—A giant dirigible, supposedly the Los Angeles, passed over Chestertown about 7.30 Tuesday night. The airship was flying so low that the outline could be plainly seen. It was headed toward Annapolis.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

LAST LEAVES

October chants a litany
Of florid leaves and brown.
A litany as long as life
It scatters through the town.
The air is like a carving knife
And coldly cuts them down.

October says her rosary
Of maples on a hill.
I hear her yellow whisperings
When skies, to North stand still.
Her burning crucifix she flings
In thin, white smoke at will.

This litany of lonely leaves,
Will mercy have on me,
When I shall take November's hand
Beside a vacant tree.
Its grayness I shall understand
From dead leaves' litany.

PEGGY REID.

Now that November is here the golfer is laying aside the club and all the slogans of golf such as "Faint heart never won a club tournament;" "A golfer is known by the handicaps he keeps;" golfers should be seen and not heard;" and has taken up the gun to slaughter the unsuspecting ducks that have come to feed upon the bounteous supply of corn and celery which is put there to tempt them. The ducks have, however, several methods of revenge, first in choosing the stormiest days for the shooter's sport thereby giving their slayers rheumatic pains. and also, by making their flesh so tempting that they are sure to overeat and have indigestion. so it seems that "those whom the God's wish to destroy they first make hunters."

There was a sight that delighted the heart of the lover of beauty the other day; a man sowing grass seed in our poor denuded park. It has been distressingly bare of grass all summer, though the trees cool greenness and the campfire girls have added as well as the campfire girls who much to its beauty by planting flowers in the old fountain and making hat a pleasant sight to the eyes. With the new bridge, clean streets, a well cared for park and active Fire Co., we may hold up our heads as proud of our community and our town.

He Paid for it.

From the Boston Globe

In a country store about two evenings a week, at a certain time when Mr. Peck was alone in the store, a man in the neighgorhood would come in with a can for 10 cents' worth of coal oil. While Mr. Peck was in the cellar filling the can, this man would help himself to two 10-cent cuts of plug tobacco.

I called the old man's attention to this on one occasion, says a correspondent and he explained it by saying that he cut the plugs and had them ready for the man, that he worked them in on his account, that, otherwise, this man was a good customer, and if he did not think he was actually stealing this tobacco why, he would trade somewhere else.

No Such Street

From the Topeka Capital.

A damage suit was on trial in County Judge Thomas's court the other day. The jury had been duly empaneled and the taking of testimony was in progress. Clyde Parker was questioning Dr. McCreery, who was on the witness stand, when the following took place:

Mr. Parker—Where did the car hit the man?"

Dr. McCreery—at the junction of the dorsal and cervical vertebrae.

Jerry Zeller, foreman of the jury, arose in his place and said: "Your Honor, I have lived in Hugoton for many years; I am a member of the City Council and I never heard of any such streets. I believe this is a made-up case."

Have you seen the new floor and painted wall of our library room? Newly catalogued books arranged on bright painted selves add much to the cherfulness of the surroundings. The club is working to get a new heating plant as the present one is too ardent to make things comfortable even in freezing weather. Let us all do what we can to help the club in their efforts to make the room more comfortable.

Contentment.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer

Contentment is the cricket's chirp
The kitten's purr,
The wagging tail of hound or cur;
The crackling log,
The song-birds lay,
The welcome home at close of day;
The twilight lull,
The setting sun,
And knowledge of a work well lone.

Edna Barrett.

FOR ARMISTICE DAY

(YOU ARE NOT DEAD)

BY ALICE MATTHEWS

You are not dead, the evening gloom
Closes around my darkening room,
And there it seems, in this sweet place,
We meet Beloved, face to face.

Some tidings came, a streaming line,
Within my Soul a light doth shine,
I've made right there a wireless station—
A little house of revelation.

You are not dead, step by step so—
Tyranny—torture or dark woe
May at your body—had its fling;
But living ears now hear you Sing.

Over roof of Time you build
And so—my heart with peace is thrilled—
You are not dead—so unafraid
I follow your great cannonade.

GAME SEASON OPENS MONDAY

The open season for rabbits, partridge (quail), wild turkey, ruffed grouse, English ring-necked pheasant, woodcock, squirrel and dove, will be ushered in on Monday morning, November 11th; the law provides an open season on same, November 10th to December 31st, inclusive. As the opening of the season falls on Sunday, November 10th, and our law prohibits hunting on Sunday for any species of game, the season will open Monday, November 11th.

However, there are other provisions regarding the hunting of doves. The Federal regulations provide a season closed after December 15th and supersede the State law. The same applies to woodcock; the Federal regulations provide an open season November 10 to December 10th and supersede the State law; therefore, it will be unlawful to hunt doves after December 15th or woodcock after December 10th. There will be no open season on squirrel or dove in Allegany and Garrett Counties until October 1, 1930.

There is a closed season on wild turkey and partridge (quail) in Garrett County until the lawful open season for hunting same in 1931.

The open season for ruffed grouse herein quoted namely: November 11th to December 31st, applies state-wide, except in Garrett County it is unlawful to hunt ruffed grouse except between the dates of November 11th and December 1st, inclusive.

There is a closed season on deer throughout the State, except one male deer with six-inch antler may be killed during the season in Allegany County and on the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club in Washington County, between December 1nd and 15th, inclusive, and in Garrett County between December 2nd and 3rd, inclusive.

We have received numerous inquiries relative to a disease which appeared in rabbits in 1927, known as tularemia. For the benefit of the public, I wish to state that during the summer and fall of 1927, we received hundreds of reports from different sections of the state, from farmers and others, to the effect that dead rabbits were being found in the sets. We received some reports in 1928 to this effect. However, we have not received a single report from any section of the State during the summer and fall of 1929. The State Board of Health have treated five cases of tularemia during 1929 and we advise the public hunting and killing rabbits to use every precaution possible and in skinning the rabbits to use rubber gloves as a preventative from contracting this disease.

JIMMY FOXX BANQUET WEDNESDAY.

Arrangements all have been completed and the majority of the 235 tickets have been taken for the Jimmy Foxx banquet at Sudlersville next Wednesday evening.

The banquet is being tendered by the Ladies- Aid Society of Calvary M. E. Church and will begin at 8 p. m. at Cox's Hall.

Allan Walls, of Sudlersville, will be the toastmaster for the evening. Music will be furnished by the Sudlersville orchestra. A number of speakers will make addresses among whom will be the Rev. Claude Clark, pastor of Calvary Church.

Invitations have been extended to Connie Mack, owner of the Athletics, and he has indicated if possible he will attend the banquet. Twenty-five players associated with Foxx during the last few years also have been invited and are expected to be present.

FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET IN EASTON

The annual meeting and exhibit of the Peninsula Horicultural Society will be held in Easton, in the Armory, on Thursday and Friday, December 5th and 6th. The president of the Society is Wm. Mason Shehan. The body is made up of the fruit growers of the Eastern Shore and Delaware, and is supported in part by the two state governments.

The exhibits of fruit will be very exceptional, and as is the usual custom this fruit may be bought locally after the exhibit is over. There will be twenty classes, which will include all kinds of fruits and will also include potatoes, cabbage, celery, lettuce, beets, onions and many other vegetables.

During the two days sessions there will be addresses by well known fruit growers and officials from the state colleges. The displays of fruit will be open to the public and every courtesy shown to those who visit the show.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED IN PERJURY CASE

Sentence has been suspended against Gordown Swift who was found guilty of Perjury by falsely stating the age of Emma Cohee when applying for a marriage license in Chestertown last spring.

The Court sentenced Swift to eighteen months in the House of Correction, but sentence was suspended this week when W. D. Cohee, father of the girl, who made the charges against Swift, petitioned the Court to parole Swift.

It is understood that Swift who gave his age as 48, is going back to live with his youthful 15 year old bride. The sentence was suspended under the condition that Swift was to behave himself.

REMOVING ROCK IN KENT ISLAND NARROWS

The removal within the next thirty days of some 800 yards of rock ledge will complete the channel project through the Kent Island Narrows.

In 1915, the Secretary of War made an unfavorable report to Congress on the proposed improvement of the Narrows. In December 1915, Mr. T. Alan Goldsborough introduced a bill providing for a preliminary examination of the channel, which was included in the Rivers and Harbors Act of January 11, 1927. Subsequently, the examination having been completed, the District Engineer made an unfavorable report to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors. Mr. Goldsborough arranged for an appeal, and a hearing was granted in February 1928, which was attended by a delegation of representative business men, shippers, oystermen and oyster packers. A favorable report to Congress was made, and an appropriation for the work authorized. Dredging of the channel was started in April of this year.

The new channel, which is more than a mile in length, seven feet deep, and 100 feet wide, will increase many times the traffic through the Narrows, will shorten the distance between Baltimore and some points on the Eastern Shore, and will save waterman and vessels from all parts of the State many miles.

CAN YOU BEAT IT

Lieut. Gov. Bidwell Adams, of Mississippi, in his fishing skiff, was dragged eight miles out into the Gulf of Mexico by a huge devilfish—and then the Lieutenant-Governor got away. (From the Boston Globe.)

NEGRO AND DEPUTY WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Will Waters, colored, is in a serious condition in Emergency hospital, Easton, suffering from two pistol bullet wounds received Saturday night in a struggle with deputy sheriffs after he had gone on a rampage with a shot gun and terrorized the uptown colored section.

Acording to a report of the affair, Waters, arrived with a shot gun, took charge of the up-town colored section and his authority was not disputed by the inhabitants of that section. His activities reached from the northern to southern end of Santiago and one of his orders that was promply complied with was that the night watchman on the locomotive leave his post.

His reign was brought to an abupt halt when deputies Jester, Cooper, Lee and White, acting on a warrant sworn out by Ollie Briscoe who charged Waters with shooting at him, went up town to look for the bad man.

They went to his home and upon entering found him standing in the stairway with the shot gun ready for action. Deputy Jester tried to sieze the gun but Waters fired wounding the Deputy in the hand, and then swung the gun to shoot Deputy Cooper but the stairway was not large enough to get the gun around. Deputy Cooper drew Waters outside the house and when the colored man attempted to shoot again Mr. Cooper shot him twice and then rushed him with his night stick. A tussel followed in which Mr. Cooper hit him on the head a number of times but this failed to subdue him and when Waters held the stick the old lumberjack game of stomping him in the face with the foot was resorted to until he finally gave up.

Deputy Jester and Waters are now in Easton hospital where it is reported that Mr. Jester will loose two fingers and Waters will probably get well.

Waters is reported to be eighty years old and has spent a goodly portion of his life in Maryland Penal institutions. He is being held under the charge of assault with intent to kill, the maximum penalty for which is 15 years imprisonment. His house was searched and twelve half pint bottles of whiskey as well as several gallons in a keg.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEER WORKERS

If the work done by Red Cross volunteers in Maryland were summed up in terms of hours at the prevailing wages, the result would do credit to a large industry. In the last year, the women who have given of their time in public service in this state produced a total of 7,640 garments for the needy, in addition to 16,977 surgical dressings.

These figures relate to only one branch of volunteer activity. Besides the making of garments and surgical bandages, these Red Cross volunteers knit sweaters and caps for veterans in hospitals, who are not provided with these comforts by the Government. Volunteers keep records for and help nurses in the weighing at child welfare stations. They put up jams and jellies for the sick, drive motorcars to bring crippled children and others to hospitals and to give convalescing veterans out of door trips, and perform other transportaton services for the chapter. They type books in Braille for the libraries of the blind. They act as hostesses for hosptal recreation services and write letters for the sick. In time of disaster, these volunteers are active in every form of service.

In the last year, Red Cross volunteers throughout the country made 210,088 garments prepared 3,244 articles for emergency closets for Red Cross chapters made 2,959,304 surgical dressings, served over 20,000 persons in canteens, answered 29,545 calls for the motor corps, made 40,380 Christmas bags for men on military service in the American insular possessions, sides duplicating 36,210 pages of Braille for libraries of the blind, besides duplicating 36,21b pages of Braille by the Garin process.

RECEIVES POSTOFFICE APPOINTMEMT

Mr. Fred S. Russell received the appointment as assistant postmaster in the Chestertown postoffice this week. The recommendation was made by Postmaster William G. Smyth several weeks ago and the official appointment was received Monday.

Mr. Russell has served as a rural route carrier out of Chestertown for the past 21 years, during which time he took a prominent part in forming the Rural Carrier's Association. He fills the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Frank Elburn. Mr. Ridgely Brown is acting as temporary carrier until a permanent appointment is made.
