WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

October 8, 9, and 10 will see a great gathering of women from all over the state in E[illegible]n, when the Maryland W[illegible]man's C[illegible]tian Temperance Union meets there its 55th annual convention. The [illegible]e president, Mrs. Mary E. Haslup, Baltimore, will preside over the n[illegible]ngs, which will be held in th[illegible]ist Episcopal Church South.

The ses[illegible] on Wednesday, October 8, wil[illegible]lude a meeting of the State Exe[illegible]e Committee at 3 p. m. and a ba[illegible]quet at 6.30 p. m. served by the Grange. At this event, Mrs. L. G. Frazier, of Hurlock, will preside as president of the Talbot-Dorchester-Caroline W. C. T. U., hostesses to the convention. Mts. Haslup will serve as toast mistress. Short messages will be given by the Mayor of Easton, Hon. W. Herman Hopkins, Rev. Mr. Edgar T. Read and Rev. M. W. A. Hearn, both of Easton, and Hon. C. M. Spence, of Dorchester county.

The first regular session of the convention will be called to order promptly at 9 a. m. Thursday morning. Following the devotional service will come the reports of the state officers and directors of departments. At 3.30 a demonstraton will be given by the children of Easton in connection with the report of the Loyal Temperance Legion work. This will be an especially interesting part of the program. An Open Forum concludes the afternoon meeting. This will be conducted by Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, vice president of the National W. C. T. U., and president of the Iowa State W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Smith is also the speaker of Thuraday evening, her topic biding citizenship and its relation to good government. From all over the country come enthusiastic newspaper reports of Mrs. Smith's addresses and her own charming personality. The Houston Chronicle says of her: "She speaks in a calm, clear voice without any theatrical posses or stridency of gesture or language. There is nothing spiteful or unkind in her attitude toward the opponents of prohibition. Her arguments are based on reason. She lays the facts upon the table and lets the audience decide for itself whether it will express itself through the ballot and in daily life in favor of law enforcement or whether by a good indifference it will permit the forces of evil to triumph in the breaking down of respect for law, allegiance to the government and eradication of the liquor traffic according to the expressed will of the people of the United States.

Departmental reports will be continued Friday morning. The annual election of officers also comes that morning. The election of directors and delegates to the national convention in the afternoon, followed by unfinished business, concludes the business sessions.

On Friday evening a public meeting will be addresed by the Hon. John A. McSparran, Past Master Pennsylvania State Grange. Mr. McSparran recently addressed a meeting in Baltimore where he was enthusiastically received.

A crab house in Tilghman has reached the 1,000,000 pound mark in handling crabs this season and is still going strong. This represents $15,000 paid to the crabbers who caught them.

INJUNCTION OVERRULED

An injunction was filed on Friday of last week by sixteen citizens of Chestertown to prohibit the contractor from finishing the five foot concrete shoulders on the West side of Washington Ave. The hearing on the injunction was held before Judge Adkins ,chief judge of the Circuit Court at the Court House, Chestertown, on Thursday of this week.

The plaintiffs in the case made the Washington Ave., Citizens Committee, Town Commissioners, State Roads Commission and Field, Baker and Underwood contractors, defendants.

The State Roads Commission let a contract to the above named contractors to build three foot shoulders on both sides of the highway from the arch on Washington Ave., to Kennedyville then on one side to Locust Grove. A number of citizens on Washington Ave., after interviewing the contractor found that a five foot extension on each side beyond the time from the arch to the end of the concrete road in Chestertown at a lower cost than to make a separate job of it and after getting a price for this work petitioned the Commissioners of Chestertown to build it. The commissionrs agreed to the stated price of $6,500 and requested the State Roads Commission to do this work in conjunction with their contract. At a meeting of the town commissioners with ther Attorney Wilbur R. Hubbard it was found that they did not have the legal right to do this work as the money was not in hand, and the State Roads Commission were so notified.

The citizens of Washington Ave., then indorsd a note raising the necessary $6500 and the five foot shoulder on the east sid of the avenue was completed.

A body of citizens of Chestertown filed an injunction against the continuance of the work and the hearing was held.

Th plaintiffs endeavored to prove that the money was paid by Washington Ave., residents with the understanding that they would be reimbursed by the Commissioners of Chestertown when the money was available. The objection to questions to bring out this fact was sustained by the court.

The court granted a motion of complainants to amend their bill of complaint by adding an allegation that no money had been appropriated by the town commissioners for paying for this work and further to add an additional prayers of relief enjoining the town commissioners from borrowing the necessary money or afterwards reimbursing the citizens committee from the general fund.

The order of the court had not been received at the time of going to press. The court, however, ruled that these citizens together with other citizens of Chestertown who are on notes could be relieved of their obligations by an act of the Legislature allowing a bond issue.

BARGES UPSET IN RIVER

Three barges belonging to Spencer, White and Prentiss, contractors on the new Chester River bridge, and loaded with sand and gravel for the bridge construction, turned over at the mouth of Chester River Saturday morning.

The heavy wind caused the shifting of the deck load on barge no. 3 to up set and Kelly Terry, tender of the barges, after cutting it loose was thrown into the water. When the tug boat, which was towing the barges, swing around to pick up Terry the other barges became tangled and upset.

The barges are now wrecked on the bay side of the Eastern Neck Island Narrows.
