HOLD REAPER CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

The excellent attendance at the McCormick reaper centennial celebration held on Thursday by A. F. Huey, McCormick-Deering dealer, may be taken as an indication of the interest in the development of power farming equipment held by farmers in this community.

The full-size working model of McCormick's original 1831 reaper was interesting, both from an educational and historical point of view. The world may well honor the man whose inventive genius produced a machine so important to the advancement of agriculture.

The motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper," shown for the first time in this community, was of special interest. The pictured story of the building and development of the reaper placed a new importance on the value of ths machine as the starting point for the long line of power farming equipment which has followed in its wake.

With farmers more interested than ever in lower crop production costs, the subject of power farming equipment is deserving of much consideration. Just as the reaper cut as much grain in a day as 4 or 5 men with cradles or 12 to 16 men with replacing hooks 100 years ago, so tractors and tractor equipment are today enabling one man to double and triple his daily capacity for work. He has addtional time available for planning and carrying out diversified farm operations, building up the soil, improving the quality of live stock, and many other activities that result in better and more productive farming.

HIS BANK ACCOUNT SHATTERED

The following letter was received by a business concern in response to a bill sent to a creditor:

Gentlemen:

I wish to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check in response to your request.

My present financial condition is due to the Federal Laws, State Laws, County Laws, Corporation Laws, By-Laws, Brother-in-Laws, Mother-in-Laws, and Out-Laws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Thru the various laws I have been held down, held up, walked on, sat upon, flattened out and squeezed until I do not know where I am, what I am, or why I am.

These Laws compel me to pay a merchant tax, capital stock tax, excess tax, income tax, real estate tax, auto tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, syntax and carpet tax.

In addition to those taxes I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can organize, to the society of St. John the Baptist, Woman Relief, The Navy Relief, The Children's Home, The Policemen's Benefit, The Moran's Society, The Y. M. C. A., The Boy Scouts The Jewish Relief, The Near East, The Gold Diggers Home, also every hospital and charitable institution in town, The Red Cross, The Black Cross, The White Cross, The Purple Cross and The Double Cross.

The Government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it, I am suspected, inspected, disrespected, examined, re-examined, informed required, commanded, and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an in-exhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire, or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to donate to all and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away I am cussed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about lied to, lied about, helh up, held down and robbed, until I am nearly ruined, so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see wrat in the Hell is coming next.

SEASON A SUCCESS

COACH KIBLER HAS A GOOD TEAM AS USUAL

Washington College basketball team staged a surprise to many fans by coming through with a successful record this year. Three star players were lost when Giriaitis and Alexander star forwards, and Dopson star guard graduated last June. These three were the main stays of last years team.

However Coach Kibler was equal to the task as he always has been as far as basktball was concerned. Since coming to Wahington College, he has yet to have what would be called a losing basketball team. He has not always had a wealth of material but has always been able to develope players.

The grippe, which a lot of the team suffered with, caused him about as much trouble as anything else. After this malady ceased not a game was lost.

St. Josephs College, of Philadelphia, was the only team that got the best of the local quintet. They beat Washingon twice, once in Chestertown and once in Philadelphia. The other two defeats were handed out by Loyola and Johns Hopkins. Loyola had a good team but if Washington had been in good physical trim it might have been a different story. However Washington retaliated by beating them 6 points later in the season. Hopkins team was no match for Washington, and their victory in Baltimore by beating Washington was nothing short of mythical. Washington showed their superiority later in the season when they swamped Hopkins using their second team a good part of the time in doing it. A total of seventeen games were played excluding the Alumni games which should not be counted. Of the seventeen games they lost four and won thirteen. They outscored their opponents 585 to 422.

In the state race they won seven and lost two. Loyola lost only one and that to Washington. Loyola offered Washington another game in Baltimore. If Washington had taken this offer and beat Loyola they would have been recognized as the state champions. Five or six years ago this offer would have been snapped up. They were the years when sports were played for sport and not for financial gain. Loyola offered Washington one half the gate receipts, and fans think this should have been sufficient. The managers however demanded a flat guarantee of five hundred dollars to take ten or fifteen men to Baltimore for a basket-ball game.

The high spot of the season was the victory over Princeton University on New Years in Baltimore. Below is a record of games played.
