MUSKRAT PRICES GOOD

LOCAL BUYER HANDLES 5000 HIDES THIS WEEK

The prices paid for muskrat hides this week were approximately 45 cents for brown hides and 90 cents for black hides.

Mr. Morgan Bennett, local buyer, purchased over 5000 hides this week, the majority of which were caught in Kent and Queen Anne's counties. The season has been good and the price has held up far above the price of other commodities.

The hides caught in Cecil, Kent and Queen Anne's counties are far superior to those caught in the southern part of the peninsula, although the percentage of black hides caught in Dorchester county will run as high as 20 to 25 per cent. while in this section the blacks will average only about 10 to 12 per cent. of the rats caught.

The marshes this year, in many instances, have been the most profitable part of the farm.

MAY PUBLISH LITERARY MAGAZINE

JAMES ANTHONY OF CHESTERTOWN ELECTED EDITOR

Students of Washington College may edit a literary magazine in the near future. Plans are to publish it five or six times a year. The proposed name is the Golden Guinea.

The college students now publish a bimonthly newspaper and a year book, but neither of these can take care of literary expression. The new magazine would encourage essay and story writing. A Writers Club has recently been organized and this club plans to publish the book .

The newly organized club however lacks funds just now and at first the magazine might appear in mimeograph form. Later however when funds are available they hope to have a printed magazine.

James T. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rumsey Anthony, of near Chestertown, has been elected editor. Miss Margaret Brewer of the faculty is one of the prim-movers of the proposed publication.

NOW AND THEN

AIR CASTLES

"I would rather be a builder
Of castles made of air,
To be rebuilded every day,
And dwell in fancy there
With ev'rything to make me glad,
The doors all closed to gloom,
And sunlight of tomorrow
Shining into ev'ry room,
Than ever keep within the walls
Of sad things, past or now,
For though my castles do not last,
They're cheering anyhow,
And so I build and build again,
Re build from day to day,
And some time the Master Builder
May let my castles stay."

—Anon.

Air Castles are fine things to build sometimes. "Prue and I," written by G. N. Curtis tells of the wonderful journeys that he and his wife used to take, sitting in the park, or near a pier watching the vessels go out on their way to foreign lands. In fancy they were passengers, though in reality they were sitting at home.

"Castles in Spain" lift us from the stern things of reality to enjoyments which make life much happier. "Reality never brings quite as much pleasure as these same castles of Spain.

Washington is making great preparations for Washington's Centennial. Everywhere one goes tthe Washington's pictures by Gilbert Stuart are seen. And yet, we hear that the reason that his picture and Martha's weer not finished that they did not please them. That Peale's suited them better. Surely they both must rejoice at the wonderful enthusiasm which is shown by all the citizens of the country which Washington did so much to establish.

The Folger Museum of Shakespeare is nearing completion. It will be opened in the early Spring. What a wonderful collection there will be. Everything which pertains to the great poet, that can be bought, is there. It will be a fine palce for the lover of Shakespeares works.

It would be a good thing if Prohibition could keep money from getting tight.

Authority Recognized

I fear no king's disdainful look,
I fear no haughty queen,
But I do humbly fear the cook,
That autocrat serene.

Some one has said that those who wish to travel have begun too late, for now there is nothing new under the sun. Even in Mecca Arabia the modernist have invaded. Old things have passed away, old customs and habits and an air of sameness is over all.

Simile

Oh, life doth like a book appear.
With idle themes as well as tracts;
We try to solve the puzzles queer
Instead of studying the facts.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN TEACHERS

PRINCIPAL O. C. BLADES SPEAKER

The Chestertown Rotary Club entertained the faculty of the Chestertown High School on Monday evening of last week at the Maryland Tea Room. Professor Louis C. Robinson, Superintendant of Schools for Kent County was also present.

The Community service committee was in charge of the program, and the chairman, Mr. E. Clarke Fontaine, Superintendant of High Schools on the Eastern Shore, introduced Mr. Owen C. Blades, principal of the Chestertown High School, as the principal speaker.

Mr. Blades described a modern high school in which the course of study is selective or assigned, thereby educating the student along the line for which he is best suited and that which will best fit him for the particular career which he intends to follow.

He stated that the Chestertown High School had advanced along this line as far as the crowded condition would permit, and that although a number of different courses of study were offered, other courses such as agriculture, etc., are crowded out.

He stated that the Chestertown High School had been particulraly fortunate in the stability of the teaching staff as there has been no replacements for the past two years, as compared with a 20 per cent. average turnover on the shore. The crowded condition of the local high school handicaps th students and teachers in studies, and health and Mr. Blades advocated more room.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

BY ALICE MATHEWS

Hail day of days, bright link to stay
Forged firmly in life's chain alway.
As a bright jewel that e'en sages
Will glorify down through the ages.
Your birthday, Washington, doth seem
A mirrored grand Immotral gleam:
And nations truly yet to come
Will honor you with sounding drum.
We, as a people, tribute bring
And crown you patriot and king
Though you refused a triumph Throne
Preferring only to be known
As Father of our growing land,
Our love for ever to command;
And dearer, as the years swift flow
Your name, undimmed, shall ever glow:
May we be worthy to inherit
Your honorable and cherished Spirit
And every birthday add to fame
That now embellishes your name.

TO BUILD HOSPITAL

REDUCED COSTS MAKE CONSTRUCTION POSSIBLE

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Kent and Upper Queen Annes' General Hospital, which was held Monday afternoon at the Health Center, it was definitely decided to proceed with the building just as soon as possible. According to a statement made on Tuesday of this week, another meeting will be held within a very few days when the architect, Mr. Henry P. Hopkins, of Baltimore, will be present to go over the whole matter with the board. It will then be decided just what changes or modifications of the original plans may be necessary in order to bring the cost of the building within range of the funds on hand.

A letter from Mr. Hopkins was read in which he assured the board that the present reduced cost of building would mean a net saving of at least twenty-five percent. In other words, the building that would have cost approximately $65,000 according to bids first received can now be erected at a cost of between $45,000 and $50,000. So while the delay in building has been a disappointment to may, after all it has had its very decided advantages.

There is cash in hand at present of $23,000 and pledges which will swell the available amount to nearly $30,000 towards the building. The site for the new hospital consisting of some seven acres has been purchased and is entirely paid for.

It is hoped that the hospital building as already planned can be built as it would be adequate, architecturally beautiful, and a credit to the local community and the entire Eastern Shore, however, the board will have to be guided entirely by the size of the fund available.

"MATA HARI" HERE FEBRUARY 24-25

What is conceded to be the most brilliant picture to come from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in years will be shown at the New Lyceum Theatre when "Mata Hari" shows there on Wednesday and Thursday, February 24 and 25. This is the picture which co-stars Greta Garbo and Ramon Novarro, a cinema event which aroused the keenest anticipation during the entire time in which the work was in production.

"Mata Hari," which from the viewpoint of story, direction, settings and photography is said to establish a new standard for photoplay achievements, is made further distinctive by a supporting cast which includes such important film names as Lionel Barrymore, who recently was awarded the Academy trophy for the finest masculine performance of 1931; Lewis Stone, C. Henry Gordon, Karen Morley and Alec B. Francis. Minor roles are filled by Blanche Frederici, Edmund Breese, Helen Jerome, Eddy and Frank Reicher. It was directed by George Fitzmaurice, who scored with the Norma Shearer production, "Strangers May Kiss."

The new Armory will make a fine place for the Banquet and we look for a good representation of those interested in the 4-H movement.

A cut of 30 cents per 100 pounds on basic milk at local milk stations effective February 16th, has been announced. This cut will reduce the local price to $1.98 per hundred pounds on basic. The Washington Post says that Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, one of the members of the Board of Governors of the Woman's National Democratic Club, introducing George White as a possible presidential candidate, stated that Mr. White had not only served the Democratic Party with distinction for a number of terms while in Congress years ago but that he had been recently elected Governor of Ohio, a pivotal state, by an overwhelming majority.

MOVE IN NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Strong moved into their new home on East Queen street this week. They made a great improvement in that section by building this modern home as the sight on which it stands removed an old house that was an eye-sore to that section of Chestertown. The residents in that neighborhood owe a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Strong for the improvement they have made and ewlcome them as neighbors.

NAPPS NARROWS HEARING

Mr. W. D. Gould, III, representing the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce, and Captain Allen Adams, representing the boating industry, and delegates from Talbot county, attended the meeting of the United States Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, on Monday in Washington. The meeting was called at two-thirty o'clock. The delegation has asked the Board to act upon a petition requesting the dredging of Napps Narrows.

Napps Narrows is a small stream which makes in from the Chesapeake Bay cutting through Tilghman's Island to the Croptank River. The petition asks that it be made eight feet deep and sixty feet wide. The dredging of this stream would make it possible for boats going out of the Choptank to Baltimore to cut off about six miles in that they would be able to make a direct course without having to go around the Island. The course would be used by power boats, which in case they were in the Bay during a storm, could cut thru the Narrows to harbor. Its greatest advantage would be the shortening of the distance from the Choptank River to Baltimore, for produce and sea-food boats.

IN MEMORIUM

LeCompte—In sad remembrance of my wife and our dear mother, Adeline R. LeCompte, who departed this life one year ago, February 23rd, 1931.

Dear mother only to see her dear face again.
Only to hear her sweet voice;
Even the faintest whisper
Would make our hearts rejoice.

Thoughts of your loving kindness,
Your self-sacrifice and devotion,
Thoughts of those dear hands,
That did so much for us.

You don't know the sorrow to be left alone
Until God sends a message to your home.
It is hard when he calls for one or the other,
But it's hardest of all when He calls for your Mother.

The hands that did so much for us,
How helplessly they lay.
God knew they worked continuously,
But they are gone today.

A mother good, a mother kind,
Has gone and left us all behind.
For all of us she did her best,
So God grant her eternal rest.

By her husband and children.

C. H. S. DEFEATS EASTON

By stopping a late rally by the Easton basketball team, the Chestertown High School tossers outscored Easton 20-17. The Chestertown boys had previously downed Easton 30-9 on the Washington College floor.

Fine guarding and good shooting put Chestertown in the lead at half time 13-6. In the third quarter the local boys gave a good demonstration of the saying "You can't score unless you have the ball." Easton did not tally a point due to the good guarding and the fact that they never got hold of the ball.

At the first of the fourth quarter an entirely new team came on the floor for Chestertown. The Easton boys profited by this and started to close the gap, but Coach Johnson ran his first string back into the fray. They stemmed the tide, although just before the final whistle, Bill, Easton center, dropped in two long shots in an effort to tie the score.

W. North, Easton guard, was high scorer in the contest having made eight points. Billy Reinhart lead the Chestertown boys with seven points.

Coach Johnson's lads have a hard schedule next week when they meet New Castle, Tuesday night at the college an dwill engage Symrna here Thursday night. In an earlier game New Castle downed Chestrtown 39-9 but a much closer contest is anticipated.
