JANET McINTYRE

Yes, she has at last entered college, this brave lady of 58 though her hair is gray and she stands alone in point of age and experience. She was born in the little village of Hall in Monroe County, New York, 58 years ago, and it was always her pet ambition to go to college. But after being in High School three years, she was forced by lack of funds to leave and take a school near her home, where she taught for eight years. Then her fathers health failed and she was compelled to give up teaching and go home where her whole time was spent in keeping the home and running the farm. "For fifteen years, she says of herself, I ran that farm. There was not a piece of farm labor that I did not do myself at one time or other from pitching hay to harnessing horses."

But she loved the work very much. The farm was in a rich section where hard work was rewarded by an abundant harvest and she made a financial success of it, raising cabbages as a side issue which were especially profitable.

In the meantime, her sister had married and had three sons, so Janet instead of saving money for her college education she sent the boys to school and helped her sister in every way.

When her father died they thought it best to sell the farm so she again took up teaching until the boys had finished their education and had well established positions.

Then the family began to urge her to go to college and get her degree. She hesitated for some time, but at last she was persuaded to do so.

The matter of meeting entrance requirements after only a brief period of preparatory work was one of the difficulties Miss McIntyre hurdled in becoming a candidate for a college degree. She tutored for a year [illegible] from practice teaching [illegible] because of her experience.

She enjoys studying, but admits that possibly she takes the work too seriously.

"After all," she says, "it is difficult for a mature person to approach a college career with the same attitude as a young one. My classmates have been very pleasant and considerate but of course I cannot chum with them as though I were young." So she goes on her way working hard for she is taking the course in two years. She will receive her diploma in June 1933, if all goes well when she is sixty years old. This is the age when many teachers retire, but she expects to resume her teaching as soon as gets her degree. I am sure that you will think with me, that she is a very plucky woman.

Passion Play Madonna Works As Servant Girl

Slinford, England, (A.P.)— Anna Rutz, the beautiful German girl who played the part of the Madonna in the Oberammergau Passion Play last year, is working as a servant for an English family here, supporting her widowed mother and two younger sisters.

English Girls' Hands Larger Due To Sport

London. (A.P.)—English girls hands are growing or gloves are shrinking. At any rate, the delicate digits that took a six and a quarter 40 years ago, on the average, require a seven today. The glove men think sport is the cause.

LA MODE

Lean purses are keeping wardrobe down this spring but there are many new attractive styles.

Many Devices Used To Replace Buttons

New York, Jan 23 (A.P.).—Buckles, which tie in place rather than pin, are new features on models for spring wear. Many of the collections feature gowns with jewels not fastened in place by means of any mechanical device, but are merely rings and loops or squares, arranged in place with bows and scarfs.

Other devices used to replace buttons are large discs of metal or wood. A double breasted suit in blue wool is fastened with four chromium plated slirs.

Necklaces and Bracelets Strung With Sea Shells

New York, Jan. 23 (A.P.).—Tiny sea shells strung closely together are extremely smart for necklaces and bracelets with the new silk crepe, or simple cotton ensembles for resort wear.

[illegible] six strands clasp[illegible] with cork balls. Another consists of red, white and blue strands.

Silk Fringe Adorns Black Crepe Dress

New York, Jan. 23 (A.P.)—Rows of long black silk fringe are used to make a "vampy" black crepe evening dress even more alluring. A skirt-length tassel of orange silk is attached to the high waist in front, and this color note is carried out in a collar which drops from the high neckline in front to a deep cowl in the back.

FASHIONABLE NOW USE WALKING STICKS

Canes Are Slender and More Decorative Than Those Men Favor.

New York, Jan. 23 (A.P.—Walking sticks are in vogue again. Not only men, but women are carrying them.

The walking stick which used to be as much a part of a gentleman's "get up" as his hat or gloves, went out of favor because too many people rode about in motor cars and didn't know what to do with one, according to an English stylist.

The canes we shall see women carrying are much more slender and more decorative than the sturdier ones men favor. Some of these canes are in reality just good looking cases for umbrellas.

RECIPES

Boiled Rice

For each cup of rice allow 3 quarts of boiling water and 2 teaspoons salt. Wash the rice until the water is clear, drop it solwly into boiling salted water and boil gently for 20 minutes, or until tender when pressed with thumb and forefinger. If the rice tends to stick to the kettle, lift the grains with a fork from time to time, but do not stir. As soon as the grains are tender remove from the fire, add cold water, pour of at once, add more cold water and pour off until all of the starchy liquid has been washed out of the rice. Then drain the rice in a colander, cover and place over steam until the grains heat through, turn into a hot serving dish and add melted butter and a few dashes of paprika.

Spanish Rice

1-2 pound bacon.
3 onons, sliced
2 green peppers, sliced
3 cups fresh or canned tomatoes
2 cups cooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Fry the bacon in a skillet until crisp, remove it from the fat and break it into small pieces. Cook the onions and green pepper in the fat for 5 minutes, add the tomatoes and simmer for 10 minutes, stir in the cooked rice carefully so as not to break the grains, add the bits of bacon, and when heated through, serve at once.

Raisin Bread

2 1-2 cups sifted flour.
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs
1 cup milk .....
1 1-2 cups chopped raisins
4 tablespoons melted fat.

Sift toether the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs, add the milk, and add to the frst mxture. Stir in the raisins and fat. Let the daugh stand for 20 minutes in a well-greased bread pan. Bake in a moderate over (v50 degrees F.) for about 1 hour.

Banana Ice Cream

3 ripe bananas, or 1 cup banana pulp
1 quart single cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-2 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt

Skin and scrape the bananas and press them through a fine sieve to form pulp, add the lemon juice, the sugar and salt and mix well. Stir in the cream. Use a freezing mixture of 1 part salt to 4 to 6 parts ice. Turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt, and let the cream stand for an hour or more to ripen.

"Movie of a Movie"

It is not possible, so far as we can find out, actually to make a real movie of another movie. Light would be necessary and consequently the movie being photographed would not be visible and could not register on the film. The experts say that, of course, through double exposure the effect of a movie of a movie could and has been given or that the same thing might be done through pen or wash drawings. In other words, an advanced form of animated cartoons.—Washington Star.

Girls and Their Jobs

One of the major difficulties of the adolescent girl is "adjustment to her work life"—or, more plainly, getting along with the boss.—Woman's Home Companion.

Fixing His Size

Tommy, who will soon be three years old, is proud of how much he has grown since he's finished all his spinach every evening. For weeks now his song has been, "I'm a big boy now; I'm not a yiddle boy any more, I'm not."

Attempting to take advantage of his special weakness one day last week, his mother said: "Now you're a big boy, Tommy, and you're not going to cry when mamma washes your head this afternoon, are you?"

Tommy considered the proposal for a moment and then, placing the palm of his hand on the top of his head as if to press himself down, he retorted: "No, I'm not really a big boy, because I'm away down to here."—New York Sun.

Colonial Mail

Massachusetts was first of the Colonies to establish a post office. In 1639 the General court issued the following statement: "It is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks, his house in Boston, is the place appointed for all letters, which are brought from beyond the sea, or are sent thither, to be left with him, and he is to take care that they are to be delivered or sent according to direction; and he is allowed for every letter a penny, and he must answer all messages through his neglect of this kind." Other colonies sent mail by messengers with some regularity. In Virginia every planter forwarded mail from his plantation to the next one.

Hardy Sons of the Sea

Nature took Norway and laid it down in the lap of innumerable fjords, lakes and rivulets by the sea, unmindful of the hardships her sons and daughters would have to encounter to conquer these waterways which for centuries have been the sole means of transportation from one district to another. Yet perhaps she had a method in her madness, for the Norseman has inherited an adventurous spirit that he owes to the sea and this mood of nature. The longest of these fjords is the Songefjord, which is nearly 4,000 feet deep at places. At the north of the fjord is the largest glacier in Europe, measuring 350 square miles.

Sundials Long in Use as Recorders of Time

The sundial of the Chaldean astronomer Berosus, who lived about 340 B. C., remained in use for centuries, and four specimens have been found in Italy, one of which was unearthed at Pompeii in 1762.

The Romans obtained dials from the Greeks, which divided the day into equal portions. Papirius Caesar placed a sundial in the court of the temple of Quirinus, in 293 B. C., and during the first Punic war a sundial was captured by Valerius at Catania, in Sicily, and set up in the forum in 263 B. C.

By the time of the Roman occupation of Britain, the knowledge of dial construction had advanced greatly. A most interesting example, dividing the day into twelve parts, was found, done in mosaic, on a tesselated pavement in a Roman villa in the Isle of Wight, in occupation about the Third or Fourth century. Hundreds of tourists go to Brading to see it. There is also a piece of a broken Roman sundial in the museum of Chester, which divided the day and night into 24 hours.

Ireland possessed dials in the Seventh or Eighth century, some of which can still be seen. They are on upright stone pillars, with lines on them to divide the day into four parts.

Family Bible Evidence Held Good by Courts

The taking of the census brings to mind a purely secular use which the Bible once enjoyed, and still does, no doubt to some extent, says a writer in Horse and Hounds, London. Entries made in the Bible by the head of the family of births, marriages, and deaths were accepted as good evidence. Hence, we have the curious fact of the sacredness of a book conferring value on secular things. An instance of this was provided in the case of Hans von Huntingdon, when the right to the earldom of Huntingdon was contested. A Bible from the deceased countess of Moira contained a statement to the effect that the petitioner's uncle, or, on failure of his issue male, the petitioner's father, was the next heir to the earldom, and this was accepted as sufficient proof of various statements. Family Bibles were often, and may still be, published including spaces for family portraits and details of births, deaths, marriages, etc., and it may be that from this custom the name "family Bible" is derived.

What About 1932?

The indications are that 1932 will be a decidedly better year than 1931

but the farmer that makes the best showing will be the one that cuts his operating costs wherever possible. We can cite you more than one instance of farmers in Kent county who have operated their farms in 1931 more economilly than ever before by using a McCormick-Deering of Farmall Tractor. Their names will be given you if you wish. You can do the same in 1932. Makeus prove this statement. Fencing, Seeds and most other items that you will have to buy this season are cheaper, too.

Let's work together to make this a more successful year. We are ready to do our part.

"What's Jones So Puffed Up About?"

IT'S an old, old, story . . mates. A few months ago, Jones was one of that short-sighted group that figured "Advertising just a waste of money." His business went from bad to worse until, in desperation, he decided to "try it just once."

The results wer so gratifying, that he's been ADVERTISING CONSTANTLY ever since. No wonder he's smiling and content now.
