OLD INDIAN FIGHTER SETTLES HERE

Sergeant Howard Stanton, of New York City recently purchased from Mr. Riley Frazier, an attractive little home in Piney Neck. This "soldier's home" overlooks a beautiful arm of the bay where the waters abound in the sea-foods and the shores with wild game.

Sergeant Stanton saw fifteen years of hard and faithful service as an Indian fighter under Generals M. P. Maus, Nelson Miles and Howard campaigning against the Sioux, Nez Perces and the Apaches in the Black Hills, the Bear Mountains and in the wilds of Mexico. His troup pursued and finally captured the wily old chief Beronimo who was brought back to the States on Sergt. Stanton's steed. The Sergeant's record as a noted marksman is filed away in the old archives at Washington. The veteran expresses himself as much pleased with his new surroundings. He was brought here through the efforts of the Strout Farm Agency, represented by Leonard C. Treherne, of Chestertown.
