RUTH CHATTERTON IN TALKING DRAMA

"The Right To Love" Will Be Feature Here

America's own "duse of drama," at least insofar as the "talkies" are concerned, endows the screen at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10, with a new emotional triumph that will elicit all the nice things any photoplay audience can say,, if there is more to be said after those outstanding productions, "Madame X," Sarah and Son," "Anybody's Woman."

The duse, of course, is Ruth Chatterton; the drama, "The Right to Love," which Richard Wallace has comerized in dialogue for Paramount from the Susan Glaspell book, "Brook Evans." And the whole is an event —which should not be missed by any in Chestertown who take their entertainment seriously.

Miss Chatterton enacts two distinct roles in "The Right to Love," and in one of them veers from girlhood to mother type, without a single error in mood, coiffure, speech, costumes and poise. This is, at least, a triple achievement.

The story, set in the farm lands of the Middle West, tells of a girl whose secret love trysts engender a tragic sacrifice of happiness in later years, a state of affairs she determines will not be the heritage of her daughter. The manner in which love finds a way, through two generations of straight-jacketed repression, is convincingly narrated, and leads to a most surprising climax.

Paul Lukas, David Manners, Geo. Baxter, Irving Pichel, Veda Buckland and Oscar Apfel, players of experience and understanding, handle their assignments in fine harmony with the Chatterton roles. Zoe Adkins adapted the screen play.

NOW AND THEN

THE KNEELING CAMEL

The camel at the close of day
Kneels down upon the sandy plain,
To have his burden lifted off
And rest to gain. ff

My soul, thou should'st to thy knees,
When daylight draweth to a close,
And let thy Master lift thy load
And grant reponse.

Else how could'st thou tomorrow meet,
With all tomorrow's work to do,
If thou, thy burden all the night,
Dost carry through?

The camel kneels at break of day
To have his guide replace his load,
Then rises up anew to take
The desert road.

So thou should'st kneel at morning's dawn,
That God may give thee daily care,
Assured that He no load too great,
Will make thee bear.

By Hattie M. Prull.

We have printed this poem once before. The camel is a good example to us all. Could we be eased of our burdens, in the same way and kneeling, take them up again with the burden bearer to help us, our loads would be easier indeed.

A day in the Nations Capitol! It is an interesting thing to visit there. To ascend the great marbel stair way and look at the paintings of the early master artists of our country. Then to wind our way into the senate chamber, where the great arbiters of our country are assembled. As we seat ourselves in the gallery, we look down upon them. They look very much like other men grey thining locks, and bald heads being the order of the day. The vice president in his seat at the desk, looks very much like a school teacher as he pounds his mallet to secure order. We see Senator Heflin making a last plea to have the ballots recounted in the state of Alabama, as he claims that he has been elected, while the faces of the senators around show little sympathy for his request. To and fro Senator Carraway walks with his hands in his pockets. He has been making impassioned appeals for the drouth stricken farmers of his State, Arkansas. Little Robert Lafollette emphasizes the fact though he is little he is one to be reckoned with. Borah is everywhere evident. It seems that all wish to get his opinion on all matters discussed. A little page comes in leading a blind senator who sits and listens to all that is said. We daresay he knows more of what is going on, than many of the others. The doors of the Senate Chamber are constantly opening and shutting as the senators file in and out. It is all a very interesting scene, but the hands of the great clock go around so fast that 5.30 p. m. comes all to quickly, and then the galleries are cleared, and the vast room is silent once more, though we suspect the echoes are still ringing around the walls.

The Ground Hog Composes

Said the ground hop so say:
"I am hiding away,
Composing my next salutation.
If my shadow you see,
Oh, be careful of me—
For that sunshine foretellsconsternation!

"That shadow so strong
Puts the season in wrong.
But I'm trying to be ' a good fella.'
An attempt might be made
To stay safe in the shade
If you lend me a spreading umbrella.

"I'll be ready with song
When that day comes along.
The folks who draw near—I will show 'em
A sorrowing lay
About Winter's delay—
And maybe I'll have a Spring Poem."

Johnson.

Did you give him an umbrella? Surely if he writes a spring poem, I hope it will be about the needed spring rains.

What a disturber of science Einstein is! After spending so much time in studying the attracion of Gravitation and its effects in silence, he tells us we are all wrong.

The Universe Keeps Going

The Einstein theory is strong.
Sir Isaac Newton was all wrong.
Regardless of what each may claim,
We're going just about the same.
Apples will fall. The sun will rise.
Stars will illuminate the skies,
For Nature far too busy is
To read a scientific quiz.

Jane Adams speaking in Chicago on January 24th said, "Perhaps the test of our times is our ability to shift from a sense of security founded on armaments to a sense of security founded on political arrangements. When the time comes that this shift is made the United States must enter the League of Nations if it wishes to consider itself a civilzed nation."

FOREST FIRE WARDENS TO MEET

The county forest wardens who are engaged in fire control will meet with the wardens of seven other Shore Counties in an annual all day conference at the Municipal Building in Federalsburg on Thursday, February 19, according to plans given out by District Forester Kenneth J. Seigworth, to outline most recent fire control Salisbury. The conference is called developments and to give the wardens an opportunity for becoming better acquainted with each other.

Among the speakers will be State Forester, F. W. Besley, Baltimore, S. King White, Judge of the People's Court, Salisbury, Raymond Charles, Vice-President of the Federalsburg Fire Company, Assistant Forester Walter J. Quick, Baltimore, and a representative of the U. S. Forest Service, Washington.

The morning session will be devoted to an outline of the results of the 1930 season and plans for the current year. The afternoon will be spent in an open discussion by the wardens of their problems in fire prevention and suppression and law enforcement in connection with forest fires.

According to District Forester Seigworth, there are 105 active forest wardens in Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester Counties. It is expected that most of them will attend.

The Kent County forest wardens engaged in fire control who will attend are:

THOMAS MASSEY, Massey,
TILDEN WILLSON, Fairlee.
FRED WILLIAMS, Rock Hall.
ROLAND COMLEY, Locust Grove.
PERCY HENDRICKSON, Pomona.
JOHN H. CLENDANIEL, Chestertown.

Duue to the drouth last summer large areas of Kent woodland was damaged by fire.

LEGION TO HAVE HOME

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Frank M. Jarman Post No. 36, American Legion, was held at the Armory Chestertown on Wednesday evening of this week with Commander Kibler in the chair.

The principal topics of discussion were the purchase of a Legion home and the bonus payment.

It was unanimously decided to purchase a home in Chestertown and a committee was appointed with the power to act.

The question of the immediate payment of the bonus to veterans which the government is now carrying on a 20 year insurance endowment plan was discussed at length and by a vote taken the majority opposed the bonus payment. The amount of these policies to veterans in Kent county range from $100 to $1700.

POWER SALE CONFIRMED

Announcement of the purchase of the Maryland Light and Power Company's stock by the Eastern Shore Public Service Company was reported from New York Monday afternoon at the offices of the Public Service Commission.

According to Harold E. West, chairman of the Public Service Commission the Eastern Shore company is one of a number of electric light and power companies owned by the Insull interests.

The purchase, subject to the approval of the regulatory body, gives the Insull interests control of practically all the power companies on the Eastern Shore with the exception of municipally owned plants at St. Michael's, Easton, Centreville and Berlin, and an independent plant at Chestertown, Mr. West said.

The Maryland Light and Power Company was formed about a year ago. At that time the commission valued its stock, which was held by the Empire Public Service Company, Philadelphia, at $1,355,000.

Additional stock has been issued since, it was said. In December, 1928 the Insull holdings in Maryland were valued by the Public Service Commission at $3,063,000.

The purchase included the Maryland company's preferred and common stock, which temporarily will be placed in the name of Harry Reid, president of the National Electric Power Company, one of the Insull interests.

Convicted of liquor possession, Alfred Dees, of San Grancisco, Cal., was given his choice of paying a $500 fine or spending 200 days in jail.

"I can't pay the fine," he told the police judge.

"Then you'll have to go to jail."

"I can't do that," Burgess objected, "it would ruin my business."

"Just what is your business?"

"Bootlegging."

The judge gave him 48 hours to raise the fine money.

LINCOLN

BY ALICE MATTHEWS

By Unseen hands once more a knell
Is rung to-day the world to tell
It is the hour, it is the day,
We join, and our respects thus pay
To Lincoln, both the strong, the great,
For mystic chords still bind his fate
In patriotism's tender tie
To us, for great souls do not die:
But memory, stretching over years,
Touches all hearts, it plain appears,
With love's survival, ne'er to perish
A soul-part we preserve and cherish.
O country men, O honored sires,
Think on this name by your hearthfires.
Remember birth of freedom new,
He loud proclaimed we all should view:
And "by the people" let us stand
United in this glorious land.
Before the Alter memory
Puts up this day, O let us see
The fire of patriotism rise
Until it reaches God's high skies
Let Abraham Lincoln's honored name
Virtue and good regard now claim
To build our government so pure
It shall not perish, but endure
A monument made for all time,
By forms unseen, almost sublime.
O would allegiance true were righted
And every heart firmly united
One country, with one peerless Light,
To silvery circle our dark night!

CHURCH HILL TO GET FIRE TRUCK

Plans for complete change in the equipment of the Church Hill Volunteer Fire Company was made at the meeting held last Wednesday, January 28. By an unanimous vote it was decided to purchase a new fire engine with standard equipment. This will call for an expenditure of between $1,000.00 and $5,000.00, and will give Church Hill a modern, up-to-date fire fighting equipment. Plans have advanced to such an ektent that President Good believes that the new fire engine will be on hand within two weeks.

Church Hill has experienced two very serious fires within the past three years and this move to secure ample fire protection is backed by the citizens of that town.

DETAILS OF DROUTH RELIEF PLAN

LOCAL DROUTH COMMITTEE TO ASSIST APPLICANTS

The Congress recently appropriated funds for the relief of farmers who are in distress because of the 1930 crop failures incident to the drought. The Secretary of Agriculture through Dr. C. W. Warburton was named to administer the fund. The conditions are smiliar to those used for a number of years in sections where drought or flood have played havoc with farmers.

Loans are now being made upon receipt of the required forms properly made out and signed. Space does not permit of full details. These may be secured from the local drought committee which is composed of the following members: L. A. Sutton, Chairman and E. Thomas Massey as the farmer members, S. Scott Beck and F. G. Usilton banker members. J. D. McVean, County Agent is Secretary of the group and will gladly help all applicants to fill out the various forms properly. The local committee does not make the loans—they come from the disbursing office in Washington.

High lights of information are briefed as follows:

1 Loans may cover (within stated limits) cost of seed, fertilizer, feed for work animals, or fuel and Oil if tractors are used, also dusting or spraying materials.

2 Poultrymen, dairymen or farmest is deducted from the amount of than farming are not eligible for loans.

3 Loans are for those who have no further local credit and who would otherwise be unable to put in crops in 1931.

4 The loans stake needy farmers to another chance to make a crop.

5 Loans bear 5 per cent interest and are covered by a note payable on or before November 30, 1931. Interest is deducated from the amount of the loan.

6 A first lein or crop mortgage is also required. If other mortgages on 1931 crops have been given, the holders must sign waivers before a loan can be granted.

7 Loans will not be made to increase crop acreages over those grown in 1930. Food and feed crops are encouraged.

8 Loans will not be made to applicants not farming in 1930.

9 No loan will exceed $600 to any individual or to all the tenants of a single landlord in any county.

10 All applications for loans must be in the Farmers' Seed Loan Office in Washington on or before midnight of April 30, 1931.

Those seeking further information are referred to County Agent McVean or other members of the Drought Committee. The requirements are business like and therefore coldblooded yet that fact should not keep anyone needing aid, along the lines provided, from making an honest effort to secure it.

It is possible that supplemental aid in limited amounts may be made available through the Maryland State Drought Loan Corporation, if it becomes evident that such aid is necessary. The Corporation funds would not be available in place of the Federal funds nor in place of any available local credit. They would furnish needed aid (under liberal terms,) for necessities not otherwise available save through outright charity. Those seeking or needing such aid should let their needs or wants be known to the Secretary of the Drought Committee.

CHAMBER COMMERCE ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce was held at the Court House, Chestertown last night, Friday.

The directors for the year of 1930 included the four named above and Messrs. Harold M. Baker, W. B. Copper, I. Frank Huey, Walter M. Kenly, M. E. Newsome, J. Louis Roberts, Dr. H. Benge Simmons, Marion deK. Smith, Jr., and Paul E. Titsworth. The officers of the organization are elected by the directors.

The present officers are Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president; I. Frank Huey, vice president; Marion deK. Smith, Jr., Treasurer; Nell C. Westcott, executive Secretary.

C. H. S. is proud of its girls basket ball team. So far they are undefeated. They have won by large margins in score twice from Easton and once from Elkton. Miss Katherine Gessford of the English Department is Coach, and Anna Harris is Captain of the squad.

The "Dragon," the official year book of the school will be published again this year by the Senior Class. William Comella is editor-in-chief; James Johns, Jr., is business manager; and Anna Harris has charge of the subscriptions.

As the second semester opens the Sophomores begin Geometry; the Juniors Solid Geometry and the Seniors, Trigonometry. The Freshman who do not take Latin will begin Vocational Civics, and Vocational Guidance.

Plans and directions for fire drills have been worked out by Mr. Poole of the faculty. We are expecting the alarm most any day.

STOCKHOLDERS APPROVE BANK SALE

Meeting of the Stockholders of the Queen Anne National Bank of Centreville was held Tuesday in the banking house in Centreville to discuss and to vote on the action taken by the Board of Directors in selling the assets and property of the Queen Anne Bank to the Centreville National Bank.

Six hundred and sixty-six shares of the outstanding 750 shares were represented either by the share holders or by proxy, and the shares represented voted unanimously backing up the action of the Board of Directors in making the sale.

The sale of this bank to the Centreville National Bank was made just prior to Christmas and came as a great surprise to the people of the community. The only loss entailed in this transfer fell upon the stockholders as all deposits were guaranteed by the purchaser.
