NOW AND THEN

On thy cold gray stones O Sea!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

O well for the fisherman's boy,
That he shouts to his sister at play!
O well for the sailor lad
That he sings in his boat on the bay.

And the stately ship go on
To their hhaven under the hill:
But oh for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!

Break, Break, Break,
At the foot of thy crags, O Sea.
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me.
Alfred Tennsyson

Mrs. Emma Louise Ashford has gone to her rest but the hymns she wrote and the music she composed will go singing down through the ages.

What more beautiful hymns are there than "Abide with me" and "My Task?"

How hearts are lighted up at the exultant Anthem, "Lift up your Heads" "and again at the Easter season" "Christ has Risen."

Surely all lovers of sacred music will remember the sweet organist who loved her work so well.

We read that Mr. Zeigfield had quite a loss a few days ago. He was luxuriously riding home for the first time in his newly imported car, when the chauffeur made a turn and collided with a trolley and then what? A wrcked and burning car and the owner travelling home in a taxi. Surely we never know when we start out how the journey will end.

Another young man started out in his new car. A pretty dainty girl ask him to take her on her way. He gladly complied, At her request he stopped at a drug store to get her something, and on coming out found that both girl and car were gone. He is still looking for his car.

How our vocabulary is changing, Were we to look in our dictionary for the word "air minded" could we find it?

There is no more contented figure than our vice president. In spite of the contentions of Mrs. Gann about her prestige and her seat in social functions his face is ever placid and happy.

Contented With His Lot

Vice President Curtis denies that he seeks the Kansas Senatorial nomination. He might consider, however a second term in his present office. Daily paper.

"A man of simple tastes,
Aspiring not to tower,
He neither hopes nor hotly hastes
For glittering place and power.
Let other, vainer men
The Senate crowns amass.
The modest V. P. post again
Is good enough for Chas.

The Personal Appeal.—A girl from the South, who had been in New York two days, was experiencing her first encounter with the late afternoon jam on the Bronx subway express. After trying vainly to battle her way into one of the trains, she went to a guard and said: "Listen here, mister. I've been trying for fifteen minutes to get on one of these trains, and it's almost six o'clock . . . and we've got company 'coming for dinner, so of course I've got to cook biscuits and the company will be there at six-thirty; so, honest, you've got to do something about it." The astonished guard turned and addrest the packed mob waiting for the nxt train to pull in. "Now listen here, folks," he said, "this lady's got company coming at six-thirty, and she's gotta cook biscuits, and here it is almost six o'clock, so she's gotta get on this next train, see?" The equally astonished mob opened up an aisle in open-mouthed amazement and the little gal from the South paraded into the car without brushing a shoulder.—Life.

The Women's Literary Club which opened its fall sessions yesterday, Friday afternoon, has 28 active members beside a number of honorary ones interested in the welfare of the Club. Mrs. E. Clark Fountaine is president of the club this year. The course selected for the year is suggested by the Chautauqua, and is an English Russian year. The first book to be read is an interesting biography of Disraeli and the whole course promise to be most instructive of present conditions.

IN COTTON-PICKING TIME

The problem of unemployment is uncommonly serious—far more acute in the industrial centers than South Carolinians are aware of Nevertheless, it is also a problem of unemployment that considerable numbers of persons don't want to be employed except in their "chosen professions." How many persons in a great city accustomed to earn four dollars or six dollars a day and now earning nothing, who with their families are actually in want or food, would consent to pick cotton in South Carolina at 60 cents a hundred? While it is true that those who pick cotton are usually "sweated" it does them good—it is a form of occupation far from unpleasant. We have never heard of a good man or good woman, white or black, going hungry in the South in cotton-picking time.—Charleston News and Courier.

TREES GUARD WATER SUPPLY

The period of drought which has caused heavy damage in large sections of the United States has served one good purpose by attracing attention to the fact that forests are guardians of the water supply.

The trees that cover the slopes of hills and mountains store up the water, which finds its way by brooks and streams to the larger lakes and rivers. Slopes denuded of trees do not hold the water. There is a direct relation between forests and a nation's water supply for human consumption and the maintenance of growing things.

These factors are pointed out by Charles Lathrop Pack, the great apostle, in this country, of reforestation. His arguments are justified if they will lead to a stimulation of reforestation work, which is one of the greatest conservation needs in the United States.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

—A golf match between the golf teams of the Easton Country Club and the Chester River Yacht and Country Club will be played in Chestertown. It is understood that the match will be played next week.

TURKEY GROWERS BEGIN FALL MEETINGS

The first meeting since the close of the Spring season was held last Friday by the Maryland Turkey Growers Association of Kent County at the Court House.

In the absence of President Walter M. Kenley, Mrs. Harry T. Williams, Vice-President, was in the chair.

Plans for marketing this year's turkey crop were discussed and much the same method that has been used for the last two years will be followed. In this selling program return postal cards are sent to those who at any time have been members of the organization, whether or not they are on the books for this year. The cards ask for the number of birds the grower will have ready for market at Thanksgiving time and the number at Christmas time or later.

Buyers are communicated with and are invited to phone the secretary of the Association for their needs. Out of the list of paid members, the secretary pro-rates the order for birds which are then brought to a central place where they are picked up by the buyer. This method simplifies the marketing for both the buyer and seller.

Members of the Association testified at the meeting that the fact that Kent is organized in its turkey selling to a certain degree brought prices last year that were five and ten cents higher than those of other Maryland counties on both the Eastern and Western Shores.

Membership dues are one dollar per year and all interested growers are urged to send their dues to Mrs. L. A. Sutton, treasurer, at an early date.

The Turkey Tour which will be planned and carried through by the Extension Service is set for Oct. 9.

GALENA SCHOOL NOTES

NOTES FROM GALENA HIGH AND ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Through the kindness of the Board of Education we are receiving each week five copies of the News Review published by the Macmillan Company through the cooperation of The New York Times. We are finding it very helpful both in English and history classes.

On Friday, September 19, the seniors held a class meeting and elected th following officers:

President, Margaret Williams.
Vice-President, Helen Caulk.
Secretary, Katherine Hyland.
Treasurer, Alice Cruikshank.

On Friday, September 26, the boys had a meeting and choose two soccer teams. Alvin Coxe is captain of one and Thomas Massey of the other. The first game will be Tuesday afternoon and the winning side will be treated to ice cream by Mr. Startt, (11 plates we hope, not 1 plate and 11 spoons.

Thursday afternoon we were entertained for a half hour by Dr. Sedden of the Cleanliness Institute of New York, who gave a talk on the way to prevent the spread of contagious diseases in our community. He warned us to beware of hitch-hiking germs and not to give them any rides.

The Galena Elementary School held a very successful bake Saturday, September 27, in Mr. Hyland's store. The money is to be used for library books. The proceeds were twenty dollars, ($20.00.

LEGION COMMITTEES MEET

PREPARE FOR BRIDGE DEDICATION EXERCISES

A joint committee meeting of representatives from the Frank M. Jarman Post No. 36 of Kent County, and the Jeff Davis Post of Queen Anne's county was held at the office of States Attorney Stephen R. Collins in Chestertown on Wednesday evening of this week for the purpose of arranging a program for the dedication of the new Chester River bridge on Armistice Day, November 11th.

At the meeting Mr. J. Thomas Kibler was elected joint chairman of the committee, and Mr. C. Lee Gill, of Chestertown and County Agent Grubb, of Centreville, were elected vice-Chairman to represent Kent and Queen Anne's counties respectively.

The dedication exercises will include a parade, including a number of American Legion Posts and National Guard units which will march to the bridge and dedicate the tablets which will be placed at both ends of the bridge. Appropriate addresses will be made by Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland and George Henderson, Maryland State Commander American Legion. Other state and legion officials are expected to be present.

FORM RITCHIE CITIZENSHIP LEAGUE

STATEMENT OF DOCTOR JOSEPH S. AMES, PRESIDENT OF RITCHIE CITIZENSHIP LEAGUE

In the belief that Governor Ritchie during the last ten years has given to the people of Maryland an extrordinary administration of the State Government, a group of professional and business men, more interested in the maintenance of good government than in the aspirations of political leaders and political parties, have joined with me in forming the Ritchie Citizenship League.

The purpose of this organization is to bring to the attention of the people of Maryland the details of this record as we know it and as those in close contact with the State government know it, to the end that the electorate may be guided by facts in determining who shall administer the affairs of this State during the next four years.

This will be done through the publishing and distribution of a series of pamphlets on about fifteen functions of government which have come under the leadership and administration of Governor Ritchie and which are vital to the happiness and welfare of the people of Maryland. In the preparation of these publications an effort has been made to set forth only the facts and every precaution has been taken against the use of superlative, exaggerated statements or those unsupportd by the facts and the record.

Yet it has been difficult to present the truth and not at times resort to superlatives. There is no denying the fact that the Maryland Public School system, once the target of severe criticism, is now ranked by outstanding educators as among the foremost in the country. This is true also of the development of the Maryland Public Health service under the administration of Governor Ritchie. So eminent an authority on medicine and so nonpolitical a person as Dr. William H. Welch has paid tribute to the work being done in this State so often that any further comment by me on that point is unnecessary.

Tribute of the highest kind has been paid to the Maryland system of building roads by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads in the Federal Department of Agriculture. Crime commissions and judicial councils have come from all parts of the country to study and to praise the administration of justice and the process of law enforcement in this State and particularly in Baltimore City. The Police Department of Baltimore, reorganized under the direction of Governor Ritchie, has become, by reason of its efficiency in keeping the city free of crime, the envy of all large cities in the country.

I shall not attempt to touch on all the accomplishments which have been achieved by Governor Ritchie. We shall point them out with supporting facts in our series of pamphlets. Let it suffice for me to say that because Albert C. Ritchie has been Governor of Maryland, every boy and girl now living in the State has a better chance for a bright future and that the standard of living in Maryland for all classes, races and creeds has been raised and made more secure.

The people of Maryland is deciding whether Governor Ritchie should be re-elected have been asked to consider what has been called the fourth term issue, an issue raised by some who profess to see in the Governor's candidacy a threat to our democratic institutions on the theory that a long continuance in executive office is harmful to the welfare of a free people. But such a theory is not applicable to Governor Ritchie who has done more than any other in this generation to lift the yoke of governmental tyranny from the backs of our people. No man has stood firmer for the principle" that the people who are least governed are best governed."

I think I voice correctly the thought of all my associates in the Ritchie Citizenship League in saying that there is involved in this election a fundamental principle of democratic government and that is that only by rewarding and further honoring those who have served faithfully the welfare of the State can the people hope to attract into the government service men as able, honest, clear-headed, quick of comprehension, well-informed and as clean as Albert C. Ritchie. Before such a man, with the record that he has achieved, the principle of rotation in executive office becomes academic.

Editor's Note

The Ritchie Citizenship Committee is made up of Maryland citizens who are leaders in the business, banking, legal, educational and medical professions of the state. They are not polititions but are directly interested in the government of the state from a sound economic standpoint. They are lending their time and influence toward the re-election of Governor Albrt C. Ritchie because of the accomplishments of his efficient administrations. The committee is composed of such nationally known men as Dr. Joseph S. Ames, of Johns Hopkins University; Mr. Waldo Newcomer and Doctors Williams H. Welch, William H. Wilmer and Hugh H. Young.

TURKEY TOUR OCTOBER 9

FARM VISITS AND DEMONSTRATIONS PLANNED

The Fourth Annual Kent County Turkey Tour is scheduled for October 9th. This tour has featured in the Autumn as a day when turkey growers from several states fraternize and swap ideas. A large attendance is anticipated. The earlier date should mean pleasanter weather and cause the birds to appear at their best.

A timely variation in the plan from former years calls for a grading demonstration, according to Government Standards, by W. H. Rice, Extension Poultry Specialist of the University of Maryland, who is a licensed grader. Head wrapping and attractive packing will be illustrated. Marketing problems will be discussed. The demonstration and discussions will be held in the College Auditorium through the cooperation of Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, President of Washington College.

After careful study of the many facts to be considered, it was decided to visit the three largest flocks in the county, since time would permit but few visits. Much regret is felt that time does not permit of visits to the splendid flocks belonging to: Mrs. W. B. Harris, Mrs. Harry T. Williams, Harry Willis, Mrs. A. E. Nicholson, Mrs. W. H. Rambo, to mention a few of the many.

The itinerary is as follows:

Meet at John Biggers' farm near Millington at 9.30 a. m., spend one hour there. Visit Albert Jervis at Still Pond 11.15 to 12.00 m. Lunch at Chestertown served by the Bykota Club of the M. E. Church 12.30 to 1.15. Visit Baker's Turkey Farm 1.45 to 2.30 p. m. Demonstrations and Discussions, Washington College 3.00 to 4.00 p. m.

Marketing is very important this year. Growers need full value for their birds. Attractive packing influences price. Due to a smaller turkey crop than last year, and to the free use of turkey throughout the year, it is felt that turkey prices should be as high at least as last year, and higher for those who will locate special outlets for their birds.

The Tour is fostered by the Extension Service with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce, the Turkey Growers Association, and the growers. J. D. McVean, Kent County Agent at Chestertown, is very busy working out all the details. Anyone desiring directions how to reach the farms may secure same from the County Agents office.

PENINSULA TRAFFIC INCREASES

A close check-up on ferries and highways radiating from Del-Mar-Va indicates that the tourist traffic on the Peninsula will average 105 per cent. of last year's volume. This is impressive as from reliable sources and close check-ups in the mountain and inland sections such as the Shenandoah Valley, Western Maryland, West Virginia and Western North Carolina tourist traffic this year during vacation months has not exceeded 60 per cent. of last year. The intense heat caused a general trend toward the bathing beaches and offered a fortunate opportunity for Del-Mar-Va resorts to become known to people who had previously sought mountain places for their vacations.

With the parcial crop failures on the Peninsula the tourist dollars have been of unquestionable aid in combatting the financial condition occurred by the drought. People who formerly knew only of such resorts as Atlantic City were in many instances compelled by financial conditions to seek less expensive places of recreation and have discovered that they find an abundance in Del-Mar-Va and that their trips are attractively inexpensive.

The wide distribution of literature publicizing the Peninsula and its many attractions to the vacationist and tourist is undoubtedly responsible for a large amount of the present traffic.

Arthur H. Holloway, former assistant cashier of the Salisbury National Bank, was sentenced to serve two years and six months in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., in the United States Circuit Court at Baltimore, Monday. Sentence was passed by Judge Morris A. Soper.

When his case was called for trial Monday morning, Holloway pleaded guilty to embezzlement and other charges.

The bank does not sustain a financial loss as a result of the defalcations, the bonding company having paid in full the claim of $5,650.
