SIDEWALK ON NEW BRIDGE

Chester River bridge may again become a rendezvous fo rstrollers when the new bridge is built. Before the advent of the automobile a walk across the bridge was very popular for the morning exercises, the afternoon walker and the moonlight stroller but the automobile came along with its glaring headlights that has made it dangerous for the walker and annoying to the stroller.

The new bridge however will have a five foot walk that will be extended to Front street that will be raised above the motor traffic and safe for walkers.

42 of the 256 piles have been driven and work is rapidly going forward.

VALENTINE PARTY

A very enjoyable Valentine party was given by the Fairlee 4-H Girls' Club, at the home of the local leader. The evening was spent in playing quiet games, and a cabinet social with a sucker and comic valentine at the end of each string. The table was decorated with large red hearts and small hearts to form a large heart on the tablecloth.

Refreshments were served by the club, consisting of ice cream, heart decorated and shaped cakes, cream puffs, and candy.

Those present were: Mesdames Fannie Usilton, C. Romie Skirven, Walter Morris; Misses Louisa Travers, Helen Schellinger, Louise Ackerman, Virginia Miller, Miriam Reinhart, Elizabeth Elliott, Estelle Stavely, Beatrice Berger, Margaret Hendrickson, Barbara Bigelow, and Ellen Anne Christopher; and Mr. Parsons.

The purpose of the party was to entertain all who took part in the plays, or helped with them. We regret very much that all could not be present.

SLAG ROAD FOR WORTON POINT

Mr. George B. Muth and Mr. Jesse Maxwell appeared before the County Commissioners on Tuesday and Mr. Muth offered to buy the slag if the Commissioners would lay it on the road from Pinder's corner to the end of the public road at the Rock Point farm gate, now known as the Haine's property. The offer was accepted by the Commissioners and it is expected by the Commissioners and it is expected that work will start shortly. The length of this piece of road is approximately a mile and a quarter.

A crew of men are trimming trees and cleaning up the woodland on the Haines property, this being one of the farms on which Mr. Muth has an option.

It is understood that Mr. Muth has stated his intention of buying the farms, on which he has an option, and that an initial payment has been made.

VERY PLEASANT AFFAIR

"Sewing for the heathen," a Comedetta given under the auspices of the Womens Auxiliary and directed by Mrs. Thomas Perkins given at the Emmanuel Parish building on last Tuesday evening, was a very pleasant affair. The eight women in the cast were so busy making flannels for the heathen in Central Africa, that their households were sorely neglected.

The following were in the cast: Mrs. Neal A. Truslow, Mrs. E. Clarke Fontaine, Mrs. R. Hynson Rogers, Mrs. William T. Brown, Mrs. W. J. Stenger, Mrs. James G. Beck, Mrs. Thomas W. Perkins and Misses Hope Wickes and Ada Schreiber.

Meely the maid managed to mix up everything in a very amusing manner.

The singing by the quartette, Mr. A. L. Sparks, Mr. Thomas Perkins, Mrs. W. W. Chapman and Mrs. W. J. Stenger was very much enjoyed as well as recitation by Miss Helen Tyler and the saxaphone solo by Mr. Fetter.

CANDIDATES CARD

I wish to announce myself as a candidate for Treasurer of Kent County, subject to the Democratic Primaries in September.

I have been a life long Democrat. I ran for Register of Wills against Mr. Samuel Caldwell in 1921. I was defeated by him but worked hard for his election the following November.

I have served in the poll rooms at Worton, Kennedyville and Betterton.

Was a delegate to the State Convention in 1922.

f22. HARVEY B. MOORE.

Candidate for
TOWN COMMISSIONER

William A. Burk, of 312 Cannon St. is a candidate for Commissioner of Chestertown. We, the tax payers in this block, want some improvement and if William A. Burk is elected, he will make this improvement and pay for it himself. This will leave him free to vote on any measure that may come before the Board.

WILLIAM A. BURK.

Candidate for Re-election as
TOWN COMMISSIONER

Having been solicited by a large number of citizens and tax payers of Chestertown, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election as town commissioner, subject to the will of the majority.

I have tried to work to the best interest of all as far as circumstances would permit. Election Monday, April 28th, 1930.

JOHN W. BARNES.

TRANSCRIPTIANA

GEORGE WASHINGTON

ALICE MATHEWS

O You, a-peering down the years
As your birthday again appears,
I wonder if you happily see
This growing land, America,
And watch the work You started here
In wider fiercer sweep appear,
Than when You gave your all to raise
This Country's freedom where true praise
Might rest firm fashioned at the heart
And never, never more depart.
We've passed through rough storms in review,
And marched to war tunes truly too
Since You departed from the Earth
And left a blazing trail of worth,
Still do we follow your firm tread
Your foot steps ever on have led!
Rise mighty Day, on which we brag,
By loud "hurrahs," let's wave the flag
To Washington!

Mother Shipton's prophesy is being revised again. Now it is quoted:

"The world to an end will come,
In nineteen hundred and thirty-one."

The last one that we heard of is. "The world to an end will come. In eighteen hundred and eighty one."

In that year, many lived with the fear in their hearts that the year would be the last one, and breathed a sight of relief when 1881 bid them good by.

Often women have gone to their clubs, feeling superior to their husbands who do not take advantage of their opportunies.

A Kind Word for Mere Man.

A Vassar teacher advises club women to give a thought now and then to improving their husbands.

"Ladies in your various clubs,
Spare some uplift for your hubs,
Though perhaps they may be dubs.
While the dollar they pursue,
They may yearn for culture, too.
Share with them, I beg of you.
Strive their darkness to illumine.
Possibly they lack acumen,
Still, remember, they are human."

The fashion shows have revealed that this season will revive the styles of 1830, that most romantic age. We are wondering if, with the long dresses and very feminine apparel, the old feeling of reverence for the female by the masculines will be revived, if the valentines will be lace covered things with abundance of hearts and tender verses, from the sender. There is such a feeling of comradeship between the sexes now that they have no time for romance and sentiment. Will it be different with the change of dress?

A little boy, Eddy Chadwick, was crying because he could not learn his letters and a friend of his father's who was visiting the house at the time came up and, in a little while, had written and illustrated the whole alphabet.

Near by Eddy lived a little boy Wiliam McCready. A friend of William's father's wrote him a poem. it was 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin."

Mere scraps of paper they were, but the writers were Thackery and Browning. Now these scraps are more than a gold mine to the families who own them. Many have offered to buy but they refuse.

Opposition from the Platte.

"Says Senator Norris of Neb.,
In accents as frosty as Feb.,
'I figure that Charles Evans Hughes
Is hardly the man we should chughes,
So I firmly refughes to enthughes."

Prosecuting Attorney—Your honor, the sheriff's bull pup has gone and chawed up the court Bible."

Judge—Well, make the witness kiss the bull pup then. We can't adjourn court for a week to hunt up a new Bible.—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

The Retort.

From the Boston Transcript.

Father—My son, every time you are bad I get another gray hair.

Son—Honest, dad? Gee, you must have been a corker. Look at grandpa!

We are all hoping that the disarmament conference will be wise enough to do away with war?

National pride and national fear cost the taxpayers of the world four and one-half billions of dollars a year for armament alone. The figures are Chancellor Snowden's. They help to show what an insufferable luxury war is. It hogs the parlor and the best bed. It consumes so much of the household income that science and art and education and peaceful industry are half starved. And it opens the door to its pal, poverty. You'd think the family would have found a way to give this old incubus a good bounce long ago.

"Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we meet would say,
"I know something good about you,"
And then treat us just that way?

W. C. WINS TWO STATE GAMES

BALTIMORE UNIVERSITY AND ST. JOHNS VICTIMS OF LOCAL TEAM

Washington College took two steps up the ladder to the state championship by defeating Baltimore University on Saturday of last week in Chestertown and St. Johns at Annapolis on Monday evening of last week. Both games were very interesting matches.

On Saturday night Washington College jumped into the lead and held it throughout the game although this lead ranged between four and seven points until a few minutes before the final whistle when they increased the lead to eleven points. Reamer, guard for the visitors was matched by Jeritis, and he apparently went into the game with the idea of getting Jeritis's goat, he did, and although he was soon put out of the game for four personal fouls, when he left the floor Jeritis had three against him. The trick worked well although it would probably been received better by the fans of seven years ago as it does not conform with the clean sportsmanship that prevails among college sports of recent years. The visitors, however, failed in their belief that with Jeritis out of the game and close guarding of Dobson the rest was easy, as Alexander caged eight field goals and Stevens accounted for three. At the end of the first half the score was 24 to 19 in favor of Washington. The final score was 45 to 33.

At Annapolis Monday night Washington defeated St. Johns 26 to 19 in a game that both teams played on the defensive end. The first half was more than half ended before either team scored five points. The first half ended 10 to 7. In the second half Jeritis scored a few long shots and an occasional field goal by both sides brought the final score to 26 to 19. Dobson may well be called the star of the game in his guarding of McCartee, St. John's scoring ace. McCartee's scoring has been the outstanding asset for the Johnnies, but he could not break through Dobson's guarding.

Mt. St. Mary's was the opponent on the local floor last night and at the time of going to press, Washington was picked to win.

FORTY LEAVES REQUIRED TO PRODUCE FULL-GROWN APPLE

How many leaves are required to produce food enough to develop a full-grown apple? This is a question that has attracted the attention of horticulturists in the United States Department of Agriculture for several years because of its relation to the practice of thinning apples and pears. Latest results of experimental work carried on with the Washington Experiment Station, at Wenatchee, Wash., indicate that from 40 to 50 well-formed leaves are necessary to develop the fruit and furnish the necessary amount of food reserve for the growth of the tree.

In the experiments it was found that a smaller number of leaves per fruit would produce a fairly satisfactory crop for the year in question but would not produce enough fruit buds for a full crop the following year. There is a fairly definite correllation between number of leaves per fruit and the size of fruit until the ratio reaches at least 40 to 1. While the size of individual fruits increased with greater leaf surface the increase in fruit volume was not proportional. In other words, thinning the fruit increases size but decreases total weight of fruit per tree.

To increase production, the experiments indicate, it will be necesary first of all to increase the amount of foliage per tree or per acre. To secure regularity of production the quantity of fruit produced per tree must be sufficiently reduced through thinning to allow the development of fruit buds which results only from an accumulation of food materials after the needs of the fruit have been met. To obtain maximum food development in the leaves a steady supply of moisture must be available throughout the growing season.

The experiments referred to were conducted in irrigated orchards in the Pacific northwest. Where there is a shortage of water through the latter part of the growing season a large number of leaves per fruit is required.

DANCE AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE

The women students of Washington College gave a valentine party at Reid Hall on Friday evening. It was a very enjoyable affair.

—Some very fine pictures at The New Lyceum Theatre every night next week, don't miss them.

CALF CLUB BANQUET FEB. 28, 1930

The Banquet Committee of the Kent 4-H Clover Calf Club is hard at work completing the details for the turkey banquet to be served on Friday, February 28th, at 6.30 p. m. at the Chestertown High School.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church are in charge of the dinner, which fact assures the success along the "eats" line.

Among the speakers will be E. G. Jenkins, State Leader of the Boys' Clubs and J. A. Conover, Dairy Specialist in the Extension Service. Some of the boys will speak on different phases of Club Work.

The details of the program will be completed soon. Indications are that this banquet will be on the same high plane as in previous years. A large attendance of folk interested in the 4-H Calf Clubs is anticipated. The invitations to the banquet were mailed early this week.

TOM THUMB WEDDING

The wedding of "Jennie June" and "Tom Thumb" was solemnized at Christ M. P. Church last Thursday evening. By special request it was repeated on Friday evening. The wedding was presented by group No. 1, of the Ladies Aid. There were more than forty participants. The cast follows:

The bride and groom, Naomi Russell and Horace Needles; The Bride's maids, June Maslin, Marylyn Lancaster, Mary Emma Chaires and Henrietta Gill; Maid of Honor, Elizabeth Wheatley; Best Man, Jack Newnam; Flower Girls, Jane Goss and Doris Pinder; Ringbearer, Jimmy Bringman; Minister, Charles Dole; solo, "O Promise Me," Sarah Dodd.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Ray Kirby.

The Ushers were Jack Nelson, John Gill, Harry B. Nicholson, Jr., and Norman Carter, Jr.

Mother and father of the Bride, Betty Barnes and Ray Kirby; Brother of the Bride, Francis Needles; Mother and Father of the Groom, Margaret Ann Turner, and Carroll Clift; Brother of the Groom, Edgar Pyle.

The guests were as follows: Harriett Gill, Vernon Downey, Vera Downey, Hope Rawleigh, Nellie Bexley, Ida May Brown, Sarah Baxter, Ellen Hogan, Estelle Beaver, Miriam Sewell, William Waddell, Henrietta Brown, Anna Smith, Sidney Brown, Dean Groves, Allen Gill, Nina Ford, Thomas Robinson, Mary Landon Russell, Charlotte Russell, Kitty Bringman and Ruth Adams.

MAKES EIGHTY-FOURTH TRIP

The Kent County Maryland Ambulance made its 84th trip this week having carried 89 sick and injured people to hospitals in Easton, Elkton, Baltimore, Wilmington and Philadelphia. The ambulance was purchased by public subscription, which was about three fifths of the cost and the remainder was donated equally by the Chestertown Rotary Club and the Chestertown Volunteer fire company. The fire company houses and operates the ambulance and the financing is arranged by a Board of Control, made up of various civic organizations of the town and county. When first organized, this Board of Control adopted a policy of financing the maintenance by donations from those who used the ambulance, expecting to receive donations ranging from a minimum to the full cost of the trip. The users of the machine, however, have failed to show their appreciation through this voluntary contribution plan. While a very few have made donations, there are very few who could not make some contribution and only through the donation of the Holt Oil Co., of all gasoline and oil used has the ambulance been able to continue operation. The services of the drivers and assistants are given free, which is an outstanding service to the community, and it is hoped that the users of the ambulance will appreciate this service however small the donation may be.

COUNTY GROWERS ELECT OFFICERS

The first annual meeting of the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County was held on Wednesday, February 19 at the Court House for the election of officers.

The meeting was well attended and those present showed a spirit of enthusiastic cooperation and optimism.

The first president of the organization, Mrs. H. M. Baker, gave an interesting report of the activities of the year's work. Much of the progress of the turkey industry in undoubtedly due to Mrs. Baker who overcame the risk in turkey raising and generously spread her discoveries throughout this section. As president of the organization which has marketing as its main objective, Mrs. Baker spent much time and energy.

Election of officers followed and all elections were unanimous. The staff for the second year is as follows: President, Walter M. Kenly; Vice-President, Mrs. Harry T. Williams; Treasurer, Mrs. Linwood A. Sutton; Secretary, Mrs. Nell C. Westcott. Directors were chosen to represent each Election District: J. W. Biggers, Mrs. Walter Harris, Carroll Loller, Linwood A. Sutton, Mrs. J. A. Bigelow, Mrs. Daisy Reinhart, Harold M. Baker and Mrs. W. W. Rambo, of Sudlersville, Director at Large

It was voted that the dues for the year be raised from fifty cents to one dollar and that the regular monthly meeting day be fixed for the fourth Friday. Meetings will be held in the office of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce unless otherwise specified.

It is unlikely that Kent's crop of turkeys for 1930 will be curtailed. Local growers do not feel that overproduction in this section had anything whatever to do with the lower prices received this year. They have faith in the superiority of Kent's birds, and believe when the proper method of marketing is hit upon they will command prices worthy of the quality.

COUNTY RANKS HIGH IN CHILD HEALTH WORK

The importance of examination of pre-school and school age children is forcibly brought out by the fact that out of nearly 7,000 children examined throughout the State only 1,476 were found to be free from gross defects.

In Kent County with its population of 17,000, 343 pre-school children were examined. Only one county in the State (Harford) had their pre-school conferences in a large number of places than did Kent. Another interesting comparision is that between Kent with its population of 17,000 having very nearly as many children examined as had Washington County with its population of 90,000. The difference was only 29 in favor of Washington.

These statistics show that Kent and Queen Anne's Counties are being very thoroughly combed. The Deputy State Health Officer and the County nurses are doing the pre-school work in an intensive manner.

Lists of pre-school age children, especially those intending to enter school next fall, are already being compiled by the staff in order that all children may have as fine an opportunity as possible to nter school without physical handicaps.

The Kent County Hospital has done much to make corrective work possible at a small expense. Dental work is also being emphasized and hope of a part-time dental clinic is being entertained by State and County workers.

Examination of children in class rooms is holding down communicable diseases to a remarkable extent.

World-wide authorities claim the greatest progress in the medical world is not the cure of disease but the prevention which has come to the fore in the last decade. Kent is making a splendid exhibit of the truth of that statement.

STILL POND

Mr. Harry Bidwell spent several days this week at his home here.

Mrs. Charles Jewell has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Subers at Betterton, Md.

Mrs. Wm. Medders is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Oris Robinson in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Ford entertained at a Turkey Supper at their home on last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jewell and family are moving to Betterton.

The devotional service of the Epworth League will be lead tomorrow evening by Mrs. Wm. Thompson.

Mr. Stanley visited his parents here this week.

We are sorry to know that Clara Jones was unable to come home from the hospital this week as was expected.

BURGLAR ALARM INSTALLED

The Third National Bank, of Chestertown has installed a burglar alarm in the bank this week as a precaution against burglary and holdups which have become so numerous throughout the country. The burglary of the Millington bank a few weeks ago and escaping without leaving a clue to the identity of the burglars has brought to the attention of the people of this county a realization of what might happen to some of our local banks. We believe the installation of the burglar alarm by the Third National Bank a progressive and wise precaution. At the same time a ventilation process will be placed in the vault in the event the bank officials should be forced in the vault and locked in there.

We understand an order has been given by the Millington Bank for the installation of a burglar alarm in that institution and it will be installed shortly.

ADVOCATES BAY BRIDGE

The Baltimore Sun of Friday, February 21 has quite a long article written by Mrs. Evelyn Harris. The Sun speaks of her as a writer business woman and farmer, and it prints this article as an interesting contribution to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Controversy.

Mrs. Harris states in her article that by the building of the bridge Kent, Queen Annes, Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester counties would become suburbs of Baltimore; as it is now, there are weeks at a time when the ice is so heavy that the boats can not run, that many people have to stay at home or go to Wilmington and Philadelphia because they cannot get to Baltimore.

The article tells that our best service takes from six to seven hours to go to and from Baltimore and then we only have three hours in the city unless we stay there all night.

She speaks in her article of the immense saving of time it would be in carrying produce to the city; that the beautiful Chesapeake Bay divides us entirely from the other part of Maryland and the rest of the world. She says in conclusion:

"For some reason Baltimore seems to be undecided as to whether or not she wants us. The new song, "My Fate is in Your Hands," could well be sung at this time. With a magaphone, as they do it on the stage, we could broadcast—"For your love I'm pleading," or "For your trade I'm pleading," to paraphrase it a little.

PERSONALS AND SOCIALS

Mr. T. Benjamin Durding, of Rock Hall, is critically ill at his home in that town.

Mr. Wm. S. Collins, Jr., of Baltimore, is the week end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Collins.

Miss Evlyn Crew, sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crew, of Betterton and a student at the Chestertown High School, was rushed to Easton hospital in the Kent county ambulance Wednesday afternoon of this week for an operation for appendicitis. The operation was performed that night and Miss Crew is getting along nicely.

Mr. Ellsworth C. Bowers, who has been at Easton hospital for treatment is reported to be very much improved.

Word was received this week that Judge Thomas Keating, who has been very ill for several weeks, is recuperating nicely.

Mrs. Simon Wickes Westcott entertained her friends at a Bridge Luncheon on last Thursday noon.

We are glad to see young David B. Ford home again from the Easton Hospital. He says he is feeling fine.

Messrs. Stephen and Richard Collins were hosts at a dance given at the Country Club on Valentine's evening of last week.

Mr. Charles Dodd's many friends are glad to hear that he is very much better.

Miss Beatrice Worrell is the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hynson Rogers.

Miss Dorothy Woodall entertained a number of friends at a party at her home on last Monday evening.

Miss Jennie Wilkins who has been the guests of friends in Baltimore has returned home.

Mrs. Rebecca Bexley gave a party to her daughter, Nellie Bexley on her tenth birthday. The guests reported having a fine time.

—Mr. E. Clarke Fontaine, superintendant of high schools on the Eastern Shore and Dr. Paul E. Titsworth and Dr. Livingood, of Washington College are attending the annual convention of the National Education Association at Atlantic City. The Convention starts today and will continue through Thursday of next week. Dr. Albert S. Cook, Maryland Superintendant of schools will have an important part in the program.
