ARMORY ARCHITECT HERE

CONSTRUCTION WORK EXPECTED TO START IN JUNE

Mr. Beacher, architect for the new state armory at Chestertown, was here on Tuesday of this week looking over the location which has been selected.

Bids for the building will be asked for in about thirty days and if the bids are satisfactory it is expected that construction work will be started in June.

The new armory will be similar in design to other armories in the state, although certain changes will be made that will add to its outside appearance and inside convenience.

The approach to the front door will be a ramp rather tha steps and the roof will be of a design which will raise the roof supports so as to make it available for basket ball games.

The first floor will contain a large drill floor, offices and an enlisted men's lounge. The basement will contain a mess hall kitchen and shower baths.

The armory will be located on the east side of the Quaker Neck road on the Chester River and opposite the property of Dr. Spranklin. The property contains 3 1-2 acres of land and has a 360 foot frontage.

"THE EASIEST WAY"

AT NEW LYCEUM THEATRE

"The Easiest Way," which will show at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, April 27 and 28, is an adaptation of the sensational Eugene Walter stage play, considered one of the immortal classics of the American stage. Jack Conway directed the production.

Laura Murdock, (Constance Bennett) is striving to rise out of the squalid poverty in which she was born. She accepts a job as model in an advertising agency, which takes her out of the department store in which she started. She attracts the attention of Brockton (Adolphe Menjou), head of the agency.

Later, when she visits her sister Peg (Anita Page), she is told to get out of the house by Nick, Peg's husband (Clark Gable.)

She travels west with Brockton as his "secretary." In the West she meets and falls in love with Madison (Robert Montgomery-, a young newspaper man, who leaves immediately for the Argentine. She promises to wait for him. She gives up Brockton, wealth and luxury, but weeks pass and she does not hear from Madison. She succumbs to economic urge and again sees Brockton.

Madison returns, and in her joy, Laura breaks a promise to Brockton, and does not tell her lover of her true relations with the head of the ad agency. A scene ensues between the three which carries the play to its surprising climax.

Other players of importance include Anita Page, Marjorie Rambeau, J. Farrell Macdonald, Clara Blandick and Clark Gable.

NOW AND THEN

IRIS

BY ALICE MATHEWS

Sweet flowers, whenever I behold
Your lovely blooms, real pent up joy
Doth make me with a pen quite bold
To sing of love and faith and joy.
I touch your petals and I know
Love to my heart is clear revealing
A great receipt, a glory glow,
A proof of power, that's most appealing.

Sweet flowers, your beauty is so rare,
Your texture O so delicate,
Your perfume, what may we compare
With the sweet fragrance of your fate?
The rose is lovely, red or white,
We revel in its loveliness,
But Iris, bliss you do invite
By your exquisite wonder-dress.

Sweet flowers, for you we patient wait
Until good Time is at the May
Like statues by my garden gate
You stand and nod at me today.
And half the glory of the spring
Seems when you bloom, to bright unfold:
The Morning Sun of Heaven doth bring
No sweeter gift, I glader hold.

Garden clubs and the wild out of door are luring us away from household cares and too much inside work. Now is the time to inform our houses that they should cease making slaves of us and that we seek the great open spaces. Truly when God sends us such beautiful mild weather we are letting it waste by being shut up in the house.

SPRING

She's just around the corner
But she's an awful tease—
Just when we think she's coming
She turns away and flees.

Spring is elusive ever,
She's like a maiden gay—
She taunts you with her sweetness
And then she runs away.

She knows we love her dearly,
Want her to come and stay;
Yet she loiters round the corner,
In her wilful, saucy way.

She's just around the corner—
At least that's what they say.
Why can't she make the turn?
Without this long delay?

FLORENCE A. McCASKIE.

Old Trinity Church on Rittenhouse Square where the esteemed rector Floyd Thompkins preaches every Sunday is a place where many tourists love to go as well as the large congregation. It is a lovely place for weddings and the old rector has tied many a knot which has never been broken.

RITTENHOUSE SQUARE

I went to church on Rittenhouse Square
There is plenty of room for God in there.
It was big and gray and often times
It played the nicest boomy chimes.
I loved it cause it stayed so dim,
And the "Please stand up for Jesus" hymn.
And I always specially loved it when
The time came round to say "Ahmen."

Come out at 7.30 on the 26th and bring that friend of yours who has been waiting for you to ask them to go to Church with you. You will be surprised how many folks are waiting for just such an invitation. Lets try to help some one get nearer to their Heavenly Father this year, And lets begin right now.

STANT ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH OPERATING STILL

Federal Officers last Saturday captured and destroyed a 500-gallon still on the White Marsh Farm, near Centreville, and arrested Clarence Stant as the alleged operator of the contrabrand outfit. Five barrels of mash and other booze manufacturing equipment also were destroyed.

Stant was released on $1,000 bail for his appearance in the Federal Court. The latter has been arrested several times of alleged boot-legging or moon-shining operations, and was out on bail on another Federal charge at the time of his arrest.

Two other men, alleged to have been engaged with Stant in operating the still, escaped

FAIRLEE 4-H CLUB NOTES

The Senior Club met at the home of Elizabeth Elliott, on Saturday, April 18th. An interesting demonstration, of raisin muffins, was given by Elizabeth Elliott, and Estelle Stavely. The next meeting will be held at the home of Gertrude Leaverton, on Saturday, May 2nd. Thelma Urie, and Gertrude Leaverton, will prepare a breakfast menu, for that meeting.

The Junior Club met in the school auditorium, on Tuesday, April 21st, at lunch time. The girls cut out kimona aprons, with the help of Miss Schellinger, and Louise Ackerman. This is the last article to be completed in the "Trig and Trim" booklet. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 28th, at lunch time.

The clubs have held several social affairs recently, in order to raise money to send members to club week. Due to the stormy weather on April 1st we realized about eleven dollars from the party.

The supper held last Thursday evening, was very successful. We are very much indebted to the Womens' Club for helping us with the supper. We wish to thank all that contributed food, and help; also we want to thank our guests for attending the supper. We cleared over thirty-one dollars.

Some of the Senior members hope to attend the Girls' 4-H Rally, at Denton on May 2nd.

Virginia Miller, and Louise Ackerman, attended the serving meeting in the court house, on Saturday, April 11th.

WELLS GOING DRY

Wells in the County are in worse shape now than they were last summer, according to reports that reach our office. The shallow wells such as those in Rock Hall and which were in such bad shape during the drouth and vicinity are sid to have plenty of water due to the late rains, but the deep wells whcih have had water in them all along and have stood the drouth are at last going dry.

RENTS APARTMENT

Mrs. Marie Westcott Williams, of Washington, D. C., has rented an apartment from Mrs Baldwin and will move into it sometime during the month of May. This apartment was formerly accupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mitchell.

WASHINGTON LOSES 2 GAMES

PLAYED LAFAYETTE YESTERDAY

At the time of going to press yesterday, Washington College and Lafayette were engaged in a lacrosse game on the local athletic field. A summary of the two teams shows Lafayette has a slight margin but not enough to assure a victory.

On the trip last week Washington lost to New York University nd Stevens Institute. The locals were no match for N. Y. U. and did well to hold them to a 8 to 0 score on Friday. The story was different on Saturday when Washington met Stevens. The locals were getting the best of the engineers and with but ten minutes to play Washington led by 3 to 2. At this point three Washington men were put out of the game on penalties leaving 9 men against 12. Working with this advantage, Stevens rolled up a score to finish the game 6 to 3.

Washington College will meet St. Johns at Annapolis on Wednesday of next week. St. Johns has one of the best Lcrosse teams in the country.
