'THE SOUTHERNER'

AT NEW LYCEUM THEATRE

The star is supported by a large cast of general excellence. Esther Ralston makes an attractive heroine; Roland Young and Cliff Edwards as two "hobos" form a new comedy team. Parnell B. Pratt as the ignoble brother, Hedda Hopper as the snobblish sister and Emma Dunn as the understanding mother deliver equally capable performances, and minor roles are well handled by Stephin Fetchit, the comic colored player, Louis John Bartels and Theodore Von Eltz.

The direction of Harry Pollard shows expert touches and clever use of camera technique.

In "The Southerner," which comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, April 15 and 16, Lawrence Tibbett forsakes "period drama" to play his first strictly modern role. It is in many ways the most interesting of his screen career.

The singer appears as the prodigal son of an aristicratic Southern family who returns home to "make good" in an atmosphere of suspicion and hatred. When he attempts to prevent his brother's wife from eloping with a former lover and falls in love with her himself, the dramatic action begins, and continues at a fast clip, working to a surprise climax.

The songs as in the case of "The Rogue Song" and "New Moon" are woven into the narrative as a sailent part of the plot. Tibbett sings one of his best known concert numbers, "De Glory Road," as well as a number of love songs and Southern melodies.

NOW AND THEN

MARCH

"In March the eager bluebird
Come warbling round again;
A blizzard's roars fill all out-doors
And where's the bluebird then?

In March the fresh narcissus,
Whose common sense is nil,
Puts out his nose and gets it froze:
They call him Daffy-Dill.

But after frost and blizzard
Have spent their power to gloom,
The bluebird yet will sing, you bet,
And daffodils will bloom.

This rather early Spring song
Is meant to be a hinter
That slumps don't last; they're some day past,
They vanish, same as Winter.

Yes, worried folks will whistle,
And weary eyes will smile,
And times will be as bright, you'll see
As April after while."

A business friend from the city told us the other day, that things are really looking better, so maybe bright April will bring a real revival. Certainly the welcome spring rains have put an end to the drouth.

March, the third month of the year was the first month of the Roman year, and was named for Mars, the Roman God of War. It is called with us the first month of spring though North of us it is anything but spring like. In southern Australia it corresponds to our month of September. The English speak of it as the loud and stormy month but they like a dry March for the sake of their crops. There is a popular proverb among them; "A bushel of March dust is worth a king, ransom."

Easter was joyfully celebrated in spite of east winds and gray skies. The churches rang with Alleluias and at the hômes the radios took up the strain. Alleluia! Alleluia!

Many children ventured out for their egg hunt on Easter Monday although the rain had a very dampening effect upon their ardor, yet no one complained, knowing that the rain was filling up the wells, and pasture and crops were eagerly drinking in the life giving moisture.

It is hard to realize that now when we have entered the spring solstice and we are preparing for the warm weather, the people south of the equator are preparing for winter."

"Argentina is very droll
In March a hot wave tries her soul.
While in August she will shovel coal."

It was rather hard on Sinclair Lewis, after going abroad and winning the Nobel prize to be slapped in the face by a fellow author.

New Literary Times

"It is very sad to think
That literary men should sink
To slapping one another's faces
In fashionable clubs and places.

Would Mr. Howells (William Dean)
Have battered H. M. Alden's bean
Till Richard Gilder made him quit!
You simpy can't imagine it."

MILITARY UNIT INSPECTION NEXT TUESDAY

The Medical Detachment, 1st Maryland Infantry with headquarters in Chestertown will be inspected next Tuesday, April 14th, by Captain Myers, U. S. A.

Captain Myers will be accompanied by Colonel Markey, of the Maryland National Guard on this annual inspection trip. Inspections in previous years have found this unit in excellent condition.

At a preliminory inspection held last week by Colonel Phalan, Chief Medical Instructor of the 3rd Corps Area including Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia, an excellent report was made. Colonel Phalan stated that the local unit looked better than any medical unit he had seen anywhere.

Considerable credit is due this unit under the direction of Major Frank B. Hines and Sargeants Herman Blackway, Harvey Blyman and William Goodman. Without the assistance of an additional medical officer since the resignation of Dr. R. G. Beachley, this unit has been outstanding in its work at camp and at inspections by regular Army and National Guard officers. There are twenty eight men in the local unit.

—Md. Fogel McKensey, who was the guest speaker at the Firemen's dinner Thursday evening, broadcasted over W. B. A. L. Baltimore Friday afternoon at 2.15 p. m. His talk was about the beauties of Chestertown and vicinity.

NOTED SURGEON DIES

The death of Dr. William S. Baer, noted orthopedic Surgeon, at the age of 59 years comes as a shock not only to the people of Baltimore but to the many whom he had benefitted by his wonderful skill. He had discovered only two years ago that the grub of the blue bottle fly would destroy the germ of tuberculosis of the bone, and was working on that during the last year of his life.

Dr. Baer was not only a great surgeon, but also a great philanthropist, using his skill in helping those who were unable to remunerate him with the samc interest as he showed to his other patients.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Chestertown High had a very good attendance for March. Our average was 95.1 per cent.

Our high school orchestra is practicing for the music in the Class Play.

The class has selected the Mystery Comedy, "Am I Intruding?"

The pupils of the Commercial Department are planning an educational visit to Beacom College, Wilmington.

Senior girls are busy designing and cutting out their commencement dresses.

There are many candidates out for baseball, Mr. Stenger is the Coach.

We are glad to know that our students who have been sick are much better. We wish a speedy recovery for Bobby Thompson, Bayard Sutton and Charles Chester Atwater.

Our boys and girls are getting entered in the track and field events for the Washington College Meet on May 16 and for the Kent County meet on May 18.

Ambition? Yes, Miss Fitez has this fine quality. Although she must endure the jabber of shorthand and bookkeeping students, and the clickety-click of typewriters, some fifty-odd hours a week, our commercial teacher has found time to try for the O. G. A. Shorthand Membership Certificate. Miss Fitez has not only tried, but she has alreadys received the O. G. A. Certificate accompanied by a gold pin.

O. G. A. stands for Order of Gregg Artists, and to get this Certificate, one must send in a copy of a special test written in shorthand. If the shorthand characters are not carefully formed, the test is returned without an award. The test appears in each monthly edition of "The Gregg Writter," a magazine published by the Gregg Publishing Company.

Some of the seniors in this department are practicing for the Membership Certificate also.

—Fine pictures all next week at the New Lyceum.

THE WOMAN'S LITERARY CLUB TAKES TRIP

A trip that had been planned to take journey to Washington in order to see the cherry blossoms, was carried out last Tuesday by the club. In spite of pouring rain they went to Annapolis by the Ferry and were met there by a Washington bus. There were nineteen persons in all and they had a very pleasant time in spite of the pouring rain and the fact that the cherry blossoms had failed to keep their part of the engagement.

When they arrived in Washington they first went to the Congressional Library where they saw the wonderful volbehr collection including the Gutenberg Bible, then to the capital and from there to the Smithsonion, the old and the new buildings. Among the many interesting sights there, the party was thrilled to see "The Spirit of St. Louis," the first plane that crossde the ocean with Lindbergh as its pilot. On their arrival at the White House, the President and Mrs. Hoover came out on the porch to greet them, and the first lady in the Land welcomed them very graciously. After a visit to the Pan American Building and Corcoran Art Gallery, they proceeded out to the Cathedral where they visited the Chapels and the Bishop's Garden. Altogether it was a very interesting trip and the plucky crowd all declared that they had enjoyed the day thoroughly. Washington is visited always by tourist and sight seers, but we doubt that any crowd got more enjoyment out of a day then they did

These who took the trip were: Miss Jennie Wilkins, Miss Belle Emory, Mrs. Harry Cannon, Miss Anna Smith, Mrs. R. H. Rogers, Mrs. W. G. Smyth, Mrs. H. C. Hughes, Mrs. Clinton Jones, Mrs. Amy McMenimin, Mrs. Harry Jefferson, Miss Ida Crow, Mrs. R. C. Moore. Mrs. W. C. Copper, Miss Louise Russell, Miss Nellie Walters, Miss Myrtle Wilson, Miss Clara Kopel and Mr. Clarence Wilson, and Mrs. Elizabeth Baxter.

JAPAN SENDS CHERRY TREES TO GENEVA

It is cherry blossom time in Washington. Year by year this beauty stands a memorial of friendship from Japan to the United States. Japan has also made a friendship gift of its wonderful blossoming cherry trees to Geneva. This special gift was made by the ASAHI, one of the leading Japanese newspapers, and fifty young trees have been planted in the grounds of the International Labour Office. They were shipped from Kokohame on January 15 and planted in Geneva March 6. It is said that they will all be in bloom in three years and possibly a few blooms may show even in 1931. They are the species bearing double blossoms and the finest variety grown in Japan. When the trees had been planted Mr. Toshisaka, Permanent Delegate of Japan to the International Labour Organization, made a short speech stressing the symbolic character of this gift. "The capital of the United States," he said, "has for some years had a magnificent avenue of cherry trees on the banks of the Potomac offered as a token of Japanese friendship, but to my knowledge this is the first large shipment of our cherry trees to Europe. I trust that they will prosper in this international soil. Let them blossom magnificiently, and let their purity, grace and perfume charm the leisure of those who are working here for the welfare of mankind. They will thus have a living proof of the deep and ever growing attachment of Japan to the cause of the Organization." The International Labour Office will take care of them as a symbol of the increasingly active part Japan plays in the work of international social progress.

REPORT OF AMBULANCE ACTIVITIES

At the annual banquet of the Chestertown Volunteer Sire Company, held on Thursday evening of this week, a report on the ambulance activities during the period from January 10th to December 28, 1930, was made by Mr. Fred S. Russell, chairman of the ambulance operating unit.

The report showed that the ambulance made 104 trips, covering 9356 miles, an average of 90 miles per trip. 915 gallons of gasoline and 15 gallons of oil was used.

Of the 104 trips made, 83 were to Easton, 4 to Wilmington, 7to Baltimore, 2 to Betterton and 1 each to Washington, Philadelphia, Kennett Square, Pa., St. Michaels, and Georgetown. Three local calls were made.

Drivers and helpers donated their servic for the operation of the ambulance whicr included 393 hours. Most of these trips were made by the chief drivers, Clark Davis, Carl LeCates and E. Scott Thompson with the assistance of John (Toots) Hadaway as helper. Other assistant drivers and helpers were William Blakney, Herman Blackway, George Pennington, Raymond East, Graham Nelson and Milton Barwick.

All of the gasoline and oil used during this period was donated by the Holt Oil Co., which made the operation of the ambulance possible. The maintenance is dependant on donations from people who use the machine.

Out of the 104 trips made during that period, the total donations were only $79.00. Of this sum, $50 was paid by two out-of-the-county, patients for which a charge was made.

This leaves only $29 donated by local residents. These donations came from four persons, 98 contributing nothing.
