LOCALS TO PLAY FOR SOCCER TITLE

LOCAL SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY FOR SHORE CHAMPIONSHIP FRIDAY

The Chestertown High School soccer team, having won the championship of the northern section of the Eastern Shore by defeating Perryville team at Chesapeake City Monday 6 to 1, will play Easton, champions of the southern section on Friday of next week. This game will entitle the winner to play the Western Shore champions for the state title. At the time of going to press the place for Friday's game had not been decided between Centerville and Denton. It is thought likely that the game will be played at Denton.

The game on Monday between Perryville and Chestertown was never in doubt and at the end of the first half Chestertown was leading 4 to 0. Perryville scored its only point with a penalty kick in the second half and Chestertown scored two more points. It is hoped the locals will have a large following next Friday.

—Federal prohibition agents raided the premises of Charles Jarrall, of Queen Anne's county, near Millington, this week where they reported having found four stills in operation and also a quantity of mash. Jarrell was arrested. While investigating premises in Kent county, a man by the name of Lloyd, of Queen Anne's county drove up in an automobile and a gallon of alleged liquor was found in the car. Lloyd was ordered to appear at the Denton Court.

—Announcement is made in this issue of the opening of a Christmas sale of jewelry, etc., at the store of J. S. Kreeger on Cross street. This Christmas opening event starts today and will continue for one week. See advertisement in this issue.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

A HYMN OF PRAISE

BY ALICE MATHEWS

Love's bounty see we all around
A harvest truly of content;
And blessings many, too, abound,
And so our hymn of joy is sent
Up to the Father all a blaze
With hallowed love and hallowed praise.

Thanksgiving preparation show
How all within love's house contrive
To keep their gratitude a glow
With hymns the Soul of man can prize:
And each hour through, love e'er prolongs
Its faith and Hope and joy in songs.

For Autumn in white words of frost
Spreads everywhere seasonable praise,
And not a leaflet low is lost
These thriftful rich November days
That does not join in horn like note
With our Thanksgiving hymn a-float.

Then here's to neighbors, tried and true,
And here's to friendships, old and new:
Sweet voices all, come join in song,
A festival of praise full strong.
We want sent upward high to Heaven,
Our thankfulness for this day's leaven.

Though it is cold and the frost is on the ground, we saw a funny sight this morning, a little bird with a huge feather in his mouth. It seems to be holding converse wth another just its size. Just then a puff of wind, and away the feather flew. Down came the bird and caught it in his beck. And we wondered if he were asking advice of his companion about building a home thus early.

What a busy active scene is going on down in the erstwhile quiet domains of Water street. Everything is bustle. We are already seeing in fancy the white structure finished. And then we will have to say goodby to the old bridge that has been with us so many years. What romances were begun in walking over it, what heavy loads it had to carry.

"And I thought of the many thousands,
Of carefull women and men;
Each bearing their burden of sorrow,
Have crossed the bridge since then."

We were passing over a bridge far from here sometime ago, and in the hollow by its side were countless automobiles, or rather their carcasses. When asked about it some one laughed and said; "Oh, that is an automobile graveyard. And there they lay in all stages of ugliness and we wondered how long ago were they bright and new. What a pity they cannot be buried out of sight.

OLD CARS

Like toppled broken beetles
We leave them by the road,
In lots beside old houses,
In a guich or wood.

The seasons leave them changeless;
Years seek more brittle bone.
The difference is a morning
Finds two instead of one.
Humped and toothless widows
In their fusty black,
They find the earth's doors bolted
Against their going back.

Happier ships by far
That sink and win to glory
Than cars secure on land
Denied both death and story.

HELENE SEARCY PULSE.

Reasons Enough

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Why are you so opposed to my marrying Jim?" demanded daughter indignantly.

"In the first place," declared her dad, "you are not strong enough to take in washing and you don't know anything about keeping boarders, and, in the second place, my salary isn't large enough to stand another lazy son in the family."

Charles Lamb, in his delightful essay on Roast Pig tells us how the love for it originated. He said a man, on returning to his home found it on fire. He was not able to save it, but in poking among the ruins he saw the leg of his pig sticking out of the ashes. He pulled it out. Such a delightful smell! he tasted it and then hastened to tell his neighbors. In a short while every house in the village was on fire, as they chose roast pig rather than a home. Again we lean.

That the secret of making mashed potatoes was discovered by a twelfth century monk, who placed a baked potato between the leaves of a book as a bookmark and left it in a chair while he left the room, and who found upon his return that somebody had closed the book and sat on it.

—Governor Ritchie has appointed Mr. Samuel B. Shanahan, Editor of the Easton Star Democrat a member of the Board of Governors of Washington College. Mr. Shanahan will be a valuable addition to the interests of this venerable educational institution.

THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING BIRD

Another Thanksgiving has passed with its customary way of praise and thanksgiving for the many blessings conferred upon us by an all wise and merciful providence.

Henry Ward Beecher said, "If one should give me a dish of sand and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with all my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them, but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction!

"The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour, some heavenly blessings—only, the iron in God's sand is gold!"

And Lillo has written, "When thankfulness o'erflows the swelling heart, and breaths in free and uncorrupted praise for benefits received, propitous Heaven takes such acknowledgement as fragrant incense and doubles all its blessings."

So a thankful heart is not wholly a giving heart; it receives a blessing by reason of thankfulness, even to the doubling of Divine consideration.

Thanksgiving, like some other festivals of the Christian year, such as Easter, Christmas, Whitsuntide, and others, are looked upon merely as holidays; merely as a time when there is a cessation for awhile from our daily toil, and a consequent indulgence in some sort of recreation. Many of us do not look further than at our own pleasure and welfare, and are neglectful in remembering the Source of all man's real happiness here below.

We, of this section, are specially blessed. We enjoy the comforts of a salubrious climate, good crops, freedom from Earth's upheavals, devastating storms, and inundating floods. The health of the community is good, and many people live here to a ripe old age. Abroad, the country is free from war, no pestilence nor famine, and general prosperity is in evidence. Does it all happen by mere chance? It there no benevolent Hand passing out the comforts of life? Think of this and render thanks to the Source of all good. As Gesner says, "Best of all is it to preserve everything in a pure, still heart, and let there be for every pulse a thanksgiving, and for every breath a song."

MEETING OF TURKEY GROWERS

A special meeting of the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County will be held at the Chamber of Commerce office on Wednesday, December 4, at 1.30 p. m. This meeting wil take the place of the regular monthly meeting in November which was ommitted due to the fact that it was scheduled for the day before Thanksgiving when nothing more could be learned about the Thanksgiving market and the after Thanksgiving prices had not yet been considered.

It is hoped that prices from buyers will be submitted by December 4th for the period between Thanksgiving and Christmas so that the Growers will be able to discuss the advisability of accepting what may be offered.

Turkeys sold as low as 30 cents per pound alive outside of the organization just prior to Thanksgiving. Better cooperation is needed to avoid such sacrificial selling. One buyer's offer of 42 cents per pound, dressed, was refused by the Association and after shopping around New York the buyer came back with a 45 cents offer which was accepted. The order was small but proved to the organization that when once our local birds have been used a buyer is spoiled for much of the sort of birds found in the markets from the west and southwest.

Results of the consignment shipped by the organization will no doubt be on hand by the time the special meeting is held and will probably decide for the growers the worth of such shipments when other offers are not forthcoming.

PETTING PARTIES OFFICIALLY APPROVED

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 23.—Chief of Police Donald Marshall, of Oakland, officially placed the stamp of approval on petting parties in an order today to all precinct captains to "stop harassing couples in automobiles at night."

Said Chief Marshall:

"A few policemen in an un-officer-like fashion have crept upon parked automobiles with their flashlights to surprise innocent men and women innocently making love. They have been told to "move on" when as a matter of fact they have violated no law."

"This harassing of people parked on our roads has got to stop."

—An important meeting of the Chestertown Parent Teacher's Association will be held Wednesday, December , 1929, at 8.15 at the High School building, Chestertown.

HEALTH NOTES.

ADVISES HEADS UP

"As the frosty days come, the temptation to shut out the air and slump into warm quarters is so general that it would be a good thing if each of us could develop as pronounced an appetite for fresh air as we have for our favorite foods and then should insist with just as much vigor upon having that appetite satisfied. We know when we are 'food hungry' but half the time when we are drowsy or droopy, we don't realize that what we are really suffering from is 'air hunger,'" Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said, in stressing the importance of deep breathing, fresh air, and good posture, as aids in keeping fit.

He continued, "out of a total of 3,755 children from five to seven years old who were examined by the Bureau of Child Hygiene during the spring and summer months, in preparation for their admission to school, 252 had marked postural defects. That was one out of every fifteen. Much of the bad posture of young children is due to undernourishment not from lack of food, but from poorly balanced meals. Much of the bad posture in the older boys and girls and in grown-ups is due to habitual slouching or slumping, contracting the chest, taking in an inadequate supply of air, getting into bad habits of sitting, standing and walking.

"A good many of our daily dozens' call for a round of breathing exercises at an open window, in the early morning. This is thoroughly worth while, but we don't want it to end there. Deep brathing should be a habit. For the effect of deep breathing is cumulative, like the house that Jack built. You cannot breathe in deeply satisfying your hunger for fresh, clean air, and sit or stand in a slouchy position. To enjoy to the full, your draught of fresh air in doors or out of doors you have to hold your head up.

"Almost unconsciously, this brings the whole framework of the body into better position, shoulders back, chest out, abdomen flat. This in turn gives greater room for expansion of the lungs, free action of the heart, and better circulation of the blood, insures better digestion through the toning up of the muscles supporting the whole digestive apparatus. In other words, deep breathing helps to tone up the whole mechanism. It has another effect, it tones up the courage and self respect of the individual who habitually practices it.

"HEADS UP! Try it and see for yourself what happens."

WATERS WAIVES HEARING

George L. Pembleton, of Baltimore, colored lawyer, representing Will Waters, was in Chestertown on Monday and waived the preliminary hearing scheduled for that night.

The case will be tried during the April term of Court. Waters was taken to the Baltimore City jail this week where he will be held until court convenes. This action was taken due to certain threats he has recently made and the inability to keep him under solitary confinement in the local jail.

POULTRY SHOW, MILFORD, DELAWARE

The Delaware State Poultry Association is holding its annual Poultry Show on December 3, 4, and 5, at Milford, Delaware. The Premium List and Program indicate that attendance at this show will be worthwhile.

Kent County Poultrymen should be thinking of an Organization and a Poultry Show. Why not visit the Delaware Show, realize the many merits of such a show then come home and get busy.

Caroline County has a County Poultry Asociation and recently held a very successful and instructive show. Why not Kent?

GOAT GETS OWNER IN COURT

Why does a goat cross the road?

A chicken, it is said, crosses the road to get on the other side, but this particular goat, owned by Joseph H. Murphy, crossed the road in order to eat up the grass and vegetables growing on the premises of Mary A. Finch, Elsmere, Del., To this the woman objected since the goat make a habit of doing it, during the past week visiting her property on Monday, Thursday, and Friday.

Murphy was arrested on a charge of allowing a goat to run at large. Living on this side of the highway. Murphy is considered a citizen of Wilmington, while the woman, whose home is on the other side, is considered a citizen of Elsmere.

However, Murphy was fined $5 on the charge, since the court ruled that the goat, in attempting to get on the woman's property, had to cross the road, and the road is considered a part of this city.

ON TO THE INTERNATIONAL LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION

Any Kent Countian interested in seeing "the last word" in livestock should arrange to be in Chicago November 30th to December 7th, 1929. During these days "the International" is held. Some 12,000 head of the choicest livestock (horses, cattle, sheep and swine' will be on show and in competition.

The big Hay and Grain Show is on at the same time. The Poultry and Turkey show is on at the same time, but not in the same buildings. Many organization meetings are held at this great meeting place. Some 1500 4-H Club Members will be in attendance, competing for generous prizes. It will be remembered that last year Albert Goccke, a twelve year old Iowa 4-H Club boy won the grand championship with his club baby beef steer when it was shown by his seventeen year old sister who competed with the best showmen in the game.

Thrilling sights and experiences await any and all who can attend. The International has well been called an "Eight-Day University." It is hoped that a number of Kent County farmers may attend.

BOOSTER NEWS

WHAT HAS THE CHESTERTOWN VOLUNTEER FIRE COMPANY DONE?

Many ask this question who are not familiar with the Company, but when you ask some who, away back in the seventies, what they did and how they fought fires, and compare with the steady increase in proficiency of the present company you will say that they have accomplished much and then some.

When the Jarrell home on Washington Avenue was destroyed, the pressure without an engine of any kind was so low as not to be able to throw a stream of water more than ten feet.

The hose had to be hauled by men, who when they reached the scene were completely exhausted. Occasionally, a team would haul the hose, but not often. And then came the Hook and Ladder. Oh My, what a job Hills were like mountains and blocks like miles.

Since those days the Company has grown rapidly, until at present they own three (3) engines, fully equipped, and recently added to the equipment a Fomon Equipment for oil fires and an Inhalator for persons overcome with gas, smoke or nearly drowned.

They not only render service in the capacity of fire fighting, but also drive, house and operate the Kent County Ambulance, and these men drive day or night without the least compensation.

And in reference to the ambulance, let it be known, the Fire Company contributed $600.00 of the purchase price and also contributed $807.25 to the Hospital Fund with the promise of enough more up to $1000.00, providing they can have a room named after the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company. Such, is a few things that have been accomplished by the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company and if given a further chance, more will follow.

With the above liberal contribution on their part, one may ask the question, are they not entitled to the full support of the community when they make an appeal? Hence, come on, be a Booster.

A GOOD RUNNER

HOW A VIRGINIA MAGISTRATE DISPOSED OF AN AUTOMOBILE CASE

Winchester, Va., Nov. 23—John Patrick Kelly, 19, Scanton ,Pa., never knew he could run so fast until faced with a six-month jail sentence here late yesterday. He had been arrested on complaint of Strasburg, Va., authorities, who wanted him in connection with an automobie case, and was being held in jail for them.

He had not been in the jail more than several hours when Sheriff Pannett found him digging a hole in the wall. Arraigned on a charge of attempted jail breaking, Kelly was sentenced to six months on the State roads.

The youth turned deathly pale when sentence was pronounced. Justice Weems relented and told Kelly that the West Virginia State line was nine miles away, and that if he could get across in an hour's time he could go. Meanwhile, he had been cleared of charges at Strasburg.

Kelly accepted the court's offer and soon the youth could be seen making a bee-line toward West Virginia. Local police gave him the benefit of the doubt as to whether he crossed in an hour's time, but they said he seemed to be doing his best.

QUEEN MARY LAUNCHES CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES

SO BUSY AT NEEDLEWORK GUILD SHE DOESN'T STOP FOR LUNCH BUT HAS SNACK SENT IN

London, November 5. (AP)—Queen Mary, who returned to Buckingham Palance from Sandringham with the King yesterdayfi lost no time starting her Christmas activities.

Hardly had the court settled down in the palace before the Queen motored to the Imperial Institute, where her needlework guild is functioning. Removing her hat and coat, she put on an apron and dust cap and began to unpack parcels and sort out goods. She was so busy she didn't stop for lunch had a snack sent in from the palace. Then she and her helpers had a bite in the screened-off part of the big hall and returned to their work.

—The old Hynson home on Front street, Chestertown, was sold on Tuesday of this week at public sale by Messrs. R. Hynson Rogers, Morris K. Barroll, L. Wethered Barroll and S. Scott Beck, Attorneys for the owners. Mr. George W. Baldwin purchased the home for $6000 and Mr. Philip G. Wilmer purchased the garage property for $2100. It is understood that Mr. Baldwin will convert the home into an apartment house.
