ROTARY SESSION MONDAY AND TUESDAY

DR. TITSWORTH TO PRESIDE AT DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The Chestertown Rotary Club has worked out a novel way of holding the 34th Rotary District Conference for Presidents and secretaries which will be held Monday and Tuesday of next week.

John Cadwalader

The palatial steamer John Cadwalader, of the Ericson Line has been chartered for the two days and the conference wil lbe held on the Chesapeake Bay. The steamer will leave Betterton at 6 a. m. and proceed to Baltimore where the visitors will board at 9 a. m.

Monday will be spent cruising up and down the upper Bay while the conference is in session and Monday afternoon will dock at Tolchester and the guests brought to Chestertown in automobile on a sight-seeing tour returning to Tolchester where a dinner will be held at Hotel Tolchester. The guests will board the steamer that night and cruise on the bay until Tuesday evening when the guests will at Baltimore.

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, Governor of the 34th District will preside at the sessions of the conference.

Among the speakers listed for the two-day assembly are Ignatius Bjorlee, of Frederick; Dr. C. Howard Witmer, of Lancaster; Roy Danzer, of Hagerstown; E. P. Burkholder, of Georgetown; Senator Ridgley P. Melvin, of Annapolis; and Oliver C. Short, Baltimore.

A. S. Turner, Jr., secretary-treasuerr of the Chestertown Rotary Club, will act in a smaller capacity for the assembly.

C. E. Noland, J. W. John and J. S. Kreeger, of the Chestertown club, compose the committee in charge of the arrangements for the cruise while the arrangements for the sight-seeing trip to Chestertown are in charge of a committee composed of H. S. Russell, Rollison Baxter, Donald F. Stam, S. R. Collins and A. S. Turner, Jr.

The clubs which will be represented at the assembly are: Altoona, Pa., Annapolis, Md., Baltimore, Md., Bedford, Pa., Bel Air, Md., Brunswick, Md., Cambridge, Md., Carlisle, Pa., Catonsville, Md., Centreville, Md., Chambersburg, Pa., Chestertown, Md., Clearfield, Pa., Columbia, Pa., Coudersport, Pa., Crisfield, Md., Cumberland, Md., Curwensville, Pa., Denton, Md.

RESOLUTIONS OF PESPECT

WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God in His divine wisdom to call to his eternal rest the soul of our fellow member in the Woman's Auxiliary of Shrewsbury Parish, Miss Mary E. Janvier, of which she was a charter member:

Therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Auxiliary place on record our deep sorrow upon the passing away of one, who for all the years held the Church and Auxiliary first in her thoughts: denying herself always for their good: We pray, we may in the years to come profit by her example.

We wish to express to Mrs. Barroll and relatives our heart felt sympathy.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of this be sent Mrs. Barroll, be published in The Eastern Shore Churchman, the county papers and spread upon the minutes.

MISS IDA V. CROW,

Not Easy to Calculate Cost of Writing Letter

Just what it costs to write a letter is not known to nine out of ten business men. If they ever think of it they figure the postage and the cost of the stationery and let it go at that. Really the postage is an insignificant item in the cost of a letter.

An efficiency expert recently inquired of 58 concerns about the cost of their letters and it was learned that only 14 had any definite idea on the subject. The average cost as figured by these fourteen firms was between 35 and 40 cents. With an average salary of $45 a week for the dictator and $20 for the stenographer who turns out 30 letters a day and with the dictator using six minutes per letter the cost was 35.08 and 36.07 cents per missive, according to the cost of the stationery.

When the boss worth $10,000 or $20,000 a year does the dictating and uses a $60 per week secretary the letter will cost close to $1. Some letters written by hand cost thousands and thousands of dollars. Love notes, for instance, have had a cost that depends on the minds of the jurors hearing the damage suit.—Bob Holland in the Miami Herald.

Canning Factory in Arctic

Within a few hundred miles of the North pole a fish-canning factory has been established, worked entirely by Eskimos. The plant, financed by the Danish government, is in Holstenberg, Greenland, a town beyond the Arctic circle.

Modern in every detail, the factory makes use of electric power derived from the swift-running rivers, and employs up-to-date dynamos and oil engines for emergencies. It is operated mainly by Eskimo women. The whole population of the district, numbering approximately 250, is devoted to the new industry. A fleet of modern motor fishing boats, recently shipped from Denmark, keeps the establishment supplied.

Smoking Throughout Sermon

The question asked by the bishop of Ely whether listeners put out their pipes during the broadcasting of religious services would not have troubled the clergy of past generations, writes a columnist in the Manchester (England) Guardian. In some of our parish churches smoking during the service used to be so common that pipe-racks and spittoons were provided, and in Wales as late as 1850 the start of the sermon was an accepted signal for the male members of the congregation to light up. Readers of "The Heart of Midlothian," too, will remember an important personage who smoked throughout the whole of the sermon—often a matter of an hour or two—consuming such tobacco as he could borrow from other worshipers.
