vs.
Mattie E. Jerden Diehl

In the Circuit Court for Kent County
In Equity No. 2702

The object of the Bill filed in the above entitled cause is to procure a Decree for divorce a vinculo matrimony in favor of the Plaintiff against the Defendant.

The Bill states:

1. That on the 20th day of November, 1918, Albert C. Diehl was married to one Mattie E. Jerden with whom he resided at Taylors' Bridge in New Castle County, Delaware, until the 24th day of April, 1926.

2. That, though the conduct of your Orator toward his wife, the said Mattie E. Jerden Diehl, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Mattie E. Jerden Diehl has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted him, and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

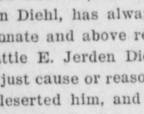

3. That your Orator and the said Defendant, Mattie E. Jerden Diehl, have had one child born of said marmiage whose name is Anna Foster Diehl, and was born on December 20th, 1920.

4. That your Orator is a registered qualified voter in Kent County, having resided in said County continuously for more than four years, having moved to Kent County on May 10, 1926; that the Defendant is a resident of the State of Delaware, residing at Blackbird or elsewhere beyond the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court.

It is thereupon, this 18th day of September, 1931, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent County, in Equity, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Kent County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 19th day of October next, give notice to the said Mattie E. Jerden Diehl, non-resident defendant, warning her to appear in this Court in person, or by Solicitor, on or before the 2nd day of November next, to show cause, if any she has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria, This pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria have him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily, half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels.

That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwells' Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

CONVICTS BUY WAY TO EASIER TASKS

Charges of Bribery Are Being Investigated.

New York.—An investigation into a system of bribery whereby well-to-do convicts sentenced to federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth, especially for liquor law violations and stock frauds, have been able to get themselves transferred to less onerous confinement in army detention camps, such as those at Fort Wadsworth here, and Camp Meade, Md., has been under way by the Department of Justice for several weeks.

The first intimation of the existence of such a system was obtained by federal authorities here some months ago with the discovery of a letter in the pocket of Paul Rubkin, a convicted watch smuggler, in the Manhattan federal building. Rubkin, with Solomon Rubman, secretary of the company, and Joseph Y. Pearlman, was sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary in July, 1930.

Rubkin Gets Two Years.

The trio had pleaded guilty to charges of smuggling watch movements valued at $950,000 into this port from Switzerland and defrauding the government out of $300,000 in duties. Rubkin and Pearlman got two years each and Rubman was sentenced for 18 months.

Some time later, however, when the federal authorities wanted Rubkin to confront a new suspect and they sent to Atlanta for him, it was found that he was at Fort Wadsworth. He was brought to the courthouse here. Afterwards when he was taken back to Fort Wadsworth and searched it was discovered that some one had given him a letter while in New York.

The letter was from a convict at Atlanta. It disclosed that the writer had obtained the necessary funds and wanted to follow Rubkin's example in obtaining a transfer to Fort Wadsworth. Questioned by federal authorities, Rubkin admitted that he had bought a transfer for himself for $1,000 and that his two associates had also bought transfers, the prices being $1,000 and $500 each.

Learn of Transfers.

Department of Justice agents, under John Edgar Hoover, chief investigator at Washington, began an investigation. They learned that other transfers had been made under similar conditions. However, it was not always easy to ascertain whether the transfers had been paid for. Because of the overcrowded condition of the penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth, federal prison authorities have made it a practice recently to transfer as many prisoners as possible to army detention camps. Nearly 1,500 prisoners have been scattered through these camps.

Among other notorious prisoners who are said to have obtained transfers from Atlanta to army detention camps is Harry Goldhurst, operator of a Manhattan bucket shop and financial adviser of Bishop Cannon and friend of Samuel Radlow, once an intimate of the late Vivian Gordon. Goldhurst was sentenced to five years in Atlanta for his bucket shop operations.

Leaves $5,000 So Dogs Can Be Kept Together

Richmond, Va.—The late Herbert L. Moorman of Forest and Lynchburg believed in taking care of his five dogs. His will provides that $1,000 shall be set aside for each of them, the money to be expended for their benefit by his nephew, L. Preston Collins.

As each dog dies, such portion of the $1,000 allotted to him as is unexpended is to go to the Baptist Orphanage at Salem.

Mr. Moorman said concerning his pets in his will:

"If possible, I ask that my dogs shall not be separated, but shall be kept together. They have meant a lot to me."

Public Jewish Weddings Again Are Held in Spain

Madrid.—The first official public Jewish wedding since the expulsion act of 1492 was celebrated in a Jewish synagogue here. It united two descendants of the old Spanish-Jew aristocracy.

While Jews have not been molested in Spain for the past century, they were unable to observe publicly the ancient Hebraic rites. This privilege is now offered 2,000,000 Spanish Jews through one of the first official acts of the republican government, which established freedom of worship.

Iron Pot Unearthed; Is 2,000 Years Old

Linkoping, Sweden.—A 2,000-year-old iron pot measuring more than 20 inches in height has been found near here, deeply imbedded in sand. In spite of its age the vessel is in good condition.

According to archeologists, only two similar pots have been found before in Sweden.

Firing Furnaces Not in Her Line

By M. AMES

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

ABBIE LOU was struggling with the furnace. She pushed the wrong dampers out, and she pushed the right dampers in; she added paper to the feeble embers; she poked furiously with the coal shovel. She went through all the futile motions of those unaccustomed to arson or coal furnaces.

The giant firebox with its bed of graying ashes looked for all the world like a toothless old crone, grinning at her defiantly. The fire wouldn't burn, just to be mean. That hateful Doctor Grant was coming to tea, she supposed; the living room was icy; and where, oh where, was that furnace man?

The marks of the struggle showed plainly. Not on the furnace. That exasperating structure had settled placidly for the next move. But Abbie Lou! A black smudge ran from the corner of her left blue eye to the dimple at the corner of her crooked red mouth. Her short copper-colored curls were fairly standing on end. And though the combination of her hair and eyes and lips might in other circumstances be considered angelic, there was an expression on her face just then quite in keeping with the poker in her hand.

Abbie Lou had come from the city to take care of Grannie. Poor Gran, upstairs in bed, freezing perhaps. In the city when one wanted heat, one spoke to the superintendent; in the country evidently you sent for frnace men, who didn't show up for hours.

The whir of the front door bell sounded faintly. Relief at last! Abbie Lou gave one vicious poke at the ashes. "That for you, and that!"

Unmindful of her sooty face, her rumpled hair, or Gran's old gray sweater donned for warmth, she darted up the stairs.

"It's about time you came," she stormed at the young man on the doorstep. "We're freezing to death. Gran may be dead this very minute. This way, please."

"Maybe we'd better see to your grandmother first," said the young man cooly.

"Nonsense, she's all right. This fire has to be started. It isn't your fault we're not stiff and stark by this time. A very disagreeable man is coming to tea at four o'clock, and it's getting late. Please hurry."

The young man followed meekly. Abbie Lou was too impatient, too absorbed in her task of fire building to give the young man much heed. If she had, she would have realized he was hardly attired as a furnace man, and that his manner, though respectful, held a touch of amusement.

Not until the fire was blazing merrily, the dampers in and out as dampers should be, did Abbie Lou take a good glance at her rescuer. His eyes were brown, his hair was brown, he was very tall, and there was soot on his face, too. The ensemble was decidedly pleasing.

"And now let's take a look at your grandmother."

Abbie Lou started. "Just who are you anyway," she inquired. "You don't look exactly like a furnace man. Don't tell me I've made a mistake!"

"It was a lucky mistake for me," the young man grinned. "You're just as adorable as Gran said you would be, and, after all, I had to build the fire. I couldn't let our only hope of introduction freeze to death."

Abbie Lou blushed slowly. "You're Doctor Grant?"

"Yes, I'm Doctor Grant," he admitted. "Why? Do you think you're not going to like me?"

Abbie Lou had the grace to look embarrassed, but she faced him squarely. "I'd just made up my mind not to. Granny's done nothing but rave about you for the three days I've been here, and it didn't seem possible for anyone to be as nice as she said. I was sure you'd be too good-looking, and very conceited, and I wouldn't like you a bit."

"But now?" prompted Doctor Grant.

"Well, you did build a grand fire, and the smudge on your nose makes you look very distinguished."

"And that smudge on your face makes you look very, very adorable.

As the doctor reached for the poker, still in Abbie Lou's grasp, his hand met hers, closed over it with a delighted little squeeze.

"Do you think, dear," he asked, "it would seem too sentimental to be married in the cellar?"

Abbie Lou lowered her eyes. "Perhaps we'd better have Granny introduce us."

Laughing, the two ran up the stairs, still hand in hand.

Early American Newspapers

The first daily newspaper in the United States came into existence in Philadelphia on September 21, 1784, when the tri-weekly Pennsylvania Packet and General Advertiser became the Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser. David C. Claypool became joint publisher with John Dunlop, who, since he founded it in 1771, had published the paper continuously. After going through several changes of ownership it was finally absorbed, in 1839, by the Philadelphia North American, a new daily, which continued until 1925.

Once Land of Forests

In the early days of American history the entire country with the exception of the treeless plains in the central part was heavily wooded.

Mrs. Moriarty: "I'm sorry for Mrs. O'Brien. It's tough to be left a widow with two children."

Mrs. Fogarty: "Sure, it is, Mrs. Moriarity—but she knew he was a pedestrian when she married him.

"Did that patent medicine you bought cure your aunt?"

"Mercy, no! On reading the circular that was wrapped around the bottle she got two more diseases."
