NOW AND THEN

IN THE ITDIAN OCEAN

I stood and watched our spars,
Softly through warm air whirring,
Black against myriad stars,
And not a star stirring.

Low isles and distant heights
Had passed and fallen astern,
But these unwavering lights
Without a movement burn.

And once more teach me clear
The ways, that seem so far,
Of all our wandering here
Are nothing to a star.

—Lord Dunsany.

Among the many things that we miss this fall on account of the unusual drouth that is causing distress in our land is the beautiful Autumn foliage that we are accustomed to see. Though the skies are a brilliant blue, and the waters reflect their color, yet the leaves which are usually gold at this season are brown and the scarlet foliage is hardly seen. And yet in spite of all, nature is beautiful to behold.

We wonder if any one counts the steps one takes in the golf links. It is that that makes the game a healthy one. Walking for pleasure rather than for exercise. And the golf ball!

To A Golf Ball

"Mercy on you, little pill,
Socked and smacked and pounded 'till
You're so battered and so sore
Nothing hurts you any more!
Bear a while each pain and ache
And perhaps you'll get a break;
Soon he'll knock you, litle ball,
Where you'll not be found at all."

"Give me five more years, and the United States will have a rubber crop which can be utilized in less than twelve months time," Thomas A. Edison stated recently. The crop he referred to is goldenrod, a common weed that grows in nearly all parts of the country but is especially adapted to southern states. He has discovered a variety that grows ten feet above a man's head, which, by cross breeding, will produce 8 per cent. of fine rubber. Mr. Edison, now 83, still works fourteen hours a day. He declares this rubber problem the toughest he ever tried to solve.

"What do you charge for rooms in this hotel?"

"Four dollars up."

"But I'm a college student."

"Then it's $4 down."

"I am a woman of few words," announced the haughty mistress to the new maid. "If I beckon with my finger, that means come."

"Suits me, mum," replied the girl. "I'm a woman of few words myself. If I shake me head, that means I ain't comin'."

Inscription for a Golden Tablet

"Colonel Lindbergh's birthplace in Detroit is to become a museum.
By this window here discerned,
Looking down the garden walk,
Lindy in his boyhood learned
Not to talk."

FOUR FIRE ALARMS IN 2 DAYS

The serious danger of fire at this time, when everything is so dry that the smallest flame will spread into a large fire in a few seconds, was revealed the first two days of this week when local firemen answered four alarms.

The first call came on Sunday when some one carelessly threw some ignited article into a pile of lumber on the Queen Anne's side of the Chester River bridge. Sunday evening firemen were called to the house adjoining the Chestertown Ice Plant where a fire was well underway. This building is a double house half of which is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennard and the other side by the railroad night watchman. The fire started from unknown origin in the part occupied by the night watchman but was confined by local firemen with two lines of hose.

Monday morning the home of Mr. Milton Crew, near McGinnis Corner burned to the ground. The alarm was answered by the Chestertown and Millington companies. The Chestertown truck was returning to the fire house when another alarm sounded reporting a fire at Washington College. A brush fire in the rear of the athletic field had spread until the entire south corner of the field and fence were on fire.

Mr. Claude Parks, of Baltimore, was a visitor in town on Thursday. Mr. Parks, who is employed by the W. B. & A. Railway Co., has been transferred to Washington, D. C.

DROWNED IN KENT ISLAND NARROWS

William Parker, 13 year old adopted son of Mr. Turner was drowned near the site of the new Kent Island narrows bridge on September 24th.

According to a report of the accident young Parker was on the boat of his adopted father when it struck a test pile, throwing the boy in the water.

STAKE BLIND PRIVILEGES END OCTOBER 10

October 10th, was the last day on which owners of shores in Kent county on Sassafras River, Chesapeake Bay and parts of Chester River, have the preference of securing stake blind licenses. After that date anyone may secure a license for a stake blind opposite any shore where the erection of such a blind is legal, provided that there has been no stake blind license secured prior to their application.

At noon on Thursday, October 9th, Clerk of the Court, Robert A. Shallcross, had issued 49 stake blind licenses to shore owners or renters. Last year there were 62 stake blind licenses scured for Kent waters.

Stake blinds are restricted in Chester River as follows:

Unlawful to set or erect a blind on the waters of the Chester River and its tributaries in Kent County, except in Grey's Inn Creek, Comegy's Bight, and between a line drawn from Beaver Dam in Hall Creek, Kent County, to Stony Bar Bluff at the mouth of Jackson's Creek in Queen Anne's County and Drum Point in Kent County. Also unlawful to erect a blind on the waters of Chesapeake Bay in Kent County between the north end of Hickory Thicket and the mouth of Chester River.

—Fine pictures at the New Lyceum Theatre every night next week don't miss them.

MILLINGTON PREACHER WRITES BOOK

"The Unpolished Diamond," the title of a novel of Tangier Island life, of the period of the War of 1812, is proving of interest on the Peninsula.

Aside from its romantic appeal, the story dealing with the love of an Island girl and a British soldier, the book has a still greater appeal to Somerset County folks for the reason that it's author is a Somerset County man, having resided in Crisfield for a number of years; taught school at Fairmount, Mt. Vernon and Deals Island; and upon entering the ministry, served at Oriole. He is now located at Millington, Md.

The setting for the book is Tangier, a small Island located in the Chesapeake Bay, just below the Maryland line, when the British made it the base for their operation during the War of 1812. One of the prominent characters is Joshua Thomas, a native of the Island to whom tradition has attributed supernatural power. The climax is Thomas preaching to the British on the eve of their departure on their ill-fated expedition against Baltimore. The chief appeal of the book however is a romance between an Island girl and a British soldier.

The author of the book, Roland H. Nelson, assumed the Nom de Plume of R. Nels, for literary purposes.

THIEVES ENTER CROOKS STORE

ATTEMPT ROBBERY IN CHESTERTOWN AND ROCK HALL

Thieves entered Crook's store in Chestertown Saturday night after closing time and being unable to move or ppen the safe left without any loot.

Entrance was made by taking a sash out of one of the rear windows and it was evidently the intention of the thieves to take the safe away as tracks indicated that a truck had been backed into the yard. The safe was of the large, heavy old style type and was too heavy to move and too large to pass through the door.

An effort was made to open the safe and the dial and handle were broken off. It is not known whether the intruders were frightened away or gave up their effort to get the safe open. The safe was so badly damaged that it was necessary to cut a hole in the door in order to get it open.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moffett live on the second floor of the building but heard no indication of the attempted robbery.

Sargeant Walter Martin, finger print expert of the Baltimore police force came to Chestertown Tuesday and took some finger prints which were on the safe. Although no arrests have been made, officers are checking up on a man who came into the store to make a purchase shortly before closing time.

Enter Rock Hall Store

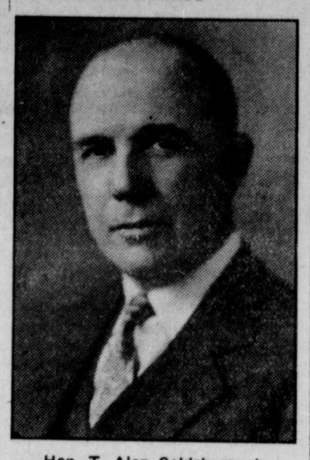

The same night of the attempted burglary in Chestertown, thieves entered the Crook's store in Rock Hall but a checkup found nothing missing.

Another Chance

Meakin—Take dancing lessons! Well, I think not! There are too many other ways by which I can make a fool of myself!

His wife—Yes, dear; but you have tried all of those!

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough

Congressman Goldsborough, candidate for re-election as congressman from the First Congressional District was in Kent county this week.

INJURED BY BULL

Mr. Samuel Emory was painfully injured this week when he was attacked by a bull on his farm in Broad Neck The bull knocked him down and would probably have seriously injured him had it not been for the presence of a colored boy who succeeded in attracting the bull's attention until Mr. Emory was able to crawl away.

HORSESHOE TOURNAMENT NEXT THURSDAY

Raymond D. Gozman, of near Still Pond will represent Kent County in the annual State-wide horseshoe pitching tournament to be held in Baltimore next Wednesday, October 15th.

Mr. Gozman will compete with the best from each of the counties in the state and if he is on his game he will make his competitors hustle.

SHORE COMMISSIONERS TO MEET

County Commissioners, S. J. Johnson, Charles D. Wood and T. Ringgold Jones and County Road Engineer, Gilbert Taylor, are planning to attend the fall meeting of County Commissioners of the nine Eastern Shore counties at Princess Ann, Somerset county, on Monday, October 20th.

County problems will be discussed, many of which are similar in all nine counties. Roads always take a prominant part in the discussion.

CELEBRATES 75TH ANNIVERSARY

DANIEL SAGER HALL HAD HIS FIRST BIRTHDAY AND DR. HALL HIS 75TH FRIDAY

Salin, Michigan, Friday, Sept. 19—A. Sager Hall celebrated his 75th and his grandson, Daniel Sager Hall, his first birthday here today.

They partook of a splendid dinner at the Saline hotel at which were also present his son, Daniel, and wife, Cornelia; also as guests Professor and Mrs Julio del Toro of the University, Mrs. Ida Parks, of Chestertown, Md., and Mrs. Taylor, of Toledo.

Later they were delightfully entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. del Toro at their home, 1120 Hill St., Ann Arbor. Mr. Hall and grandchild each had a birthday cake illuminated by candles and were also recipients during the day of many cards and fine presents.

DONATIONS FOR W. C. LIBRARY

VALUABLE GIFTS TO COLLEGE LIBRARY

The library at Washington College has recently received some valuable gifts.

Mr. Hrbert Hartman, of Chestertown, has contributed many back numbers of The National Geographic Magazine from 1912 to 1929. This set admirably fills in a big gap among the library's bound volumes of magazines of value. These issues of the National Geographic can hardly be secured in the open market for love or money.

Another generous gift was that of Andrew Jackson Foble, of Cambridge, who has within the past few days sent Washington College a large portion of his small, but carefully selected, library. Among other documents and volumes of value is a description by the famous writer, Bayard Taylor, of a trip down the Eastern Shore in 1871, several volumes on Masonry, particularly the history of the Order in Maryland, and a priceless volume on Masonry written by Dr. William Smith, founder and first president of the college. For this volume Mr. Foble was offered and refused $500.

PIG CLUB ENTRY WINS LITTER CONTEST

JESSE HURD—4H BOY WINS FOR KENT COUNTY

Jesse Hurd wears a smile. His entry in the 150 day, 1500 Pound Litter Contest, sponsored by the Maryland Stochmen's Association, is the only Kent County entry to meet the requirements. Several others entrants, when Drought reduced forage and feed crops, ceased their efforts to make a Litter of Pigs weigh 1500 pounds at an age of 150 days.

Mr. Schluderburg of the "S-K" Company, Baltimore Packers, offers generous prizes to winners in this contest. There is a $100 State prize, a $75 second State prize and a $25 prize for the winning Litter in each county.

Young Hurd wins the $25, as well as the satisfaction of achieving a goal. 4-H Club Boys and Girls throughout the United States are setting a fast pace in livestock production. Undoubtedly the leading stockmen of tomorrow are in Club ranks today. Over three-fourths of a million 4-H members form a real rural army making real advances in agricultural achievement as well as along the social side represented by the Four H's of their emblem, indicating training of head, heart, health and hand.

The Litter of Ten pigs, Poland Chinas, when weighed by the County Agent on the 150 day after their birth weighed 1535 pounds. A margin of 35 pounds. The boy did well but of course stands no chance of winning the State prize. The records of feed consumption reveal that Jesse made a nice profit on his effort. The $25 is clear "gravy" also.

MILK COMPANY AIDS DAIRYMEN IN FEED BUYING

SUPPLEE-WILLS-JONES COMPANY COOPERATES WITH THEIR PRODUCERS AT CHESTERTOWN—WORTON & KENNEDYVILLE PLANTS

Mr. Dell Hendershott, local fieldman of the Supplee-Wills-Jones Company of Philadelphia, is arranging a plan whereby dairymen desiring to purchase feed (with which to keep their cows up in production) may arrange with their local Plant Manager for an order to buy such feed as they need, from their own dealer or wherever they may buy to best advantage. The Milk Company pays the dealer for the feed—deducting the cost of the feed from the milk check.

This is a practical step, available to all who can make use of the plan. It may not appeal to every producer, but will appeal to many who, due to drought, are short of available funds to pay cash for their feed, and who get a better price than if credit is granted.

The plan appeals to many in that it causes no upset in regular trade channels. It makes feed readily available to those who need it and desire it. It means that cows need not be upset by changing from one feed to another. The dealer renders a service to the producer by coming to his aid the period "between milk checks."

It will be recalled that the Drought Committee, through J. D. McVean its Secretary, urges the purchase of feeds while reduced freight rates are still effective (until October 31st.) The Committee cites four reasons for securing hay at this time viz.

1. Take advantage of the reduced freight rates.

2. Save the advance in price that is sure to come as the visible supply dwindles. There is a 15 per cent. shortage of hay in the country as a whole.

3. Feed to save the market from Western producers and to make a "good basic," since the amount of basic milk influences the value of all the milk for the year.

4. Feed to keep the cow in fair condition and vigor so that they may respond when feed and pasture is again available.

It would seem advisable for farmers to make determined effort to secure their needs at this opportune time. Lack of evidence of desire to secure the hay shows effort to finance an adequate supply. The time for action is short. "Be Wise in Time."

BANQUET ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE

At the time of going to press arrangements were complete for the banquet at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club, last night to be given by the club members to the golf team of that club which won the Peninsula Championship.

Due to the inability of Dr. Burris, of Salisbury, president of the league, to attend, Dr. E. J. Clark, of Pocomoke City, will present the cup. Following the dinner the arrangements included dancing and cards.
