LOCAL MATTER

—Ice cream for winter health, read Gill Bros., advertisement in this issue, some very interesting words.

—Mr. Otto Schnoor, of Cambridge, Md., has rented the Barroll Farm adjoining the eastern boundry of Chestertown.

—The old George B. Westcott property, corner of High and Queen Sts., has been improved with a coat of paint.

—Mr. J. C. Hume, formerly of New York, has purchased through Mr. H. T. Jewell, the Major Crea property in Quaker Neck, near Quaker Neck Wharf.

—County Agents J. D. McVean and Stanley Sutton will join county agents from other counties at the canning crops conference to be held in Baltimore next week. This is the first conference for two years.

—The automobile of Mr. Bud F. Potts, of Lynch, and driven by him was completely wrecked Sunday afternoon near McLains Corner when it collided with a car that was passing it. The Potts car went into the ditch and turned over. Mr. Potts was not injured except for a few minor cuts about his face and head.

—The local fire company responded to a call from Fairlee on Tuesday of this week when a spark from the chimney of the home of Mr. William Keyser set fire to the roof of the house. With the assistance of neighbors the fire was extinguished before firemen arrived. Only slight damage was done.

HISTORICAL PICTURES A GREAT SUCCESS

The historical pictures of the early years of our countrys history have proved quite a success so far, both financially and in the enthusiasm they excite in all who see them. It is a very easy way to teach history and the crowd of school children, attending show how much interested they are in the series of pictures. The next show will take this afternoon at 2 p. m. and 3.30 p. m.
