ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drugstore.

Well, Well!

Blinks—You can't beat a hard-boiled egg.

Jinks—Maybe not, but I just saw a cop beat one up.

SCANTY AS YET

She—Mary's buying that dress on installments.

He—Advise her not to wear it again until she has all the installments.

Study in Manufacture

Though manufacturers disclose
Great works we marvel to recall,
The mischief-maker always shows
The most production of them all.

Meant to Compliment

"Ah, Mr. Simpson," exclaimed a kittenish old lady, "you must remember that I am a daughter of Eve!"

"Well, honestly," replied the blundering man, "you don't look half so old!"

Reconsidered

Philippi—You know, I fell in love with Jack Huggins at first sight.

Perdita—When is your engagement to be announced?

Philippi—Never. I took a second look.

Self-Deception

Perhaps you cynically sigh,
"In vain to get the truth I try!"
Yet most of what is told to you
Is what you like to listen to.

They Were Scared Away

"Well, Lena, did you get the germs driven out of the sick room in your cleaning this morning?"

Lena—"I looked under the bed and in the corners, but couldn't find any, ma'am. I guess they left before I came."

Speaking From Experience

The Lawyer—Well, shall we take the jury as it stands?

The Accused—Better fire the married women, counsellor. They always convict on the slightest circumstantial evidence.

Expensive Course

Ma Talltimber—I'm afraid Bud's learned to gamble at college.

Pa—Well, I hope he's finally mastered the study. His expenses while he's been learning it have been too much for me.

Inappropriate

Beggar—Can you spare me a pair of very old shoes?

Lady—But you are wearing quite good ones.

Beggar—I know, ma'am, and they are ruining my whole business.

Easy Money

Yolande—Old absent-minded professors are all right.

Godiva—How so?

Yolande—I borrowed $10 from one once and he forgot all about it.

Hit and Run

She—How do you like being an automobile salesman?

He—Fine. The boss gave me two customers to run down, and I hit them both ten minutes later.

Frascati and Tusculum

One of the most delightful excursions from Rome is south to Frascati and Tusculum. This section is higher than Rome, and cooler, so it has become a favorite summer resort for Romans and foreigners alike. There are many beautiful villas owned by famous Roman families, and often the public is admitted to the gardens of ancient trees and splashing fountains, and to the interior courtyards and galleries. It is a hard climb to see them all, so many people prefer to hire little donkeys before leaving Frascati. The road to Tusculum was built by the ancient Romans—Cicero's chariot used often to pass over it on the way to his summer place, and all the patricians came this way to the theater which is in a fine state of preservation to this day.

Philosophic Fable

Once upon a time there was a man who discovered that he could run faster from a Lion than he could after a Rabbit. One day while marveling over the fact that the Rabbit always got away when he chased it, and that in escaping from a Lion he always ran faster than any Rabbit was ever known to run, it came to him that if he could only be chasing bunnies at the same time that he was fleeing Lions he would always be able to capture the one at the same time that he was getting away from the other.

After that he always had Rabbit Stew for dinner any day he got between a Lion and a Rabbit, and he went looking for Lions every day.—Kansas City Times.

Mankind's Duty

There is nothing lost in doing good, nor is there lack of wisdom in cloud or light. They are all above us and beyond us, and for them we are not to account, but the talent given in our keeping, we are held to render its return with something added. Progress is the law of life, and progress is the product of doing. Our work is here and it is within our grasp and power to do our best. We cannot advance in this life, by asking that our work be done for us, nor if we possessed untold wealth would we be content.—Soarks.

Just What Does Become of Millions of Needles?

Life is full of little mysteries. Tons and tons of steel, for instance, are turned every year into razor blades. Blades are used and discarded by the million. Where do they go? And pins. About fifty years ago it was calculated that enough pins had been made in England to cover the whole surface of the land. Since then their manufacture has gone on at an increasing rate. They are bought and used and dropped—and they just disappear. Somehow you can understand a pin disappearing, for it is made of soft brass, which soon becomes corroded. But what about needles? Needles are made of very hard steel. They don't wear out and their business ends retain their sharpness almost indefinitely. Yet one firm in England has been manufacturing needles at the rate of three and a half millions a week for many years, and for over two hundred years millions have been pouring out steadily from works at Redditch. Nowadays modern machinery enables one grinder to point 100,000 needles in a day. Every week Redditch sells enough needles to supply every man, woman, and child in the country with one apiece. Each of us loses on the average one needle a week throughout his or her life.

Keep Up Old Custom of Blessing Fishing Boats

For more than three centuries the annual departure of the fishing fleet from the picturesque fishing port of St. Malo, France, has been preceded by the solemn blessing of each boat. The rite dates back to the days when passage across the western ocean to the Grand banks of Newfoundland was likely to be a terrifying experience. Vessels were small, disaster and disease took frequent toll in human lives, and so the mariner made his peace with heaven before he set sail. Today the devout fisherman follows the custom of his forefathers with peasants grouped everywhere in native costumes watching the ceremony. His need is less, however, for hazards of the voyage are not so great as they were 300 years ago. Vessels are larger, and it was noted at a recent ceremony at St. Malo that a majority of the fishing craft had modern auxiliary motor power to supplement their sail areas.
