DISCUSSES FUTURE TURKEY MARKET

ADVISSES SELLING SMALLER BIRDS—KENT TURKEYS AT A PREMIUM

Raymond Wooley of the Wooley Market Company of Sea Bright, New Jersey, who bought a quantity of dressed turkeys this past year through the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County, visfted Chestertown on Sunday in hope of locating more birds to finish out the season. Mr. Wooley has a very choice trade in his locality and reports his customers most enthusiastic over birds obtained from Kent. During the holiday season the retailer was handicapped by having to compete with low price western birds but Kent County turkeys commanded the price of $.65 per pound as against $.38 and up, of other birds. Mr. Wooley said he would be in the market as soon as this year's birds were in condition and expected to do an increasing business with the organization.

The buyer advised against the raising of too many large birds and expressed his opinion that the birds dressing at fourteen and sixteen pounds would be the ones that would sell to the greatest advantage and would be most in demand.

A veteran in the turkey business recently prophecied that the Kent organized growers would be able to obtain their highest prices through just such buyers as Mr. Wooley and Mr. Givler and that if the number of such buyers could be multiplied the price received would always be more than buyers of enormous quantities could ever give. It means much more work for the marketing committee and those concerned with the selling end to deal with the small buyer who demands selected weights and choicest birds, but there are enough earnest workers in the Association who believe in the future of the Maryland bird to see that type of marketing through.

Prsident Walter M. Kenly of the Growers' Association has called a meeting of the Executive Committee for Friday, March 14, in preparation for the first regular monthly meeting of March 28 under the new officers.

At the annual meeting held on February 19 it was voted to change the regular meeting day to the fourth Friday of every month at 1.30 p. m. Meetings will be held at the office of the Chamber of Commerce unless members are otherwise notified. Dues for 1930 have been made $1.00 in order to give the Association a little more margin upon which to operate. At the annual meeting the following officers were elected: President, Walter M. Kenly; vice-president, Mrs. Harry T. Williams; Treasurer, Mrs. Linwood A. Sutton; Secretary, Mrs. Nell C. Westcott and to complete the Board of Directors the following members were elected, each representing one of the Seven Election Districts of the County and Mrs. W. W. Rambo to be director at Large: J. W. Biggers, Mrs. Walter Harris, Carrol Loller, Linwood A. Sutton, Mrs. J. A. Bigelow, Mrs. Daisy Reinhart, Harold M. Baker.

4-H IDEA SPREADS

Boys and Girls 4-H Club Work, in which nearly three-quarters of a million members participate, is rated as the most important rural organization for young folk. The influence of the work is widespread, not only on the members of the Clubs, but on adults as well. Evidence of this is the place given to Club Members and their products at the Fairs and Expositions. National concerns appreciate the possibilities for rural progress in this young army. Recently a National religious leader, discussing problems of young people over the radio, paid tribute to the 4-H Club Work as a vital rural force.

It is interesting to note how the 4-H idea spreads. There are now 700 4-H club boys and girls in four of the eight principal Hawaiian Islands. These members are of many races: Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese, Samoan, Filipino, Portuguese, various mixtures, and Haoles, or whites. All speak English and are true Americans, with American customs and ideals. Club work is carried on under the cooperative extension forces of the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of Hawaii.

—"The Yellow Dragon" a restaurant operated at Dover, Delaware, by Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Price, formerly of Centreville, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. Mrs. Price was formerly Miss Louraine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Chestertown.
