THE TRANSCRIPT

WE WERE misinformed last week about the sewer at the Maple Avenue end of Chester River Bridge empting at the abutment. A sewer pipe has been connected to the sewer at the abutment and extended about fifty feet out in the river. Nevertheless the sewerage along the river front is very unhealthy and disagreeable to residents in that section and under advice of health officials should be corrected.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE is celebrating its 149th commencement which means 149 years of educational service to the Eastern Shore. During that period of years hundreds of men and women have been prepared for leadership in the social, business and educational life of their respective communities. This college has been progressing with the times in educational endeavors and at the present time ranks with the leading colleges of the state. The recognition of the educational advantages at Washington College together with the training offered young men and women is particularly marked this year as more of the 43 graduates this week have received positions than any class in recent years. This is particularly gratifying considering these times of excessive unemployment.

REMEDYING A BAD CONDITION

Work started yesterday toward remedying a condition at the Chestertown milk station which has been very objectionable to residets living in that section. Excess milk was being dumped into the drain ditch which caused a very disagreeable order.

Officials of the milk station are treating the dumped milk with lime and are covering it with cinders. This is being done at the request of the Commissioners of Chestertown.

BACTERIAL STANDARDS FOR MILK

STATE TO ENFORCE MILK REGULATIONS

Additions recently adopted by the State Board of Health to the milk regulations that have been in force for several years have been announced by Dr. Robert H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health. The amendments establish definite bacterial standards for milk and cream to be sold in Maryland towns and cities by prohibiting the sale of milk and cream containing in excess of 200,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter in raw milk and in excess of 30,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter in pasteurized milk. The sale of milk or cream containing excessive dirt or sediment is also prohibited.

"The State Department of Health, "Dr. Riley said, "is particularly concerned with regard to the milk produced and retailed in small towns that have no supervision over their milk supply except that which is given by the State. The State laws and local laws of many towns do not require the pasteurization of milk, which process is highly advisable in protecting the public. It is therefore extremely important that raw milk and cream be handled carefully by persons free from disease, with particular reference to cleanliness, and under such conditions that it will be free from excessive bacteria.

"The production of clean milk of low bacterial content is not difficult. Failure to sterilize utensils properly, lack of refrigeration, corresponding failure to cool the milk promptly and to keep it cool, will inevitably result especially in hot weather, in a high bacterial content. Such milk is potentially dangerous and is not the product the public is entitled to receive as fresh milk.

"Compliance with the bacterial standards that have been established will be required of milk producers and dealers. Those whose milk is found to contain excessive quantities of bacteria will be given an opportunity to correct conditions, but if they expect to sell their product they will be required to follow methods that are necessary for the production of good milk."

SOME INTERESTING POINTS ON REAL ESTATE

Leonard C. Treherne, local representative of the E. A. Strout Realty Agency, Inc., received today the following letter from Mr. E. A. STOUT, of New York, President of the Organization.

"The careful investor, with money in hand to keep profitably employed, is turning again to first mortgages on farms and other real estate.

Stocks it would seem, as a popular investment have had their day with this generation.

Bonds of late issues are returning a very low rate of income. A $50,000,000 issue this month of four year New York City bonds to return less than 3 per cent. were purchased by banking houses.

Many banks have cut interest rates on daily balances to 1 per cent. and hundreds of savings banks have reduced their rates from 4½ per cent. to 4 per cent. and others from 4 per cent. to 3½ per cent. and even 3 per cent.

Mortgages on real estate returning 6 per cent. interest are being again considered with a friendly eye.

Once convinced that an active market for farms and country real estate is with us now, investors will show their preference for good mortgages.

An active market for property assures them prompt resale of foreclosed properties, thereby assuring them the safe return of their capital in case of foreclosures.

Unemployment in the cities with lower wages for the employed is bringing about a RETURN TO THE COUNTRY.

Our 30 per cent. increase in farm sales for April this year over any April, since 1919 indicates that there is a decided "Back to the Farm" movement already under way.

U. S. Government figures show farm labor is now receiving an average of a few cents over $25 a month with board, which is about the 1916 scale.

About half the corporations throughout the U. S. have cut wages within a year 10 per cent. to 20 per cent. or more.

As existing agreements with labor unions expire no doubt many more cuts will be made.

With lower city wage scales, farm life will look more attractive.

As of April 1st, 1931, $1.00 buys general commodities that cost $1.36 in 1926. The investor from his 6 per cent. mortgages can buy today with $6 what cost him $8.16 in 1926.

Real estate mortgages it would seem are on their way back to their old time position of populor conservative investments." See
