BY A WOMAN

CATHERINE BOOTH

Catherine Booth was born in England, in 1829. She became a great preacher and is known as the mother of the Salvation Army.

She was the only daughter of John Munford, and was early taught by her mother to love the scriptures. Before she was twelve years old, she had read the Bible through eight times. When a mere girl she became secretary of a juvenile temperance society, arranged meetings, wrote articles for the papers and was a brilliant talker always on the side of the weak or unfortunate. For a number of years she conducted a Sunday School class of girls, visited the sick and prepared herself by study and work for the broad field which she was to occupy. In 1855 she was married to a young evangelist, William Booth the future general of the salvation army, and two years later with much timidity, Mrs. Booth began speaking in public, assisting her husband in his services. For almost thirty five years she was an heroic figure, attending the education of her eight children, preaching constantly to vast audiences, meeting patiently violent of position and prejudice, helping and inspiring her husband in his great task of spreading the Salvation Army's work in England and America. Her magnetic power in preaching was felt by high and low, rich and poor, in elegant halls as well as inforiorn places. When the Salvation Army was organized, a uniform was chosen for the men and a plain garb was designed for the women by Mrs. Booth. When the procession of the Army appeared in the streets, the press jeered and the pulpit condemned; and the mob shot at and cursed men and women whose only offense was singing gospel hymns while clad in the garb of soldiers. In spite of all this reviling the worst and the poorest were reached as they had never been before, and the Salvation Army grew beyond all expectations.

John Bright, the great statesman, wrote to Mrs. Booth. "The people who mob you would doubtless have mobbed the Apostles, your fa'th and patience will prevail" Queen Victoria wrote her. "I learn with much satisfaction that you have been successful in your efforts to win many thousands to the ways of temperance, virtue and religion.

In 1888 her health began to fail and her last address to the fifty thousand assembled to hear her, was. I am dying under the flag, but it is yours to fight for the cause of humanity, love your brothers and bring them in the paths of righteousness."

She was taken to a rest home near the sea and there by her dying bed her huband wrote, with her constant suggestions, that soul sirring book.

"In darkest England and the way out. Catherine Booth died in 1890, and for five days the crowds passed by her glass covered coffin, the rich, the ragged, doctors and lawyers, laborers and outcast all eager to show her honor.

LA MODE

Amazing Yardage In Skirts

The skirts of these lace dresses conform to the fashionable silhouette; they are closely fitted at the top and flare at the bottom. Some are of amazing yardage. The skirt of one of Cheruit's latest models—a blackchiffon dance frock trimmed around the bottom with scarlet lace mitred to form deep squares—is fully six yards in width.

A Chanel version of the late evening gown is in pink; the full skirt is gathered on a tight-fiting girdle; the simple bodice is almost entirely covered with a deep, pointed bertha of the lace.

Plaids threaten to be to this spring what polka dots were to last. Staccato, dynamic, they have the same gay appeal, but with the advantage of greater possible variety. The clever woman, however, will not wait till the spring to wear them, but will put their newness to immediate use. At the moment, they are a superb way of introducing color under long, dark coats of fur or fabric.

PINK AND BLACK

Nowhere is the vogue for black and pale pink more beautifully expressed than in lingerie. Black lace step-ins and slips and night gowns, with pale pink ribbons and pale pink inserts of chiffon. Or sumptuous black lace pajamas with a black lace jacket, the trousers lined with pink chiffon yoke showing beneath the packet lace.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The task of dishwashing can be speeded up by intelligent previous work. As the table is cleared, plates and other china of similar shape and size should be scraped and stacked together ready for washing. All silver is usually washed at one time, and motions are saved if it is collected before the washing process is begun. If the dining table is far from the kitchen a tea-cart is a help in bringing dishes out of the dining room and in putting them away. If all water has to be heated the stove and sink should be near each other.

When the fatigue of doing a given task is lessened it is easier to think about good posture and to maintain it.

RECIPES

Some particularly appetizing ways of using cream cheese in lunch dishes and for afternoon tea are told of below in recipes from the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The salad of green peppers, stuffed with cream cheese, is served with crisp lettuce leaves on a green glass salad plate. It tempts by color and texture as well as by its flavors. Canned pimientos could have been stuffed for a red salad, or such fruits as prunes, figs, canned peaches, or pears, for a fruit and cheese salad. Large cherries, too, are good with cream cheese stuffing or with cheese balls and mayonnaise dressing.

For afternoon tea, dainty rolled and open sandwiches made with cream cheese will usually prove popular. The open sandwiches consist of a cracker covered with cheese and decorated with red jelly.

Neufchatel and cream cheese are valuable for the protein, fat, phosphorus and calcium they furnish to the diet. They may be introduced into almost any meal—as part of the appetizer at the beginning of a dinner or of the dessert at the end, and in any course between. Gingerbread with a cream cheese filling, shown in the picture, is an excellent dessert for lunch or dinner. Here are recipes for the gingerbread and the filling, both from the bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Gingerbread.—1-3 cup fat, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 egg, 3 cups sifted soft-wheat flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup milk.

Cream together the sugar and fat. Add the molasses and beaten egg. Sift together twice the dry ingredients and add to the first mixure alternately with the milk. Bake in two shallow pans in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream cheese or whipped cream. One cup of sour milk may be used instead of the sweet milk. In that case, use 1 scant teaspoon of soda in place of the 1-2 teaspoon now called for, and use only 2 teaspoons of baking powder.

Cheese Filling for Gingerbread.—2 Neufchatel or cream cheeses, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1-2 teaspoon salt, cream.

Mash the cheese and mix with it enough cream to give it the consistency of a soft filling. Add the nuts and salt, and mix well. Split open a loaf of hot gingerbread, spread the cheese mixture on the lower loaf, replace the upper part and press it down lightly. Serve the gingerbread at once while still hot.

Add a teaspoon of vinegar to each pint of cooking water to preserve the natural color of beets and red cabbage.

HUNTING LICENSES INCREASE IN STATE

GAME DEPARTMENT REPORTS 73,555 PERMITS WERE ISSUED LAST YEAR

SSEVENTEEN ANGLERS LICENSES SOLD IN KENT COUNTY

The State Game Department has reported that more sportsmen secured hunting licenses during 1930 than in the previous year. The statement, which was made by E. Lee LeCompte State Game Warden, reported that there were 73,555 hunting licenses of the three types used in this State issues by the clerks of the circuit courts of the twenty-three counties and by the clerk of the Court of Common Pleas of Baltimore city. During the fiscal year of 1929 the number issued was 68,566.

60,357 County Licenses

Of the total number of hunting permits issued last year 60,357 were to county residents for shooting privileges only in the counties in which they lived, and which are issued for a fee of $1. Eleven thousand two hundred and nineteen were to residents of the State permitting gunning anywhere in Maryland for a fee of $5, while the remaining 1,979 were issued to non-residents for a fee of $15 each.

The total revenues to the game department from the licenses, after a deduction by the counties and the Court of Common Pleas, amounted to $140,004.55 for 1930, an increase of $9,903 over 1929.

In addition to the hunting licenses there were issued 2,292 duck-blind licenses at $5 each, 46 pushers' licenses at $2 each, 66 sink-box permits at $20 each and 151 sneak-box licenses at $5 each with the fees from these sources amounting to $12,945 after issuing fees were deducted.

Plans of the departments to import rabbits and bob-white quail this year to aid in replenishing the numbers killed by the drought of last summer and the hunters of the winter months should offer still further inducements to sportsmen to take out licenses for 1931 open seasons, Mr. LeCompte said.

There were 15 state-wide resident and 2 state-wide none-resident licenses issued to anglers in this county in 1930. Thee licenses are required for fishing in the inland ponds and streams of the state.

TO RESTOCK RABBITS

Ten thousand cotton tail rabbits will be released next month in the Maryland counties, according to Deputy State Game Warden Joseph Watson here, and an order has been placed by State Game Warden Lee LeCompte with game breeders and trappers of Kansas to this end in spite of opposition on the part of the State Deparment of Health to he project because of the possibility of spreading tularemia, the dread rabbit disease, to local hares, recently recovering from an epidemic of the diseases. The warden, however, insists that the danger is slight since the health officials of Kansas declare the diease is not prevalent in that State.
