THE TRANSCRIPT

IMMEDIATE STEPS SHOULD be taken to relieve the prest deplorable sewerage condition at the foot of Maple Avenue, Chestertown. Before the new Chester River bridge was built the sewerage at this point was piped forty feet out into the river and under that condition was considered a menace to health by the State Department of Health. At the present time the sewerage pipe ends at the shore abutment of the new bridge and at low tide the sewerage from the entire northern section of Chestertown flows through an open ditch to the water's edge and backs up on the shores along Chestertown's beautiful water fornt within a comparatively few feet of the homes in that section. This should be remedied by those who are responsible for this condition before the Typhoid season arrives.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF WEDDING SILVER

J. S. Kreeger's, local jeweler, there is now on display an exquisite, complete collection of "Hunt Club" silver, the outstanding pattern for 1931. That Masters of four of America's most celebrated Hunts are using on their own boards, this new pattern, is significant.

The graceful fluting of this new sterling, the exquisite balance and proportion of each piece, mark it as a thoroughbred and aristocrat among silverware. It has the simplicity of great elegance—and therefore, is in harmony with all beautiful things.

This feature display will be shown today and next week at Kreeger's as their part of the Gorham Co.'s Anniversary celebration. The Gorham Company, America's leading Silversmiths, and makers of "Hunt Club," was founded in 1831 at Provilence, Rhode Island.

Fashionable hostesses and brides are enthusiastically selecting Hunt Club for their own tables.
