TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM

The Story Of A Great Father Love

Mother love has always played a great part in drama and literature. But not as frequently is the love of a father for his own to be found in fiction or upon the screen.

A heart-gripping example of such love is magnificently portrayed in the all-talking picture "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room," starring William Farnum and which shows at the New Lyceum on Friday and Saturday, September 11 and 12. This modern screen version of the immortal stage favorite tells the dramatic story of Joe Morgan. Following the "curse of the Morgans" down to the last bitter fulfillment, he sinks into the abysmal depths of drunken degradation—losing all sense of shame and humiliation. Betraying those nearest and dearest to him, he is deaf to every appeal save one—that of his little daughter, Mary, who very nearly gives her life that her father might be awakened to manhood again.

William Farnum's performance as Joe Morgan is a triumphant characterization of heart-stirring father love. His scenes with six year old Patty Lynd are gems of exquisite sympathy and tenderness. His transition from the happy, good-natured miller to the besotted drunkard, and his spectacular regeneration through the love of a little child is a dramatic achievement which adds new laurels to Mr. Farnum's brilliant career as one of the really great artists of stage and screen. His smashing fight with Tom Santschi makes a thrilling climax.

Tiny Patty Lou Lynd as little Mary Morgan will creep into your heart and bring tears to your eyes. Seldom is a child actress so delicately appealing. You will find her sympathetic and lovable, a delightful little star in the ascendant.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC AT POND-TOWN

An outbreak of ten cases of typhoid fever at Pondtown, near Crumpton, Queen Anne's county, with one fatality thus far, was reported Saturday by Dr. Ralph G. Beachley, deputy State health officer for Kent and Queen's Annes counties.

The fatality was that of Bessie Mae Tiller, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tiller. Her 8-year-old brother, Charles, wos seriosly ill, Dr. Beachley said.

Ninety-five persons in the community of approximately 300 were given preventive inoculations last Friday in the Pondtown Methodist Church and similar preventive measures will be taken September 11 and 25 and October 2.

Excessive rains, Dr. Beachley said, apparently have polluted the water supply in wells by draining ground water into them. He said he expected a number of new cases to develop shortly.

All those now being treated came in contact with the child who died it was said.

EULOGIZES CHESAPEAKE BAY

Mr. Herbert C. Miller, vice-president of the Martingsburg, West Virginia Rotary Club, attend the Rotary District Conference on the cruise on the upper Chesapeake Bay and was on the automobile tour from Tolchester to Chestertown. During the trip he praised the beauties of the bay and Chester River and after his return home he wrote the following poem:

THE CHESAPEAKE BAY

You may talk about your rivers, the Rhine and Danube blue,
You may eulogize in measures your lakes and mountains, too,
You may sing of sea and ocean your high, exalted lay,
But let me hear your hallelujahs to the Chesapeake Bay.

You may rhyme of snow-capped mountains, clothed in early morning light;
Or when they catch the rays from heaven as the day fades into night;
But for me one scene will linger forever and a day—
The roll of gleaming waters in the Chesapeake Bay.

The ocean has its beauty in its long and mighty roll,
As fathomless as the stars above—mysterious as the soul;
But to satisfy a yearning in a heart that's made of clay,
Let me go a day a-sailing on the sun-kissed Chesapeake Bay!

O the Chesapeake Bay, the Chesapeake Bay!
With a curving shore line gleaming in the azure far away!
In the gold of evening's sunset is thy beauty glorified
As the staunch "Cadawalader" bears us o'er thy briny tide.

Resting close to heart of Maryland, thou hast known the country's need,
Offered shores and waves when peril called for patriot's valiant deed.
Bulwark of the Nation's safety, highway of the Nation's trade
Surely ne'er has inland water, such historic drama made.

When the angels up in heaven call my spirit to its rest,
Any my soul takes its departure to the islands of the Blest,
May the fabled Stygian ferry be as calm upon that day
As the quiet, peaceful waters of the Chesapeake Bay!

Composed by
HERBERT C. MILLER,
Martinsburg, West Va. Rotary Club.

CORN CANNERY CLOSED

OPERATED CONTINUOUSLY FOR FIVE WEEKS

The corn cannery at Kennedyville closed at noon on Wednesday of this week after continuously operating since August 5th.

This summer's pack totaled 49,500 cases containing 1,130,000 cans. The maximum packed in any one day was 2,400 cases which is only a few cases short of the record at this cannery.

The corn crop this year is reported as good and the price paid was $12 per ton. This price is paid for growing the corn as the cannery furnishes the seed, pulls and hauls the crop. Forty experienced pullers from Baltimore pulled the corn and thirty experienced cutters handle it at the cannery.

The cannery at Kennedyville is up-to-date and clean. The corn in the cannery is not touched by hand except when the cutter holds the knub while cutting off the husk. A record of cutting 75 buckets in half a day was made by one girl in the cannery this summer.

The operation of the cannery at Kennedyville has been a great financial help to that section of the county.

BASE BALL HERE TODAY

KENNEDYVILLE AND ROCK HALL TO PLAY OFF TIE AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE

One of the most interesting baseball games of the series of the Chesapeake Bay League will be played on Washington field today, Saturday, when Kennedyville and Rock Hall will play a game to deterimne the championship of the second half of the Chesapeake ball players.

These two teams ended the season tied for first place. Kennedyville with the addition of Miller on the mound has built up a strong combination. The lineup includes some of Kent county's most experienced base bal players.

The hard hitting Rock Hall nine with Carey on the mound and Wright holding down the relief position, are coming to Chestertown to win.

Each team will have a large following and a real base ball game is predicted.

The winner of this contest will be declared champions of the second half of the series and will play Church Hill, winner of the first half, in a three game series, one game on each of the home diamonds and if a third game is necessary it will be played on a neutral diamond, probably Washington Field.
