PENINSULA NEWS

The outlook for crabs this summer is very promising, according to watermen. They report any number of small crabs now in the river and bay, and expect to see a grat quantity of them. In fact, some are afraid they will be too plentiful and ruin the season. Soft crabs have been caught throughout the winter, something seldom heard of before.

The Wicomico river will be charted for navigators immediately after the completion of the 12-foot dredging according to the Chamber of Commerce.
