NEGRO HEALTH WEEK OPENED HERE BY SUCCESSFUL PARADE

Although the clinical work of National Negro Health Week was already under way Monday morning the parade at night was one of the high spots of the entire week.

Teachers and students worked out an elaborate program for the parade under the direction of Miss Marjory Forte, county nurse. At the invitation of the Kent County Public Health Association which fosters every movement for the betterment of health conditions in Kent, the Chestertown Firemen's Band led the small health army in its line of march. Next in line was the Public Health Association's car with Miss White, the county nurse, and the officials of the Association; this car was preceded and followed by flag-bearers. Then came the other county nurse's car which was followed by the ambulance and the ambulance corps with one little colored child posing as a patient. Three well-planned floats depicted various phases of health work and cleanliness, many colored schools in the county were represented by numbers of students and teachers in gaily decorated cars, school children marched in line carrying banners calling attention to Red Cross, tuberculosis work, nutrition work and other such subjects. Some fifty cars were in line and the lighted torches added much to the scene.

As the parade ended at Bethel Church most of the marchers entered the church where exercises were held. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president of Washington College and president of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Titsworth spoke on the relation of cleanliness to health among individuals in body and mind and how community cleanliness can make for community health. He also gave a word of encouragement to the high school students of the colored group and urged them to continue their education and take up some of the professions such as medicine, nursing, dentistry and teaching which give such broad opportunities for the development of progress among the less fortunate members of their race.

Dr. Lucius Butler, who is acting as dental clinician for Kent this week, gave a brief talk on the object of the Negro Health Week and a second talk on the importance of Oral Hygiene. Dr. Butler spoke on the same subject over WFBR Sunday last. By graphic illustration Dr. Butler was able to drive home the lessen to even the grade children who were present, at the same time holding the attention of the entire audience.

Quartettes from the Garnet High School and the Sharptown Elementary School entertained with several numbers as did two of the prize speakers in the recent Declamation Contest given at Garnet High School.

Circulars calling attention to the object of the week's activities were given out at the door. The events of the evening started the week out in a large way and much credit is due to the untiring efforts of Miss Forte.
