"FIGHTING MARSHALL"

Tim McCoy comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, January 15 and 16, in "The Fighting Marshal," a story of the west in which a man, framed into jail for the murder of his own father, escapes in the hope that he can succeed in an attempt to pin the guilt on the men he suspects.

A series of circumstances permit him to impersonate a marshall who is killed on his way to a new post. This town has been getting a lot of new marshals lately because life isn't very healthy for guardians of the law in that section. This makes Tim's position doubly precarious, for he is in danger of being yanked back into prison before he uncovers the plot against him, or of being shot in carrying out his duties as marshall.

There is a love story in "The Fighting Marshal," Dorothy Gulliver portraying the heroine. Others in the cast of this Columbia picture are Matthew Betd, Mary Carr and Pat O'Malley.

NOW AND THEN

WAITING

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, nor tide, nor sea;
I rave no more against time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No iwnd can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it hath sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in younder heights;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delights.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

John Burroughs.

So we are to have Shakespeare play, "Homeo and Juliet," with all the Stratford setting. Surely Shakespeare never dies, One man said he kept his Shakespeare on the same table with his bible, for no where is truth and virtue more upheld than by the Stratford poet. The college youths and maides are to be congratulated for their efforts in reviving this play.

1932. How hard it was at first to write it. It is with us now with its white unwritten pages. No wonder that the heathens named this month January after Janus, the two faced god who looked backward and forward at the same time, for while we look forward to better times and brighter skies for 1932 we are still experiencing all that 1931 has left to us. Old Father Time did a lot of reaping, and loss of profits and unemployment hounded us all the old year. But the motor liscense shines forth with its clean white back ground, and we hope soon to see better times.

We read of a bright woman who two years ago had a gift shop and a tea room from which she cleared $6,000 a year. Last year she closed her shop, and with a bare $300 began to look for work. After five months she found a position as housekeeper to a rich family which she gladly accepted. Women have suffered more from unemployment than men during the past year.

Aga Khan, a great Mohammedon leader, who claims direct descent from tre prophet, Mohamet, is said to be worth his weight in gold.

Although he lives in Paris, his subjects come each year to weigh him and to bring the gold with them. As he does not diet, he tips the scales at 220 pounds. And to reward his followers he makes them a present of several barrells of the water in which he bathes, and which is thought to cure all diseases. This water is sold to his subjects by the spoonfuls and his grateful people gladly carry it home.

The eruption of Kilauea, Volcano in Hawaii has caused much disturbance among the natives of that island.

Yesterday, a young bride was seen standing on the brink of the burning crater, ready to throw herself in. A spectator, seeing her, rushed to her, and tried to pull her away, almost losing his life in the struggle, while she pleaded that she intended to offer her life as a sacrifice for her people; as the goddess Pelee was angry with them, and was showing her anger by the eruption of the volcano.

Mahatma Gandhi differed in many ways from the English. In one way, while the English indulge in a daily bath, Gandhi does not believe in bathing.

Living Up to the Audience.—Jimmy Dunn writes to tell me about the English actor who received a rebuke from a director .

"Go on," he said, "drop your aitche can't you?"

"I'm suposed to be acting the part of British peer," argued the Englishman.

"I know that," said the director, "but all you English drop your aitches, don t you?"

"Good gracious, no!" the Englishman responded.

The director pondered a moment and then said, "Well, drop 'em anyhow. The guys on this side expect it!"—New York Morning Telegraph.

SHAKESPEARE PLAY AT W. C.

OCAL COLLEGE TO STAGE ROMEO AND JULIET

Before very long, at Washington College, is to be produced Shakespeare's immortal story of love and death Romeo and Juliet. The class interest was awakened by the beauty of the play, and for their own pleasure, and to share that pleasure with their friends, they have undertaken to stage the tragedy. It has been many years since a Shakespeare play has been put on by the college, so the class is making a real effort to have this as finished a performance as possible. They are observing Elizabethan tradition of staging and costuming, and are putting on the play practically as written, that is, without cuts or rearrangements.

Shakespeare has a vogue on the Eastern Shore, and already a lively interest has been manifested in the venture.

THE BUYER'S MARKET

"Just what is meant by the present "buyer's market" was graphically demonstrated bf a country store dealer in Texas, who exhibited in his show window a table of goods with this sign: "In 1918-1919, 100 pounds of sugar cost $33.333. Today this table load of merchandise is yohrs for the same money."

And here is what was piled on the table: 100 pounds of sugar, 48 pounds of salt, 32 pounds of shortening, one-quarter pound of tea, two and one-half pounds of coffee, two pounds of cocoa, three pounds of soda, one bottle of catsup, three boxes of snuff, 12 bars of soap, one gallon of vinegar, one quart of pickles, one bottle of mustard, two cans of salmon, three cans of tomatoes, one can of baking powder, one-half pound of pepper, two pounds of bacon, six boxes of matches, one gallon of syrup, one box of shotgun shells, two packages of corn flakes, one package of rolled oats, one pair of lady's stockings, one pair men's oxfords, one pair of overalls, one shirt and one $5 bill.

Convincing proof that the consumer's dollar nowadays will do double duty—if put to work.

PRISONERS ESCAPE IN JAIL BREAK

3 COLORED MEN ESCAPE—13 REMAIN IN JAIL

When Sheriff Vickers arose Monday morning he found the heavy door open, which connected the prisoners corridor with the hallway of the jail. A hurried check up of the prisoners showed three missing and that thirteen had remained in the jail with no bearer between them and the outside.

The prisoners who escaped were:

Hanson Wilson, colored, held for court on a charge of larceny of turkeys from Mr. Harry Thompson. He with two other men were arrested in Chester, Pa., when found with six turkeys in a truck.

Alisis Thomas, alias James Thomas, charged with the forgery of a $25 check.

Harry Johnson, charged with violating the local option law.

Among the thirteen prisoners who remained behind, although the door was open, some were serving short terms in jail while others charged for larceny and were held for Court.

The jail door was opened by sawing a chain with a hack saw or file and then picking a lock.

The escape was made about 4 a. m. Monday morning according to information furnished by other prisoners. At the time of going to press the three men were still at large.

TO CHECK DUCK KILL

A questionnaire soon will be issued by E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, to all licenses of ducking blinds for a report of their kill in the last wild-fowl season.

Harold S. Kolmer, secretary of the State Game Department, said the reports would be used to determine the number of migratory wild fowl killed throughout the State, and the figures would be embodied in the department's statistics.

The wild-fowl season closed at sunset, December 15, according to Federal regulation. The Federal Government allows hunters an additional ten days in which to dispose of their game, after which they are subject to fine if any remain in their possesion, Mr. Kolmes said.

GEORGE DAVIS GUILTY

NEGRO ASSAULTER SENTENCED TO 16 YEARS

George Davis, 27 year old negro, was sentenced to 16 years in the Maryland Penitentiary on Tuesday of this week by the Circuit Court of Cecil county for a attempted criminal assault on a white woman living near Kennedyville.

This crime caused more indignation among the citizens of Kent county than any that has been committed for many years and was one of the most extreme offences against the law and order of this county. The penalty for this crime as set out in the laws of the State of Maryland is death, life imprisonment or from three to twenty years imprisonment. The State, represent by States Attorney Stephen R. Collins with the assistance of Senator S. Scott Beck and Edward C. Rollins, States Attorney for Cecil couny, asked for the death penalty, based on the fact that as it was an extreme offense, it should be punished by the extreme penalty.

The case was tried before the Court composed of Chief Judge William H. Adkins and Associate Judges, Lewin W. Wickes and Thomas J. Keating.

After deliberating for forty minutes, Judge Adkins reported that a majority of the Court returned a verdict of guilty, after which Judge Thomas J. Keating stated that he dissented from the verdict.

In handing down the opinion Judge Adkins stated. "We realize that under the statutes the death penalty may be imposed, but we feel in the absence of fiendishness and brutality it should not be imposed in this case."

The prisoner was brought from the Baltimore City jail Tuesday morning under heavy guard of Baltimore police and State police and special deputy's from Cecil and Kent counties helped maintain order during the trial.

Following the trial the prisoner was carried down a back stairway, heavily guarded and taken back to Baltimore.

Davis's sentence may be reduced to 14 years and eight months as an allowance of 30 days each year is made for good behavior.

States Attorney Stephen R. Collins and his associates left no stone unturned in compiling evidence against the accused and have been working on the case continuously since the crime was committed. A signed confession from Davis admitted the crime in detail.

Davis was ably defended by Messrs. R. Hynson Rogers, of Chestertown and J. H. C. Legg(of Centreville.

SPECIAL MEETING OF TURKEY GROWERS

The president of the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County, Mrs. Harry T. Williams, is calling a special and very important meeting of the Association at the office of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce for Monday afternoon at 1.30.

The Turkey Show sponsored by the Association and with the assistance of the Extension Service is shaping up well under the able direction of County Agent J. D. McVean, chairman, and will be held January 27 and 28 at the warehouse of the Eliason Motors, Inc. The evening program on Wednesday evening will take place at the Court House and has been so planned so that it will be attractive not only to turkey growers themselves but all those who are interested in this good cash crop from any point of view and as a Kent County industry.

Should heavy storms prevent holding the special meeting on Monday next, the date will be postponed to Tuesday. This meeting is of utmost importance and a full attendance is urged.

A suit has been docketed against the Chestertown Fire Co. by Mr. Story, of Queen Anne's county as a result of an accident at Bordley's corner last year when the fire truck and Mr. Story's car collided.

THIEVES ENTER 5 OFFICES

FAIL TO GET MONEY—FINGER PRINTS FOUND

Lieutenant Charles Burns, of the Baltimore Police Department, was called to Chestertown by local authorities on Wednesday of this week to investigate fingerprint marks left by a thief or thieves who entered five offices in Chestertown Monday night in an apparent search for money.

The thieves entered the Transcript office through a rear door and made an unsuccessful effort to pry open the office safe. A screw driver was broken off in the attempt. An effort to pry open a desk also proved unsuccessful. The intruder then climbed up to a small window which is near the ceiling of the composing room and pried open the window which led into the office of the Mayor and Town Council. An effort was made to pry open the safe door which failed although the door was badly battered. The safe of Mr. George W. French, which is in the same office, was tampered with and the intruder locked this safe instead of opening it as it was left unlocked by Mr. French.

The same night thieves entered the adjoining offices of the Chestertown Water Board and Mr. William Belt Townshend and went through both safes which were not locked. They then went into the office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company by forcing a front window and broke open a desk scattering papers on the floor.

The thieves were apparently looking for money as nothing has been missed. The safes that were opened did not contain any money and the attempted robbery netted nothing.

Lieutenant Charles Burns took photographs of a number of finger prints in the office of the Mayor and Town Council and the Metropolitan Life Insurance office. These prints will aid materially in running down certain clues that local authorities are working on.

The system of taking finger prints includes a dusting process which brings out the design of the finger impression and a photograph is made of the result.

KENT ROAD WORK

6,414 TONS OF SLAG USED DURING YEAR

At the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners on Tuesday the County Roads Engineer reported having used on the roads during the calendar year 1931 something more than 1,000 tons of gravel and 6,414 tons of slag, and of having furnished private interests with 1,170 tons of slag.

The Board is fully alive to the fact that there is still a considerable mileage of unimproved dirt roads and they are making every effort to extend improved surfaces as far and as fast as possible. For this purposce they are using a minium quantity of 200 tons per mile and while such a light appucation cannot properly be called a slag road it is astonishing what an improvement it makes in a prepared surface.

Some of the extensions during the year have been on the Airport road, Fish Hatchery, Usilton's corner across to the slag road, Still Pond to Rosedale cannery, Turner's Creek road to Still Pond, St. James to Hickory Tree corner, river road Millington to Morgnec, Millington to Chesterville, Chesterville to Blacks, in Broad Neck and to Cahn's gate in Quaker Neck, in whole or in part.

It is the intention of the Board after considering the probable upkeep requirements of the 70 or 8. miles of existing slag roads, to select for improvement in 1932 such definite mileage and location as funds will permit, and undertake no other new job until the work planned is completed.

GAS TAX RECEIPTS INCREASE

There was no depression in 1931, the tax returns from gasoline sales as taken as a standard. Last year Maryland motorists paid into the State Treasury $7,796,063.35, which broke all existing records.

The mark set for 1931 surpassed that of 1930 by $534,292.36, and was an increase of $1,322,527.00 over 1929. During the month of December, the returns amount to $682,756.32, an increase of more than $34,000 over same month of 1930.

From the gross levy, refunds expenses must be extracted before money is allotted to the counties Baltimore city for use on roads.
