FISHERMEN AND ENGINEERS MEET

The Rock Hall Watermen's Protective Association and representatives of the U. S. Army Engineers partly settled a point of contention last Saturday night that arises every spring during the shad season.

According to Army regulations, fish stakes cannot be set in more than 25 feet east of the Eastern Channel of the bay and 20 feet west of the eastern channel. This ruling was adopted from a navigation standpoint.

The contention was made by the fishermen that this ruling keeps them off valuable fishing grounds and that the extension of the fishing depth would not endanger navigation.

On Saturday night the fishermen met with Colonel Warren T. Hannum at Rock Hall, the meeting being arranged by Senator S. Scott Beck and Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough who were also present.

Mr. Herman Jacobs, president of the Waterman's Protective Association, acted as spokesman for that body.

Senator Beck and Congressman Goldsborough also presented the waterman's side of the question.

It is understood that an agreement was reached whereby with the removed of a few of the nets which are far beyond the limit, the other sets will remain where they are until after the shad season.

It is hoped that next year a meeting can be arranged during the winter so that a definite line can be established giving the fishermen a large fishing ground and still stay clear of the main line of traffic on the eastern side of the bay.

JAMES W. CROUCH, Clerk.

During the year of 1929, we have built a number of cement pavements and extra expense to come out of 1929 receipts has been a bond and coupon amounting to $1025.00, that was due in 1928, and should have come from the 1928 receipts, but was not presented for payment until 1929.

Another extra expense was the lawsuit of Mabel S. Baker, amounting to $819.54. We were therefore unable to reduce the balance that was brought over from 1928 of $6,500.00 for building curbs and gutters in that year.
