FAIRLEE—
Mrs. Frank W. Smith	30.00
ROCK HALL—
Mrs. W. O. Selby	60.00
	$577.25

These chairmen were assisted in the campaign by a large number of willing workers.

Considering the financial depression at this time, the campaign was very successful and the local Chairmen are to be congratulated.

The Chapter of Kent County will have a meeting the early part of January at which time best methods will be devised to use the Chapter's part of this money for the relief of distress among those people who are most deserving of assistance.

From the sale of all One Dollar Memberships, one-half goes to the National Chapter in Washington and one-half is retained by the local Chapter. Where large amounts are subscribed, for instance $5.00—$1.00 is divided between the local Chapter and the National Chapter and the balance is allowed the local Chapter for its use.

The Officers of the Kent Chapter are:

HOWARD TURNER, Chairman,
MRS. JAMES G. BECK, Vice Chair.
ALLAN A. HARRIS, Treasurer.
MRS. FRANK W. SMITH, Sec.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE IN LACROSSE LEAGUE

Washington College, taking up lacrosse in a serious way, is one of six colleges forming the newly organized Middle States Conference Lacrosse League. The league was officially formed at the annual meeting of Middle States Athletic Conference held last Saturday in Philadelphia. Fred W. Dumshott, graduate manager, and Omar D. Crothers, lacrosse mentor, represented Washington at the conference.

The six teams comprising the new stick league are: Washington, New York University, Lehigh, Lafayette, Stevens and Swarthmore. The schedule for 1931 calls for Washington to meet New York University in New York on April 17; Lafayette to visit Washington here on April 24; and for the Shoremen to journey to Swarthmore on May 16.

Twenty-three colleges are members of the association out of which the new lacrosse loop grew. Washington and Hopkins are the only Maryland schools in the conference.

The discontinuance of base ball at the local college makes Lacrosse the major spring sport.

HOPEFUL NEW YEAR 1931

The coming New Year is full of Hope, and we can all look for and expect a turn for the better in 1931.

Courage will be the greatest asset

NOW AND THEN

Lonely Lanes
From the Detroit News

Lonely lanes are lovely,
Lined with birds and trees;
Lonely lanes are silent friends
And full of mysteries.

There's a little lane I know
That leans and looks at me
With daisy eyes, from weedy hair
That murmurs like the sea

When hand in hand the lane and I
Go through the fields together,
We talk of never-heard-of things
And praise the rifted weather.

Somehow when I approach the end
I have a feeling odd,
And look among the pointed grass
For one short glimpse of God.

PEGGY REID.

Miss Talley's Wheat Crop

From the Holton (Kan.) Signal.

A lot of fun has been had over the fact that Marion Talley left grand opera and went into the wheat raising business, but the fact is that the first year Miss Talley raised wheat there was an overproduction. Something should be done to keep that girl in grand opera.

No wonder Marion retired. There were so many calling themselves critics who found fault with her technique, those who had no glorious voice like hers.

And in raising wheat she can still lift up her voice and the sweet singers of the woods will make no critical comments. Like Keats in the last century who wilted and died under the fierce criticisms of his contempories, Marion was wounded to the quick. But that she will come back to Grand Opera is the hope of all, and perhaps she will yield at last to the importunities of her friends.

Wishing to do his bit to help the unemployed, the proprietor of a Broadway hat shop in New York City advertised that he would give away all the shopworn and out-of-style hats in his place, several thousand of them. Next morning, when he opened up, a line 1 1-2 blocks long was waiting. Within an hour, the line was four blocks long. Occupants of stores along the line were forced to board up their show windows, to keep them from being broken in the crush. The hats were all gone, with several hundred persons still in line.

Einstein has certainly raised one question in this country among the men and that is, What kind of hair tonic does he use. It is more vital than relativity.

Short skirts are no more. They expired this fall and there is no need now for street sweepers as the long skirts will perform the job.

Paris Note

From the Detroit loathes
The thing a woman simply loathes
About these new long-skirted clothes
Is not that the're so feminine—
It's stepping through the hem again.
I should half smother with caresses
The one who could design some dresses
That while they swept around my feet
Would also not sweep up the street.

FLORENCE RYERSON

In spite of hard times Christmas has been a bright one.

The electric lighted Christmas trees at Noland's and the Community tree in the square, show that the Christmas spirit has entered in the hearts of our people, and it is pleasant to think that this season lasts until New Year. Christmas, bringing in the cold weather, seems more than any other season, to say give! give! give.

CHURCH CHOIR RENDERS CANTATA

A large audience heard the choir of Christ Methodist Protestant Church render the Christmas Cantata, "Chimes of the Holy Night" last Sunday evening under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence G. Brown, with W. Robert Huey, Jr., a student at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, at the pipe organ. The choir occupied the chancel of the church amidst beautiful decorations of Christmas evergreens, ferns, lighted candles, and an attractive Christmas tree which formed a pretty background for the rendition of the cantata which was the story of the birth of Jesus in song. The soloists included Mrs. James H. Sides, Mrs. James W. Crouch, Mrs. Lawrence G. Brown, Miss Dorothy Woodall, J. Hydie Thompson, T. D. Bowers, with a supporting chorus composed of Mrs. Fred C. Livingood, Mrs. Charles F. Wheatley, Mrs. George H. Cannan, Mrs. Walter U. Lusby, Mrs. T. D. Bowers, Mrs. J. Hydie Thompson, Miss Flora Wheatley, Arlington L. Sparks, Waters Russell McMenamin, Phillip Sewell, and Griffith Clift. There have been numerous requests that the cantata be repeated during the holidays. The singing was said to be the finest heard in the church for many years.

Hello Boys and Girls!

Here's Something for You!

This paper intends to have a regular space for the printing of things for the children—new games and things to make with pencil, scissors or saw —funny pictures and comical notions of all sorts. It will be called "The Children's Corner" and will be different each week. Great sport for the hours before and after school.

POSTOFFICE DOES RECORD BUSINESS

The Chestertown Post Office broke all records on Monday of this week when stamps the receipts showed $300 worth of letter and parcel post stamps sold.

This figure is $100 above any previous record. $250 was received from letter stamps sold during the day.

The town delivery of parcel post since December 1st, has averaged 250 packages and on Monday the parcel post postman delivered 1000 packages in town and 2000 were delivered by the Chestertown rural carriers making the delivery out of Chestertown that day total 3000 packages.

In the last collection from the mail boxes in Chestertown at 10 p. m. Sunday night 1122 letters were collected.

The incoming parcel post to the other postoffices in the county has been unusually large.

LADIES AUXILIARY ELECTS OFFICERS

At the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, held at the fire house on Monday evening of this week the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Jesse Blakney.
Vice Pres., Mrs. P. M. Brooks.
Secretary, Miss Ann Smyth.
Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Bacon.

The retiring officers are Mrs. W. L. Fowler, President; Mrs. Alan Harris, vice president; Mrs. Jesse Blakney, secretary; Miss Ada Schreiber, treasurer.

The activities during the past year included a donation of $500 toward the payment of the Fire Company Band uniforms, and serving sandwiches and coffee to the firemen after night calls. Their report shows that they fed 200 men during the year. The assistance rendered by this organization has been added a great deal to the efficiency of the fire company. The report of the treasurer showed a balance in hand of $300.

RAIN BADLY NEEDED

The drouth is still a serious problem to local farmers as insufficient rain fall has left the ground in wheat fields very dry and is not packed enough to give the roots a hold. Farmers stated this week that the wheat can be easily pulled out of the ground. The question of drinking water in rural sections is still a problem and many wells are still dry.

The water in the upper Chesapeake Bay and tributaries is salter than it has been for many years and large numbers of fresh water fish have been found dead along the shores due to this brakish condition.

—A chimney at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Derringer caught fire Monday evening of this week.

ATTEMPT TO ROB GALENA BANK

BURGLARS BURN VAULT DOOR BUT FAIL TO OPEN IT

When Mr. Roland Pennington, Cashier of the Galena Bank, a branch of the Chestertown Bank of Maryland, went to the bank Tuesday morning he found that the front door had been pried off and inside of the bank near the vault was found a milk can filled with water and a long pole.

The vault door had been burned half way through with an acetyline torch but it had not been opened. Burglars had attempted to burn out the combination dial and had nearly succeeded in their attempt, but when the emergency bolt took effect they apparently abandoned hope and left. This emergency bolt is an attachment in the vault door that takes effect double locking the door, when the dial is tampered with.

Sheriff John Vickers and States Attorney Stephen R. Collins were notified and immediately went to Galena.

The windows of the bank had been packed by the burglars and it is thought that they intended to blow the door open with explosives. Another milk can full of water was found outside the front door.

The front door had apparently been pried open with a crowbar.

Local authorities are working with insurance detectives and representatives of the York Safe Company and at the time of going to press had a number of clues.

It is not known whether the burglars were frightened away or found the vault door too difficult to open.

HOME FLOWER GARDEN

What woman does not have her flower garden and what woman would not, if she could add to its beauty throughout the season? The State Extensive Service has planned a Home Flower Garden Project to do just that.

The first lesson tells how to plant the beds to give the greatest ease in cultivation, what to plant to have cut flowers from the first blooming until frost, how to group the plants for color effects, growth habits and effective relation to the rest of the door-yard or lawn.

Three other lessons fellow each one designed to fill your special needs:

2. Study of soil and the correct fertilization for proper growth.

3. Time to plant and how to plant various types of annuals.

4. Care of animals and control of insects and blight.

This year's work will be confined to the growth of animals and in two successive years you will be able to follow the course through a complete landscaping plan for your home grounds.

This past year two members of each Club were trained to help with the country wide program for 1931. These persons are known as project demonstrators. The first lesson will be given in each community in January.

Now is the time to start the Flower Garden.

SWAN CREEK CLUB PARTY

The Swan Creek Women's Club held their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. W. O. Edmonston, Thursday evening, December 18, 1930.

A turkey supper with all the trimmings was served, followed by plum pudding music, and games helped to make the occasion a memorable event. About thirty members and guests were present.

FEED THE GAME

COOPERATION URGED BY GAME DEPARTMENT

Due to the unusual drought which has occurred throughout Maryland during 1929 and 1930, it is very essential that the general public co-operate with us in the winter feeding of our wildlife and we solicit the co-operation of sportsmen's organizations, teachers and pupils of the public school, rural mail carriers, boy scouts and individuals, who, during the past winter have heartily co-operated in carrying out this very necessary program.

During the past year, this Department has furnished to the public feed to the amount of $5,441.09 which undoubtedly saved thousands of pieces of wildlife during the winter season of 1930 when natural feed was at its lowest ebb and aided our wildlife in their struggle during a period when they need human assistance the most.

The drought of this past summer evidently has played havoc with our wildlife supply for the hunting season of 1930. Reports were to the effect throughout the State early in the season that game birds and game animals were plentiful in the covers, but the hunting season has not proved this to be a fact.

There are numbers of methods of bird feeding which can be employed very effectively. The Hagerstown Chapter of the Isaak Walton League, during the winter season of 1930, established on farms, fifty-four feeding stations at small expense. Those stations consisted of a tressle bench at each side of which was set corn-stalks, affording shelter, each end open to allow entrance and exit in case of attack.

A very good method which has been used is to suspend from a limb or post, a barrel with both ends knocked out, with the feed placed therein; the birds will soon use thiscon trivance as a dinner table and cannot be attacked by vermin.

Many fine specimens of game, song and insecticverous birds will die of starvation during this winter unless they are provided with feed and every bird that dies means less assistance to the agriculturists of our State to help them in growing crops this coming year, as it cannot be denied that the majority of species of song and insectivorous birds and the great game bird, the bob-white, are very necessary for the growing of crops and timber.

We have found that grain such as scratch feed, corn, wheat and rye are the best feed for wildlife, furnishing more nutriment, and a well-fed bird or animal can stand bitter cold weather, whereas when they are underfed, they die very quickly from exposure.

The hunters of our State need not expect a bountiful supply of game when they go afield during the season of 1931, unless they make some efforts to assist in carrying over brood stock for the coming propagation season.

The Game Division of the Conservation Department of Maryland, thru the District Deputy Game Wardens of the twenty-three counties, will furnish feed to those interested, who are not able or willing to provide it.

E. LEE LE'COMPTE,
State Game Warden of Maryland.

CENTREVILLE BANK SELLS OUT

The Queen Anne's National Bank at Centreville, we understood, sold its banking business, building and entire assets to the Centreville National Bank on Wednesday and closed its doors. The action on the part of the bank was quite a surprise to the people of Centreville. We understood that all checks on the bank of depositors who have enough money to their credit in the Queen Anne's National is being paid by the Centreville National Bank. The closing of the Queen Anne's National leaves but one bank in Centreville.

—Firemen were called to the home of Mr. P. A. M. Brooks at 8.30 Wednesday when a spark from the chimney set fire to the roof. The fire was quickly extinguished but had burned a hole in the roof when firemen arrived.
