THE TRANSCRIPT

SENATOR McINTOSH withdrew this week as a candidate for the Democrat nomination for Governor of Maryland.

GOV. RITCHIE'S announcement as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor to succeed himself, while not a surprise has settled any doubt in the minds of our people of this State as to his position on this long looked for question: "Will Gov. Ritchie be a candidate for Governor?" While there has never been any doubt in our minds that the Governor would be a candidate yet we have not been in a position to say so before. As far back as our memory goes no Governor has given to the people of this State as able and as satisfactory administration as has Governor Ritchie. Under his eleven years admistration we have seen a continued progress along all state lines.

The following is an editorial from the Washington Post:

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie tosses his hat into the Maryland gubernatorial ring. "The people of Maryland have honored me in very full measure," he says in a formal statement, "and I would have no right to ask the public for another term until sentiment on the question, particularly in my own party, had very full opportunity to crystallize one way or the other." The announcement came close on the heels of the withdrawal of Devid G. McIntosh from the race. It means that the governor, who is now rounding out his third consecutive term, has received assurance that his supporters can defeat the fourth-term bugaboo that is expected to raise its head.

Maryland's affairs have been well managed under Gov. Ritchie. The State is prosperous. Its highway system stands second to none. Its State police force is a model of efficiency. In spite of the fact that Gov. Ritchie has held office for an extraordinary period, and there are bound to be Democrats who believe that another's turn has come, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for Maryland Democrats to renominate this capable executive.

From the national standpoint, interest in the Maryland gubernatorial contest promises to center in the prohibition controversy and in the effect it may have on the 1932 presidential campaign. Gov. Ritchie is perhaps the most wringing wet of all the State executives. He has preached the Maryland doctrine of States' rights throughout the land, challenging the constitutional right of the Federal Government to say to the people of his State whether they shall be wet or dry. Gov. Ritchie has been such an outstanding protagonist of the wet cause that it would seem the natural thing for the Republicans to stake their chances for victory on a bone-dry candidate. If the Maryland contest is between a wet Democrat and a dry Republican it will be looked upon as a significant test of public sentiment.

If Gov. Ritchie is nominated and elected, he will be in a strong position in the national convention of 1932. In the last convention his name was mentioned frequently during the deadlock that resulted from the opposition to the nomination of Al Smith. In 1932, if he is then serving his fourth consecutive term as Governor of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie will be a factor to be reckoned with.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

THE MODERN FUNERAL

The methods and systems in vogue a few years ago, and still adhered to by many, are no longer applicable. In this age and generation a better understanding of the duties of the funeral director has changed the old order. One of the most difficult problems confronting the modern funeral director will be solved when the public realizes that SERVICE is the principal, and in fact, only commodity which we have to offer.

The casket and funeral appurtenances are negligible, or practically so, requiring little or no expense and, in the matter of expense, consist only with the costs of production.

Service is the main consideration—the care and disposition of the body of the one that has passed on. Knowledge and ability and a readiness to relieve the burden of those who are left to mourn.
