BALL LEAGUE OFFICIALS MEET

At a meeting of officials of the Chesapeake Bay Base Ball League held at Kennedyville Thursday evening, final arrangements were made for opening the league season on Saturday, April 25th.

Officials from Rock Hall, Church Hill, Cecilton, Kennedyville and Galena were present and a committee was appointed to meet in Chestertown on Monday of next week to map out a schedule to be presented at the league meeting in Millington on April 16th. The Reach official ball was adopted.

Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting and every indication points to a very successful season featuring a higher grade of base ball than the league has enjoyed during the past two years. Base ball fans are assured of plenty of entertainment during the pring and summer months. Mr. N. A. Wallen, of Millington, is president of the league.

STAINERS CRUFIXION SUNG

Stainers Crufixion was sung by the combined choirs of the three churches on Wednesday evening at Emmanuel Church. The solos were taken by the Rev. C. L. Atwater, bass and Mr. Jack Stenger, tenor, which were very appealing. The choruses were very beautiful and so was the organ accompanient. It was unfortunate that wind and weather kept many from hearing this lovely service.

J. W. Baxley at the Wesley Chapel parsonage. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Edna Kelley and Mr. Glenwood Thomas. They are residing with the bride's parents.

JOHN GILBERT IN "GENTLEMAN'S FATE'

John Gilbert attains a new eminence in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Gentleman's Fate," which shows at the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, April 8 and 9, returning to that romantic and dramatic type of role that brings to mind many of his former successes.

In point of characterization and story, however, the new Gilbert picture is as fresh as the motivation. In it he is a young man, reared to luxury, who finds himself a member of a rum-running, gang-warring family, instead of the society scion he thought himself.

The story is by Ursula Parrott, author of "The Divorcee," and is packed full of thrills and surprises. It was capably directed by Mervyn Le Roy with two leading ladies, Leila Hyams and Anita Page. One is the girl he loved. The other is the one he married.

Despite the gangland locale, the plot tells a sort of psychological human aninterest story but teems with dramatic episodes that border on the melodramatic at times but always job right back on the direct track the director has taken to bring it to the swift climax it reaches in a surprising end.

WIND DAMAGES APARTMENT

A strong Easterly wind on April 1st, reached gale proportions at 7 a. m., and tore the entire top porch roof. from the Riverside apartments.

The porch roof was blown across the main roof, tearing away a chimney and two ventilators and damaging the chimney on the home of Mr. Sidney Turner. It landed in the center of Front street and blocked all traffic. The damage is estimated at $500.

NOW AND THEN

THE BLUE BIRD

Winter is over—The Blue Bird is here.
The World now just listen to his early song.
Flowers reappearing—blithely would cheer
The thick curtained chambers of Earth dark so long.
And up from the Earth all timid and blue
A violet would whisper, of Easter to you.
The Blue Bird is bold in his high music strain
He pipes as he nests, "Spring is with us again."
In his feathery mantle of lovely sky blue
This sun-seeking minstrel starts sing ing anew.
And behold ere his song chimes all of its might
The heart of your own is a-blaze with delight,
And you feel and you know high over his nest
The love of our Father Divine doth glad rest.

We have been reading a book on Soviet Russia. What a colorless life one leads there. Ceaseless unrelieved drudgery without a glimpse of mental sunshine. In suppressing Christianity they have had to cut out Christmas and Easter. What would our lives be without these seasons? Christmas with its carols, holly and gifts and Easter when nature is rejoicing in the risen Lord, and the knowledge that He has opened to us the gate of everlasting life. Oh, it would be a dreary world indeed were we to shut out Christ from our lives.

Princess Alice seems to be still stirring the social waters in Washington. Rumor says that she is proceeding to boom young Teddie Roosevelt for vice president. If she is successful she will not only deprive Curtis of his seat but also her old enemy, Mrs. Gann.

Anyone who soys that advice is not free, let him start a garden in a place where people can see him. It will show him how generous people are with it.

Louis The Son

The famous remark of Louis XIV., "L'Etat, C'Est Moi," which may be translated to mean, "I am France," is reflected in one of the most characteristic details of furniture decoration made during his reign. As a complement to this king, who thought he was God upon earth, the artists ofttimes represented his greatnesss in the form of a head from which the sun's rays shot forth.

HOUSE BLESSING

By Arthur Guiterman

Bless the four corners of this house,
And be the lintel blest;
And bless the hearth and bless the board
And bless each place of rest;
And bless the door that opens wide
To stranger as to kin;
And bless each crystal window-pane
That lets the starlight in;
And bless the rooftree overhead
And every sturdy wall.
The peace of man, the peace of God,
The peace of Love on all!

We always thought that "Hobson's choice" had its origin in the heroism of Richmond Pearson Hobson until, a few days ago, I happened to see this definition in Webster's Dictionary—"a choice without an alternative; the thing offered for nothing—so called in allusion to the practice of Thomas Hobson (died 1631), at Cambridge, England, who let horses, and required every customer to take the horse which stood nearest the door."

From Gutter to Palace

The broom, which is surrounded by a wealth of folklore, has always been associated with witche, who are depicted as riding through the air on a broomstick. That is the commercial variety of broom. The garden species was selected by Louis XII, for his coat of arms.

Geofrey of Anjou the anceter of the House of Plantagenet in England chose it for his coat of Arms. He called it planta genet hence the name.

Worcester oysermen have made money and the oysters were never better than they have been this winter, but from the Chesapeake and tributaries comes an entirely different story.

The business depression and warm winter combined to make a lean year for Maryland's oyster dredgers, Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner says in commenting on the 1931 dredging season, which ended on Saturday.

The officers of the Rock Hall club are: R. A. Shallcross, president; John Harmond, Secy.; Elwood Burgess, Treas.; Thomas Tucker, Manager; Joseph Williams, Asst. Manager; J. T. Kibler, Coach.

A league meeting was held at Millington last Friday evening at which time it was stated that Newark may drop out of the league due to the distance from the other clubs.

NEGRO HEALTH WEEK STARTS TOMORROW

The national observance of Negro Health Week will begin in Kent County on April 5 at 7.00 p. m. when the health parade of the negro schools will form at Garnet High School through Chestertown and end at Janes M. E. Church.

A public spirited citizen of the County has offered a cup to the negro school having the most unique health display in the parade. The presentation of the cup to the winning school will be made by Dr. Paul E. Titsworth at the end of the program in the church.

A splendid program has been worked out for that evening by the health nurse, Majorie Forte. The chief speaker of the event will be Dr. J. H. Mason Knox, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Maryland State Department of Health. Following Dr. Knox, Dr. Lucious Butler, Dental Hygienist, who took part in the health work last year in Kent during the Negro Health Week, will speak on oral hygiene.

Mr. J. D. McVean, County Agent, will speak on opportunities in Agriculture and Miss Helen Schellinger, Home Demonstration Agent, will give a brief talk on Home Making Suggestions. Dr. R. G. Beachley, Deputy State Health Officer will introduce the speakers.

Interspersed in the program as here given will be recitations by Negro students of the county schools and negro spirituals.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

The week's program includes moving pictures throughout the county on health topics; pre-school clinics, dental clinics and night meetings where speakers will feature.

Last year Kent won the award for the best rural work in the United States. The nurse is anxious to have Kent again lead in this most valuable work for the furtherance of public health and cleanliness among the colored group. Last year she received 100 per cent. cooperation from her own group and the white citizens of the county. This year she is assured of an equal amount of interest and cooperation on the part of the county.

TO INCREASE GAS PLANT CAPACITY

HAVRE DE GRACE PLANT TO BE MOVED TO CHESTERTOWN

It was announced this week that the machinery of the Havre de Grace Gas Plant will be transferred to Chestertown next summer, materially increasing teh capacity of the local plant.

This change is to take place as a result of piping natural gas to Havre de Grace. The Havre de Grace plant is the largest owned by National Public Utility Corporation and the installation of tha machinery here will increase he capacity of the local plant approximately 33 per cent.

It is not expected that the change will take place until summer as the natural gas lines are not expected to be completed until that time.

LARGE CRIMINAL DOCKET FOR APRIL COURT

One of, if not the largest criminal dockets for many years will be presented to the Circuit Court for trial at its April term of court which convenes Monday, April 20, 1931. There are about 50 cases at present, 14 of which are charges for violation of the local option law and 16 for larceny. All of these offenders are now confined in the Chestertown jail, while about 20 others are out on bail.

Those charged with violation of the local option law are: Lottie Thompson, Ivy Johnson, Leonard Houston, Frank Barnes, Willie Jake, John Sheppard, Steve Bradshaw, Raymond Meekins, George Blackiston, Jeneva Johnson, Sam Linsey, Ollie Dent, Joshua Gains and Marton Stout.

Thomas Williams, who was in jail on the charge of larceny of flour from P. M. Brooks' mill was taken to the Easton Hospital suffering with appendicitis Thursday night by the sheriff and operated on. He will probably not be well enough for trial when court meets.

Sheriff Vickers, who has been in office for about four months says he has had to contend with most everything in the sheriffs game except child birth and murder and that he had a very close call of a case of a premature childbirth. The sheriff has certainly been active since he went in office on the criminals of the county. Added to the above criminal list there are at present six federal prisioners in the jail for Federal violation of the Local Option Law.

ELECTRIC CO. ENTERTAINS AT BETTERTON

FOUR COMMUNITIES REPRESENTED AT DINNER GIVEN BY MR. CHARLES BRICE

Thirty six residents of Betterton, Still Pond, Lynch and Worton were guests of Mr. Charles Brice, manager of the Betterton Branch of the Eastern Shore Public Service Company, at a dinner at the Ferncliffe, Betterton Thursday evening of this week.

Company officials who attended the dinner were A. B. Parsons, Div. Mgr., and R. R. Jefferson, Production Mgr., of the Northern Division; Tom Graham, Production Mgr., Frank A. Mitchell, Treas., Robert Chatham, Safety Mgr., Wallace N. Keys, Division Merchandise Mgr.

Mr. Brice acted as toastmaster and talked on the efforts being made in this branch to give service to those communities. He was followed by Messrs. Mitchel Graham and Chatam. The result of the talks by these men showed that the Eastern Shore Public Service Company is managed by Eastern Shoreman who are looking into the future in an effort to serve the Shore with up-to-date equipment and service.

New machinery is being installed in the Betterton Ice and Electric plant which will double the output of power and ice and preparations are being made for some time in the future to tie the entire shore into one large unit, using the present small plants as auxiliaries. Every employee of the company is a stockholder and this company now serves Millington, Galena, Lynch, Still Pond, Worton and Betterton and the agricultural communities surrounding these towns.

Short talks were made by Messrs. Howard Owens, John Duyer, Stephen R. Collins, Howard Turner, Joseph Norris, and H. J. Plant. Much praise was given Mr. Brice for the progressive spirit shown in the building up the electrical business in that part of the county and his community spirit. The progressiveness of the residents of Betterton is an example to any large or small community.

—The Maryland Tuberculosis Association will hold a clinic at the Health Center, Chestertown, on Monday, April 6th, at 10 a. m. Dr. John E. O'Neill will conduct this clinic.

PUBLIC LANDING AT CLIFFS

At the regular meeting of the Commissioners of Kent County on Tuesday of this week, the examiners appointed to lay down a public landing at Cliffs City made a verbal report.

The report stated that the landing selected was the old Chester River Cliff City Wharf property owned by Mr. Charles Comegys and others. At the public meeting held by the examiners the people in that section were very much in favor of a public landing where watermen could land their produce and nets and agreed to put planks on the old piling.

The examiners were authorized to negotiate for the purchase of the property for a limited amount and report back to the Board.

FREE HIGH SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

STATE TO BEAR ALL EXPENSE OF TRANSPORTING HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

According to a letter received this week by Prof. Louis C. Robinson from Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendant of Schools, the parents of Kent County High School students will be relieved next year of paying part of the expense of transportating these students to and from schools.

A the present time parents are paying $11 per year for each high school student transported to high schools which amounts to approximately $2000 annually.

This money will come from the State equalization fund. This action conforms with the state policy of encouraging school consolidation.

The letter follows:

TO THE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS AND COUNTY BOARDS OF EDUCATION

During the past ten years we have experimented with all types of small high schools on the Eastern Shore as well as in other sections of the State, and we have become more and more convinced that it is absolutely impossible to give the children a real high school education in a small high school. Therefore, the policy was announced in letters to the high school supervisors, and in meetings with the county superintendents, that no new high school would receive State approval unless application for it were made in writing to the State Superintendent of Schools before any steps were taken to establish such a school; and, furthermore, the policy was definitely stated that no such request would be approved unless the high school were in on unusually isolated community that had not been given high school facilities through transportation or that could not be furnished high school facilities through transportation.

We have proved beyond a doubt that the small two-year or four-year high schools are even more inefficient than the one-teacher elementary schools that have been rapidly disappearing in most of the counties through consolidation. During the past year in only ten of the counties the parents of the children have been paying all or part of the cost of transportation to high school. There is a growing belief among the school people of the State that high schools should be as free to the people of Maryland as are the elementary schools, and that therefore transportation of pupils to both high schools and elementary schools, when necessary, should be at public expense. The State Department of Education has recognized this principle by including 100 per cent. of the expenditures made by the county for transportation of pupils to both elementary and high schools in calculating the cost of the minimum program, because in the long run, consolidation reduces the cost and increases the efficiency of a county school system.

We see no reason, however, why the State school continue indefinitely to spend large sums of money for transportation of pupils and for teachers' salaries in order to maintain an expensive and inefficient kind of high school and to take up two or more years of the life of the children in attending a school that is merely pretending to be giving a high school education, when, by spending somewhat more for transportation and somewhat less for teachers' salaries, practically all the children of the State might be placed in high school where, in addition to the academic subject, children will have access to courses in commercial subjects, manual training or industrial arts, vocational agriculture, home economics, physical education, and either music or the fine arts or both.

I am suggesting therefore, that each county superintendent work out a tentative plan for eventually grouping the high school work of the county into as small a number of large high schools as possible, so that future building programs and consolidation programs for both elementary and high schools may grow hand in hand in such a way as to eventually considerably reduce the number of high schools (as well as the per capita cost), while at the same time they enormously increase their efficiency.

I shall be very glad to go over such tentative plans with you from time to time, while visiting schools with you or while visting in your offices.

Sincerely yours,

ALBERT S. COOK,

State Superintendent of Schools.
