CHURCH ARMY TO VISIT THIS COUNTY

WILL BE AT I. U. EACH EVENING FROM AUGUST 18 TO 24

Have you ever heard of St. Francis of Assisi? He is a sort of Patron Saint of the Church Army. The real Patron Saint happens to be St. John the Baptist, but the Church Army resembles closely both of these defenders of the faith. It is a remarkable organization; but directly we begin to speak of "organizations" we lose some of that open freshness that indefinable freedom, with which the names of both of the Saints might well be couples.

What is this strange clan? Happily for our modern discriminations the Church Army is an "acceptable thing." We feel that it is worthy of being classed in that enviable category, "Nice to konw." It is to no small extent the expression of the Church Militant, the Church Expectant and the Church Triumphant.

Of John the Baptist it was sung
"So he died for his faith, that is fine;
More than the most of us do;
But stay—can you add to that line—
That he LIVED for it too,"

Of the self-denying John, truly this may be added, and of those who call him Patron Saint it may also be said: "they are alive and active, they call him Saint, but look to the Prince of Peace for their help and inspiration."

The History of the Church Army in England is a Romance of high endeavour, a record of fine spiritual achievement; led by that venerable and stately figure, Prebendary Wilson Carlile, C. H., D. D., who is over eighty-three and still "in harness," the Church Army has gone on from strength to strength in an extraordinary manner.

Forty-eight years ago, this Wilson Carlile launched the Church Army. The story of how he came to begin is a thrilling one. A successful business man, he lost almost all on that fateful "Black Friday" way back in the Seventies. Ill and lying on a bed of sickness, he was led to see that "The Love of Christ is more than gain,

And heavenly crowns than yellow dust."

He was ordained a Deacon in the Church of England and later a Priest. Then came the idea—or should we say inspiration?—to gather in the Church a large body of laymen and women who would give their lives to the service of God, and bringing back to the Church the lapsed comunicants and the men who had forgotten God. Those were the days, 1882 and 1883. There existed in London at the time a body known as "THE SKELETON ARMY." The object of this attractively named Society was to annihilate all Christian organizations it could. It went about its task in no uncertain manner. The members literally fought and opposed religious gatherings. Paints, ochre, bricks, eggs, fish and dirt, were hurled generously and frequently at the Church Army or other warriors who dared to sing the hymns or speak the messages on the street. One gentleman "knocked out" Wilson Carlile which resulted in the clergyman being in hospital for six months. Meanwhile, (against Dr. Carlile's wishes) the attacker spent the time in prison. The day he left the jail he found Wilson Carlile waiting outside the gates for him to find out how he might be of assistance to him.

Splendid, Christlike Saint! Replica of those ancient days when the gentle saints walked the earth, like Enoch, with their God. Phocas the gardener, Augustine, Alban the first martyr in England, Martin who shared his cloak, Cuthbert, Cyprian, Patrick, and a host of them, young and old, men and women clever and unlettered. It is refreshing to encounter such characters in these days of materialism when we busy bustling men strut about our streets or stand pre-occupied in our shops and market places, where there is only a Babel of tongues and bedlam of Confusion. But some there are who know the beauty of holiness and preserve a spirit of serenity and love withal.

The Church Army is allowed peculiar privileges by the English Government Home Office and may enter any prison in the old country, visiting the men in their cells, conducting Missions, and offering the message of Christ and His Love and Power. Such work has also been done in the prisons of this country.

Since 1882 the Church Army has made rapid progress and has today nearly sixty departments of work. It helps the unemployed, feeds the hungry, houses the homeless, looks after consumptive boys, alleviates distress, feeds and clothes motherless children, trains and protests disabled veterans of the World War, guides emigrants, and spends a colossal amount in spiritual and social effort.

Today Church Army is represented in many parts of the world. A group of men pioneered work in this country in 1925. So far reaching were their efforts that further visits were requested by the Bishops and Clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Church and in December, 1927, The Church Army in U. S. A., became a constituted society in the Church. A Training Center was opened at Bishop McVickar House, Providence, R. I., and since then twelve young Americans have been commissioned as Evangelist-Officers in the Church Army and seven others are in training. These men are assisted by ten men loaned temporarily by the Church Army of England. The men thus trained are active in the mountains of Upper South Carolina, Albany, Virginia, North Carolina, and other areas. One is missioning in a Lumber Camp in Virginia, two others n mining camps in Utah. Each Summer Church Army Mission Caravans go out to the rural people and small towns of Albany, Vermont, East Carolina, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New York. Last year Church Army worked in thirty-three Dioceses. The beginning of the Church Army is small but it is hoped and believed by many that it may become one of the greatest forces in the Episcopal Church. It has the blessing of the Bishops, goodwill of the Clergy, and support of the laity.

A group of Church Army men will be in Kent County on August 18th to 24th. They will conduct services in the open air, and each evening will hold a mission service in the Episcopal Church at I. U. All are invited to hear the message of these young men and to meet them.

STATE OYSTER SHELL PLANTING

Bringing to a close the oyster-shell planting season of the Conservation Commission, it was reported in a bulletin made public by the department this week that more shells were planted during 1930 than in any previous year in the history of such propagation methods.

According to the report there were 66,308 bushels of shells planted in Eastern Bay and 8,632 bushels planted in Chester River during the season just closed.

The planting throughout the State exceeded by more than 100,000 bushels that of 1929 and by a much greater amount that of any other year, the bulletin stated.

It also was stated in the report that more than 830,000 bushels of the oyster shells were scattered over depleted natural bars of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

An itemized report on the plantings revealed that more than 3,000,000 bushels of the shells were placed in the Bay proper, approximately 18000 in the Honga river, nearly 4,000 in South river 43,000 in the Choptank, 4,000 in West river and approximately 16,000 in Smith's creek.

The Miles river, in Talbot county, received 20,900 bushels of shells, the Wicomico river in both Charles and St. Mary's counties was planted with 19,659 bushels, Breton Bay with 4,050, St. Clements Bay received 20,256, Herring Bay 1,000 bushels, Fishing bay 3,035, the Tred Avon river 10,579, the Big Annemessex river 6,000 and Pocomoke Sound 33,728 bushels.

—W. N. Rice, of Centreville, was killed in an automobile accident near Felton, Delaware, on Monday last. Rice was at one time a resident of Chestertown. He is survived by a widow and two children.

RITCHIE CAMPAIGN SONG

Miss Amelia Beauregard Jorden a former resident of Kent county, where she has a host of friends, but, who now resides in Baltimore, wrote the following song soon after Ritchie had declared his candidacy for his 4th term

She sent it to the Governor and he declared he was much pleased with it.

She wrote a song after the nomination of Gov. Edwin Warfield which was used as a campaign song, and which Gov. Warfield said had helped him in the fight.

The song follows:

TRUE MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND

We greet you, one and all, today,
Ye Democrats of Maryland,
Democracy shall have full sway
In Maryland dear Maryland.

CHORUS

Hip, Hip, hurrah! Let us all unite
And help "Al Ritchie" win the fight.
He always battles for the right,
Democracy and Maryland.

Let us all unite with heart and voice
To ratify the Peoples' choice.
Yet let us cordially indorse
This true tried Son of Maryland.

CHORUS

LOCAL MATTER

GALENA BREAKS LOSING STREAK

Galena broke a losing streak, which that team has had since winning the first half of the series of the Chesapeake Bay League, on Saturday by defeating Kennedyville in an 11 inning game.

Lockwood's single in the eleventh which was backed up by a long drive by Johnson brought in one run. Coleman held the Kennedyville team scoreless in the last half of that inning.

DESTROYS MAIL BOXES

Two young men, whose names are known to federal authorities, are reported to have destroyed 12 mail boxes on Chestertown R. R. No. 6, Thursday evening about 11 p. m.

The boxes, some of which were torn off and thrown over the fence reached from Georgetown Lane to Old Grove School.

This is a very serious affense and it remains to be seen just what disposition Federal authorities will make of the case. It will probably prove very costly amusement for the offenders.

SEVERE ELECTRIC STORM TUESDAY

A severe electric and rain storm, accompanied by hail in some sections, visited Kent county Tuesday evening of this week.

The excitement of the aerial bombardment and a deluge of rain in Chestertown was added to by three fire alarms within twenty-five minutes.

The first alarm was a call to the Lusby farm near Chestertown when lightening set fire to a stubble field and was sweeping toward the outbuildings. The rain started shortly after the alarm was sounded and put the fire out. The second alarm sounded with ten minutes when lightening set fire to a straw stack on the Walter Moffett farm.

The third alarm was a call to a straw stack fire on the farm occupied by Mr. Arnold McFarlane.

At 2 a. m. Wednesday morning firemen responded to a call to Union School house which was beyond saving when firemen arrived at the scene. While at the Union School fire, firemen were notified of a fire near Rolphs Wharf and found a vacant house with the window sill in flames This fire was quickly extinguished and indications led fremen to believe that it was a case of arson. Some half burned newspaper was found stuffed near the burning sill and a window pane had been broken. Authorities are investigating the case.

Among the damage reported from lightning during the storm were the above mentioned fires were:

Ten sheep killed on the farm of Harry Anderson, near Church Hill.

Mule killed on the farm of John Newsome, near Melitota.

Shutter torn og the house of Mrs. Annie Warren, Still Pond.

Horse killed on the farm of Mr. Harry Hendrickson, near Still Pond.

Club house of Chester River Yacht and Country Club struck and damaed.

Tree struck in park in Chestertown.

Hail Storm Up County

The storm was accompanied by a severe hail storm in the upper section of the county and a large number of window panes were broken in the Kennedyville section.

Wind drove a tree limb through one of the handsome Pennington memorial windows of Shrewsbury Church.

Very little damage was reported to farm crops although the hail stones were reported to be as large as hen eggs.
