THE TRANSCRIPT

NO WONDER THAT Washington exclaimed in his perplexity, when he was being urged by friends and beset by foes, that he would rather be dead than to be president. Although Hoover has often said he would not care to be president unless there were problems to solve; he has found himself surrounded by a veritable hornest's nest. The quiet complacency of Coolidge, in not dealing with any of the leading questions of the day, but calmly letting them pass by, has left his successor with loads of unfinished business to attend to, the tariff reform which was so readily promised during the campaign to help the farmers, has been used by the big interests to their advantage, and the farmer is still discontented; the Jones Act which was approved by Coolidge is left for Hoover to handle, and it has proved, so far, a mammoth task; the Senate, always jealous of any interference by the executive, is on its mettle; and on the strength of all these comes the collapse of the stock market and the consequent financial depresion. The fire in the Executive offices of the White House, although only an incident in the life of the president, brings added responsibilities. So it seems that the year 1930 will bring to the President all the problems he wishes and many schemes for him to engineer through.

SPORTS OF WEEK

LOCALS BOW TO PRINCETON

Washington College basket ball team was unable to break through the strong defense of Princeton on Wednesday evening and lost by a score of 29 to 23.

Almost from the very start Princeton took the lead and the locals were unable to decrease this lead more than four points. The first half ended 17 to 13.

From a spetcators viewpoint Washington College has been beaten by a better team, yet had the locals scored a fair percentage of their foul shots the score would have been different. Eleven out of twenty two tries at foul shots failed while Princeton successfully completed 13 out of 16 chances. Giraitis the scoring ace for the locals was stopped by the careful guarding of the Princeton teams and efforts to work the ball under the basket could not penetrate the guarding of their opponents. Most Princeton's goals were made from outside shots.

The game was an interesting one and the Loyola gymnasium was filled to capacity. It is hoped that this contest will be an annual affair.

When Washington College opens next Monday following the holidays Coach "Chief" Beatty, former University of Maryland lacrosse star and assistant athletic director here, will begin preparations for the second year of lacrosse at the Eastern Shore school. Last fall Beatty took his candidates for a stiff working out daily in the ancient Indian game with Captain Tom Warthen, of Belair, leading the stickmen and next week will see the beginning of indoor and outdoor workouts. Meanwhile Graduate Manager Fred Dumschott is arranging an attractive card and it is believed the veterans remaining from last year will be an exceellent nucleus around which a sucessful squad may be built up.

Chestertown High School sports are beginning to look up as Coach Harry Russell sends his dribblers through intensive practice sessions in the college gymnasium and local scholastic rosers are pointing toward the Shore championship in spite of the loss of four veterans by graduation. Only Captain Hodgson and Aldy Clements of the experienced men remain. However a body of local yearlings, former members of the Boy Scout five, are coming along nicely. Included in this material are Rees, Beck, Nickerson, Rinehart, Johns, Falls, Wright, Vickers and McMahon, first and second string men on the Scout outfit. Pippin, a senior, and Crew and Brice will be of service before the season wanes. Oxford High will be met away the night of January 10 and several games will be an excellent nucleus around Athletic League tourney starts.

Miss Marie Bryan, former Goucher College Athlete and coach of the highlet girls here, is organizing a basketball squad and their first setto will be a preliminary game when the boys engage Oxford. Practice will begin next week and it will be the second year for girls' basketball here when an attempt will be made to take the Shore scholastic title.

—Bees, flies and wasps were flying around on the streets of Chestertown Thursday with the themometer registering between 60 and 70 degrees.

—The Swarthmore Chautauqua will come to Betterton this year, March 14th to 17th, 1930. The communities of Betterton and Still Pond get much pleasure from the programme brought by the Chautauqua.

Nerve Supply

No organ or part of your body can function normally if the nerve supply is partly cut off. In 90 per ct. of diseased conditions that is what has happened, and the part of the skeletal frame where this happens, is along the spine, which is composed of twenty-four movable segments called vertebrae. These small bones become out of proper alignment with each other and disease is inevitable. This fact was discovered by Dr. D. D. Palmer, naturalist and philosopher in the year 1895 and by him given to the world. It now numbers its adherents by the thousands and gaining fast in popularity in the minds of thinking people everywhere.

I am a practictioner of this science and if you are sick or ailing in any way it should be of interest to you to investigate my work. By calling at my office I will gladly clear up any question that may not be clear to you.
