WILMINGTON ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The sixty-third session o the Wilmington Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, embracing the Delmarvia Peninsula, with two additional appointments on the western shore of Virginia, will be held in the Asbury Church, near Crisfield, Md., Wednesday morning, April 8, according to announcement made today by the Rev. H. Lester Smith, resident bishop of the Chattanooga, Tenn., Area, who will preside.

Asbury Church is not in Crisfield, being located in a village outside with mail, telegraph and tran service from Crisfiel. The conference host is the Rev. T. J. Sard.

Bishop Smith will be entertained during the conference session at the home of Mr. Milbourne, adjoining the Asbury Church.

As it will be impossible for all to be entertained in Crisfield arrangements are being made to care for many of the visitors outside.

This session of the conference was to have been held beginning March 18, but owing to the uncertainty of weather conditions in March, and the fact that many will be compelled to walk from their homes in Crisfield during the conference session to Asbury Church, the cabinet of the conference requested Bishop Smith to change the time of meeting to a later date.

It may be only a simple headache, or it may be neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatism. Lumbago. Bayer Aspirin is still the sensible thing to take. Just be certain it's Bayer you're taking; it does not hurt the heart. Get the genuine tablets, in this familiar package.

Jogalong Tales

CHAPTER 1

The Jogalong started to walk around and the boy followed. They didn't follow the path that was straight. They went around and around and around and around a large circle, once, twice, three times. They went around again, four times, five times, six times. The circle became smaller each time they went around it until finally the boy and his companion stood together on a small piece of ground. Nothing was quite the same as it had been. The sky had become gray and white stars were falling everywhere about.

"Good gracious, we reached the Land of Wonders in a shorter time than ever before," said the Jogalong. "And in a star storm, too."

"A star storm?" queried the boy. "Are these stars falling?"

"Everything in the point of view," replied the Jogalong. "In other countries this would be called a snow storm, but anyone with two eyes in his head can see that stars and nothing else are falling. Only, they are not gold—they are white which is safer, for even in the Land of Wonders there are people who would try to gather them all up if they were gold. Good gracious! Now we are going to have trouble!"

"It's hailing," said the boy.

"Hailing indeed!" replied the Jogalong. "And what is hailing? I wish you wouldn't say things like that, Boy. You give me the shivers with such stupidity. Why, bullets are falling, that's what's happening, and if we think anything of our heads, we'd better get into a shelter."

"I don't see any shelter," said the boy.

"What's the matter with this one right here?" asked the Jogalong.

"But still I don't see any, Mr. Jogalong."

"Well, upon my wandering soul, what do you think of that? Doesn't see a shelter! Oh well, I suppose that is just another case of having lived too long in a stupid world with blind people," sighed the Jogalong, trying to be patient.

"The people I know are not blind," replied the boy, surprised.

"Indeed?" queried the Jogalong. "That depends upon what you mean by blind, my boy."

"Why people who can't see, of course," said the boy.

"Exactly. Therefore you must be blind because you cannot see where you are going. Look out there! Bend your head. Low bridge, my boy. Duck!"

The boy ducked his head, though he didn't quite know why. In another minute they found themselves in a dark round tunnel. The boy's head bumped against the top. The Jogalong took from his pocket a small round thing that looked very like a candy cough drop.

"Here, Boy," he said, "swallow this. You have probably noticed that you have grown a great deal smaller since arriving in the Land of Wonders, but I see that your head is still a little too tall for comfort. If you swallow this small delicacy you will be able to walk through the passageway without bumping."

"I hadn't noticed that I had grown smaller," replied the boy, "and I really don't think I care to. I much prefer to grow taller, you know."

"Every one who enters the Land of Wonders becomes smaller at once," said the Jogalong knowingly, "and the smaller they become the better they understand the wonders of the land. Swallow the Wonder tablet, for we cannot linger in this tunnel. Don't you see the bright light at the other end?"

"Yes, I see that all right," said the boy. "Is that the Land of Wonders out there, too?"

"Yes, that is the place where things begin to happen." The next Jogalong will tell you what they found.

The Tepee

First you draw a bunch of sticks
And then a shock of wheat;
Now put a dress upon it all,
And you've a tepee, neat!
Maybe some one lives in there,
Is trying, now, to hide;
Wouldn't it be lots of fun
To take a peek inside?

FAMILY DOCTOR MADE MILLIONS OF FRIENDS

Fifteen years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became famous for a single prescription, which now, after forty years, is still making friends.

Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people never think of using anything else when they're constipated, headachy, bilious, feverish or weak; when breath is bad, tongue coated, or they're suffering from nausea, gas, or lack of appetite or energy.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made today according to the original formula, from herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant-tasting; thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.
