LEAVE FOR CAMP TOMORROW

The Medical Detachment, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, with headquarters in Chestertown, will leave for Camp Albert C. Ritchie tomorrow for two weeks encampment.

Camp Ritchie is located in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains at an elevation of approximately 1600 feet. On the edge of the lake and overlooking the parade grounds, a spacious club house has been erected to which members of the National Guard can take their families at very little expense. This club house is also open to citizens of Maryland who wish to visit the camp. The same rates are offered this year to these visitors that are offered to National Guardsmen, viz: $3 a day or $15 a week.

Those who will attend camp this year from the local medical unit are:

Major Frank B. Hines.
Staff Sgt. Herman Blackway.
Drill Sgt. Wm. R. Goodman.
Supply Sgt. Spencer Smith.
Infirmary Sgt. Harvey G. Blyman.

Privates First Class—Earle A. Barnes, Jr., Co. Clerk, Garrett F. Chaires, Walter T. Morris, Co. Clerk, Paul C. Starey, Wm. H. McMahan, Leonard M. Ziesel.

HEART TO HEART TALK ABOUT WATER

Just at this time we are compelled to inform the water users of the Chestertown Water Department the TRUE situation. The water is colored near white. This is because the water is low in the wells. No rain, dry, no water. We have pumped 24 hours per day for 2 weeks, 14 days, with no relief in sight.

Therefore we request every water user to conserve the water. Don't waste. Do not use the HOSE. Better let the shrubbery burn than your HOME. We hope you will assist us, because your property is a part of the Water Department.

NOW AND THEN

There is nothing that kills one as soon as worry, that useless strain of mind; Some have called it mental extravagance.

Our Lord has told us to take no anxious care for tomorrow. Then, why let it rob us of quiet restful sleep."

CARE

All in the leafy darkness, when sleep has passed me by,
I knew the surging of the sea—
Though never wave as nigh.
All in the leafy darkness, unbroken
by a star,
There came the clamorous call of day,
While yet the day was far.
All in the leafy darkness, woven with hushes deep,
I heard the vulture wings of Fear
Above me tireless sweep;
The sea of Doubt, the dread of day,
upon me surged and swept
All in the leafy darkness,
And while the whole world slept.
—Virginia Woodward Cloud (18—)

Zaro Agha, the 156-year-old Turk, is now in our midst. He attributes his longevity to the fact he never touched liquor, but he ought to give some credit to the fact he never played ice hockey, visited Chicago, went riding in a motorcycle side-car, or lived the life of a commuter.

We were reading of the gift of an Emu. from an Australian friend, to the duke and duchess of Marlborough of Blenheim. Being a very valuable bird, the greatest care was taken of it:

The duke and duchess were away from home, so a telegram was sent to the latter by the agent to apprise her of the event. It ran:

"Emu has laid an egg: in absence of your grace have put goose to sit upon it."

That fine old custom of saying grace before and after meals leads Estelle H. Ries (in her fascinating book "Mother With") to recall the ingenuity of the traveling salesman who, as the dinner guest at a buyer's home, was asked to say grace. Being unaccustomed to the practice of this ceremony, he could but do his best.

"Dear Lord," he began, "we are in receipt of your kind favors of recent date and beg to thank you. We hope to merit your continued courtesy."

Sir Joshua Reynolds, the famous painter, decorated St. Pauls Cathedral soon after it was built. When he had finished one of his fine mural paintings wishing to see the effect of it he stepped backward absent mindedly, and had reach the edge of the planking, when an assistant, seeing his danger, and, not daring to call to him threw his wet paint against the painting, Sir Joshua was furious, but when it was explained to him, he gratefully acknowledged that his assist ant had saved his life.

THE GRAD'S LAMENT

Two months ago in cap and gown
An aisle I proudly swaggered down
To get the coveted degree
My university handed me.

"Today, my son, you're leaving here
Prepared through life a course to steer,"
The prexy said and added, too,
"The world is beckoning to you."

His words they thrilled me greatly and
I saw Success stretch forth a hand;
But now his words have lost their charm—
I'm pitching hay back on the farm!

The earthquake in Italy, though a terrible disaster shows the grit of the Italian people. They have refused outside help and the farmers have gone back to their crops. Roads are being prepared to carry food, and water systems are being repaired. Engineers aer busy finding areas where earthquakes are less frequent and are urging the building of earthquake proof houses— Sad it is that humans have to have warnings like that before they take heed.

O woodman spare that tree! for fear that in cutting it down you might peril the lives of the tree sitters. We wonder how the birds feel to have their chosen haunts invaded by these seekers after notoriety.

Mot, well we should say so! We fear that the mercury will clunb out of the thermoneters at this rate. Like H. I. Phillips we say:

To be an oyster must be swell—
The life is hard to beat;
Nobody slaps one on the back
And talks about the heat!

The little round clam leads a life
Quite advantageous, too;
Down where it lives no one pipes, "Is
It hot enough for you?"

I sometimes wish I were a duck,
To fly North when it's hot,
And quickly fly far South again
In winter when it's not!

Same one has suggested that a good plan to solve the unemployment problem. He suggests putting all jobless men and women to work building Tom Thumb golf links throughout the country.

TO CONSTRUCT TEN MILES OF SHOULDERS

The State Roads Commission is advertising in this issue for bids on the construction of 10.33 miles of concrete shoulders from Chestertown through Kennedyville toward Locust Grove.

It is understood that the shoulders will be constructed on the north, or right hand side of the road and will join the widened road at Harmony.

All bids will be opened on August 12th and the widening of this road, which was the first built in this section, will be a great addition to the Eastern Shore Trail.

ANOTHER PORTRAIT FOR W. C.

Dr. J. S. W. Jones, Dean of Washington College, has secured the donation of a portrait of Judge E. F. Chambers, former president of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College.

Judge E. F. Chambers was president of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington Colelge from 1843 to 1867.

The portrait will be donated by Mr. Clem J. Jones, son of the late Rev. Milner Jones, and granson of the late Judge Chambers.

KENT ISLAND BRIDGE CONTRACT AWARDED

Work on construction of the bridge over Kent Island Narrows, will begin shortly, it was announced at the office of the State Roads Commission this week.

The contract was awarded to the Mullan Contracting Company last Friday. The bridge ,which is on the road between Love Point and Queenstown, will be constructed of timber and be more than 700 feet in length. The structure will have a draw span of steel with a clearage of fifty feet. The cost will be about $51,000.

FRESH AIRS VISITING KENT

On Tuesday, July 22, twelve boys and girls sent by the Tribune Fresh Air Fund of New York and their escort arrived in Chestertown on the evening train where they were met by their hosts and taken to various sections of the County. Two boys are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rumsey Anthony; a boy and girl are with Mr. and Mrs. John Schauber, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sutton have a ten year old girl; Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Sadtler, of Rock Hall, are entertaining an older girl, and one child, each, is in the homes of Mrs. Jesse Downey, Mrs. Tilghman Hubbard, Mrs. Orin Downey, Mrs. Stuart Edwards, Mrs. Herman Hill, Mrs. W. O. Selby, all of Rock Hall and Mrs. William T. Dixon, Worton.

One small girl returned the following morning with the escort as she was hopelessy homesick. The others all seem to be contented. One child has gained five pounds within the week. The weights of others have not yet been checked up.

Coming from crowded tenament rooms and being able to spread out of a farm is an interesting and absorbing experience for the city children and the two weeks may be a wonderful starter for the entire year in health and raising their ideals of family life in general.

One mother sent her child's prospective hostess a dainty apron. Coming, as the gift does, from such hard-worked hands that they are often sore, according to the little girl, the gift shows a beautiful spirit of appreciation and thoughtfulness.

WINS NEGRO HEALTH CUP

The sixteenth annual observance of National Negro Health Week was observed in Kent County by a most elaborate program which was worked out and carried through by Miss Majorie Fort, colored State health nurse, with the assstance of the white and colored groups throughout the County. Word has been received by Miss Fort that Kent County will receive the silver cup for the finest work among rural communities.

This honor is very gratifying to the entire County. The colored group is proving itself progressive and ambitious along constructive lines. Better health and better living among this group is reflected in all angles of County life.

A full report with exhibits, photographs and other material was sent to the National Negro Health Week Committee at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. At the time the report was received Miss Fort was encouraged by the letter of commendation from the chairman of the committee.

It is reported that this is the third year Maryland has been awarded the cup. Last year Anne Arundel County carried the Nation and was the winner.

In round numbers the population of Kent is 15,000 of which 9,800 are white and 5,000 colored.

Intensive health work has been handled for the colored group by a nurse of their own race since 1927 when the State placed a health nurse in Kent because of the high rate of tuberculosis and maternal and infant mortality among the colored. During this year the State has been assisted in paying the colored nurse's salary by the Kent colored schools who raise a certain amount each month toward her support.

ARMORY SITE SELECTED

GROUND PURCASHED THIS WEEK —WORK TO START SOON

The ground for the new State armory to be built in Chestertown, was purchased on Monday of this week from Dr. Thomas W. Spranklin on the Quaker Neck road.

Negotiations for the purchase of the property were made by Major Frank B. Hines, head of the local medical unit of the Maryland National Guard, after the location had been approved by General Record, Commander of the State organzation, and other state officials.

The site, which comprises 3 1-2 acres of land is on the river side of the Quaker Neck road south of the entrance to the Peerless Fertilizer Co. The boundries of the property start 120 feet south of the road entrance to the River and comprises the remainder of this tract which borders on Radcliffe Creek.

The building will be similar to the armory at Centreville and other towns on the shore and will cost approximately $50,000. The location is considered ideal for military purposes by military authorities.

The money for the building which was appropriated at the last session of the Legisature will be available about the middle of August and it is understood that construction work will start during the month of September.

HEARING ON SASSAFRAS BRIDGE

The application of the State Roads Commission of Maryland for special regulations governing the operation of draw in their bridge across Sassafras River, at Georgetown, Md., will be considered at a public hearing to be held by the undersigned at the site of the bridge, at 10.30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, August 4, 1930.

All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the above time and place, particularly navigation interests and the officials of any county, city, town or local association whose interests may be affected by the proposed modifications. They will be given an opportunity to express their views upon the subject and to suggest changes considered desirable in the interests of navigation.

The draw is at present being operated under the general regulations covering a 24-hour schedule. The applicant desires special regulations, limiting the operation of the draw to daylight hours on the ground that there is no water traffic between sundown and sun-up.

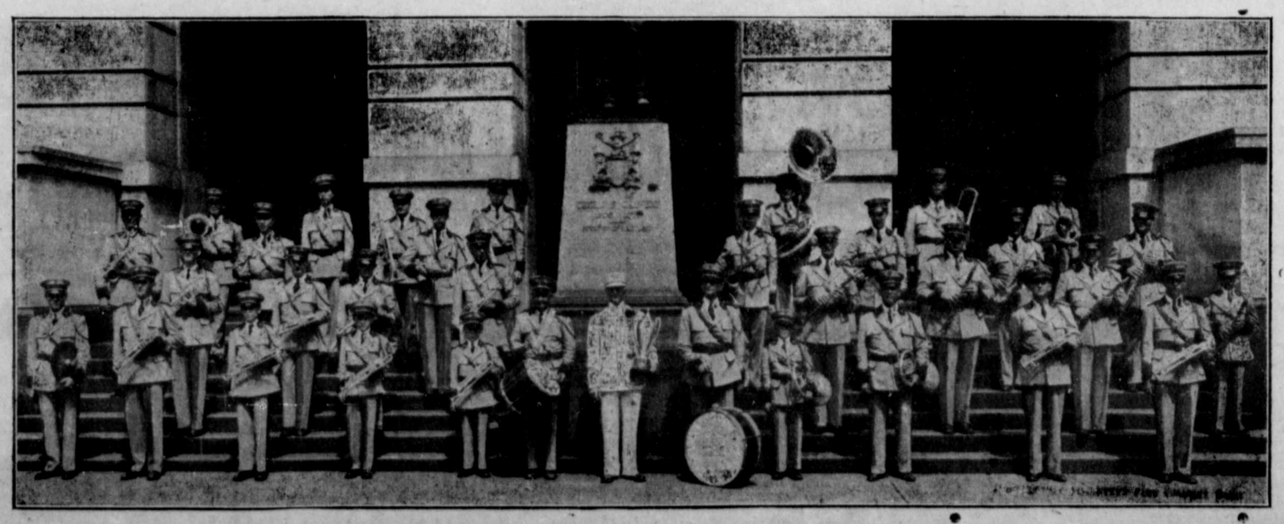

W. S. BRINSFIELD ATTACKED

Mr. Wilbur S. Brinsfield, who conducts a filling station on the highway between Chestertown and Fairlee, was attacked by a man driving a Delaware car Sunday evening.

The man, accompanied by a woman, stopped at the filling station and after waiting around for some time picked an argument with Mr. Brinsfield and then drew a knife. Mr. Brinsfield went out in the lot in the back of the garage and when the man followed him, still flourished the knife, Mr. Brinsfield hit him with a stick. The man and woman then jumped in their car and drove away. Witnesses state that the man's arm was broken by the blow.

Mrs Brinsfield stated that the man and woman were intoxicated and took a drink while at the garage.
