LEGISLATURE TO CONVENE JULY 29

EXTRA SESSION CALLED BY GOVERNOR TO CHANGE REGISTRATION DATES

Governor Albert C. Ritchie has called an extra session of the Maryland Legislature for next Tuesday, July 29 for the purpose of changing the days of Registration in Baltimore City. Excepts from the Governors statement showing reasons for calling the extra session follow:

I have decided to call an extra session of the Legislature as the only means of enabling a large group of our citizens to retain their right to vote. This right is the highest privilege of citzenship, and the State should not permit a considerable body of the people to be disfranchised by circumstances wholly exceptional and unforseen, and entirely beyond their control.

By a remarkable coincidence the four days fixed by law for this year's new general registration in Baltimore City fall on days which are sacred to Jewish people. The Jewish New Year is observed on September 23rd and 24th, and the Feast of the Tabernacles on October 7th and 8th.

I have with great care tried to ascertain the effect of this.

According to reliable estimates there are from 26,000 to 30,000 voting Jews in Baltimore, and of these it is estimated that 20,000 or more are Orthodox. The others are Reformed.

On the first registration day, September 23rd, no Jew, Orthodox or Reformed, would be permitted to register by the tenets of his faith. On the three remaining registration days, September 24th, October 7th and October 8th, the Reformed Jews could register. The Orthodox Jews, however, could not register at any time on any of these days except between dark and 10 o'clock P. M., standard time, on September 24th and October 8th.

I have taken steps to assure myself that the Legislature will limit itself to this one subject, and that it can and will meet, pass the necessary law, and adjourn all in one day.

The cost of a one day session of the Legislature as provided by law would be something over $8,000, of which about $815 represents per diem for the members and desk officers, (no employees being needed,) about $6463 represents mileage, and the balance would be for printing and binding the proceedings.

I am issuing the required official proclamation calling the extra session for Tuesday, July 29th, at 12 o'clock Noon, standard time, at Annapolis.
