FORM MARKETING ORGANIZATION

FARM BUREAU HOLDING MEETINGS

Producers of livestock and dairymen of Maryland are being given an opportunity to consider a proposed livestock marketing organization which is being sponsored by the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation and which is regarded as being one of the most important projects launched in the agricultural sections of the State in recent years.

For a long time, according to Secretary Frank M. Payne of the State body, it has been the ambition of organized agriculture to set up a cooperative marketing agency in the Baltimore market and within the last several months the possibility of a successful agency has been shown by similar interest on the part of producers in New York, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The Eastern Livestock Cooperative Marketing Association was thus incorporated and has entered into an agreement with the Maryland Farm Bureau Livestock Cooperative Marketing Association, recently created, to serve livestock producers and dairymen of this State. It producers subscribe to the movement active operation will be started in the immediate future, Secretary Payne said.

Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland already ship through the Baltimore market and thus the volume of business sent to Baltimore would suffer no increase or congestion. In livestock, as in no other commodity, do leaders feel that so marked a degree of success can be accomplished in saving producers thousands of dollars not only in the elimination of commissions but in the actual increase in prices received for the product.

It is said that a producer buying one share of common stock at one dollar becomes not only a member of the Eastern association but automatically becomes a member of the Maryland group. Following meetings of Western Maryland producers and dairymen parleys on the Eastern Shore will be scheduled and announced. Among prominent speakers at the various meetings are L. B. Mann, representing the Federal Farm Board; Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension of the University of Maryland; J. W. Jones, chairman of the Maryland Farm Bureau Livestock Committee and secreary-treasurer of the Eastern Livestock Cooperative Marketing Association, and Frank M. Payne, secertary-treasurer of the Maryalnd Farm Bureau Federation and of the Maryland Farm Bureau Livestock Cooperative Marketing Association, Inc.

Successful meetings have already been held in Montgomery, Baltimore, Washington, Frederick, Howard and Carroll counties and the following Western Shore parleys are yet to be staged: Anne Arundel county, at Annapolis, March 8, 1.30 p. m. More than 80 per cent. of those present at meetings this far held have subscribed to stock.

Citizens of Maryland are urged to listen in on several important series of agricultural radio broadcasting programs. The American Farm Bureau Federation program is being sent over the air the second Saturday of each month, the next broadcast to be March 12, and everyone interested in agriculture is urged to take advantage of this unusual oportunity from 12.30 to 1.30 P. M. Nearby stations carrying the program will be WBAL, Baltimore; WRC, Washington; WJZ, New York, and KDKA, Pittsburgh. Live Maryland farm news will be broadcast each month under auspices of the Department of Information of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation. Achievements of the State organization as well as of various county bureas and individuals will be heard, together with detailed accounts of the aims and ambitions of Maryland agriculturalists and farm bureaus. Farm Bureau Day is the day to tune in.

Every day the National Farm and Home Hour program is broadcast from 12.30 to 1.30 p. m. and every Friday, from 12 to 12.15 p. m., the Farm Hints program is sent out. Both series may be heard from WBAL, Baltimore.

ZIEGFELD FOLLIES IN BALTIMORE

TO BE AT FORDS THEATRE NEXT WEEK

The original Giegfeld Follies, the twenty-third in the series, will open at Ford's Theatre, Baltimore, on Monday evening, March 7th, for an engagement of one week, with matinees Wednsday and Saturday, marking the most entertaining event of the current season. With scores of glorified girls, all representative Giegfeld beauties, the stage will glow with radiance, charm and loveliness. The whole production is noteworthy for its costliness and unusual scenic and costume effects.

The list of stars is headed by Harry Richman, modern troubadour and engaging master of ceremonies who has delighted New York with his gay repartee and singing of popular tunes. Recently star of "Sons of Guns," Mr. Richman has again demonstrated his ability to amuse in a sophisticated and bright manner. As an international star of the stage and screen, he has in the "Follies' the best opportunities in his entire career for evidencing his great versatility. Jack Pearl, one of the finest dialect comedians of the American stage is another distinguished member of the cast.

Two youngsters, marvels of dancing dexterity are outstanding. One of these, Hal LeRoy, discovery of Mr. Ziegfeld, a young blond boy who already has rivaled the historic record of Jack Donahue, lithesome, of grace and unparalleled celerity, and Mitzi Mayfair, capable of the most extraordinary technique and acrobatic dance and yet a veritable queen of grace and daintiness.

Other important stars are Frank and Milt Britton and their Gang, Wini Shaw, Dorothy Dell, Faith Bacon, Gladys Glad, the world's most beautiful girl, and the Albertina Rasch Ballet.

The orchestra seats are priced at $3.85 (tax included) for all night performances, with the balcony ranging $3.00, $2.50 and $2.00. The Wednesday matinee is popularly priced at $2.50 for the lower floor, and $2.00 and $1.50 in the balcony; while for the Saturday matinee the orchestra seats are priced at $3.00, with the balcony seats $2.50 and $2.00. The second balcony is uniformly scaled at $1.00 for all performances.

The Curbstone Diplomat

By WILLIAM S. COLLINS

Doggies continue to die from poison. Several more have been added to last weeks list. According to the Batlimore Sun, Chestertown's detective force is on the job, trying to find out who is doing the poisoning.

One of Chestertown's Budding business men, who has been Budding for some years and probally will keep on Budding, thought he had joined the mourners this week.

Riding down North Queen Street, he saw what he thought was his dog, Bow Wow, asleep in the gutter. Then it occured to him, that his old friend might be poisoned. So he stopped his car and called to Bow Wow. The dog did not move. My gracious, Bow Wow was dead. Out of the car he jumped, up went the back of the coupe and in went Bow Wow. It was terrible that anyone would poison his dog that way. He had raised Bow Wow from a pup and what a faithful pal he had been to his son and later to his little daughter.

Well anyhow it was time to go to bank directors meeting, so he would just leave the dog in the car, until after the meeting. As to how much thought Bow Wow's master gave him during the meeting we do not know, but anyhow he decided he would not say anything to his wife and little daughter about it. He would suffer alone for awhile. The bank session over it was time for dinner. So home he came and while grabbing his lunch, he heard Bow Wow's familiar bark. "Where did that come from" he asked? "It's Bow Wow down in the cellar," replied the wife.

Now as to what the man's feelings were about this time, we do not know. However, after lunch he made a trip to the country and when he returned he had no dead dog in his car. No one knows yet to whom the dead dog belonged.

A prominent citizen of Queen Annes county, made the statement this week, that assessments in Queen Annes were much higher than they were in Kent. I know he said it because I heard him and asked him to repeat it. He made no complaint about it either and bragged about how well the county was getting along. How different some people are.

While speaking of assessments etc., I had it figured out for me, by a man considered very capable on the subject of taxes, as to how much a $100,000.00 bond issue would cost Kent County. Here is the dope he handed ment.

One the present basis of taxation and assessment the interest on $100,000.00 at 5 per cent. would cost just a little over three cents on the hundred of assessment. To pay off $5,000.00 the first year would cost just a fraction over three cents more. This would of course decrease each year as the principal was paid off. Kent County on its present basis could float a $100,000.00 bond issue, paying interest at 5 per cent. and paying off $5,000 a year for just a little over six cents on the hundred of the present assessmnt.

Federal prisoners at the jail have started spring baseball practice.

The material this year does not look as good as it did last season. Most of it is young and looks inexperienced.

Last year I made the recommendation that a league be organized of the diferent jails on the Peninsual that have the Federal prisoners.

Earlier this year it looked like they were going in for field sports as they spent an afternoon in high-jumping.

A howl is expected to come soon from residents in the vicinity of the Milk Station and it will be justified.

The dogs which are being bumped off so fast are taken and thrown over the bank into Radcliffe Creek. Twenty-three dogs were killed last week and more have been addd to this string this week.

These will make a very disagreeable situation, as none of them were embalmed. No one can hardly expect the town to furnish a cemetery for the dogs, but one councilman suggests that a well be dug and bury them in it, or else use some other means to dispose of the bodies, so they will not offend the neighborhood.

Another little story this week is about a hard working store-keeper in town. The telephone rang and the store-keeper was asked if he had kept Prince Albert in a can. "Yes" the merchant replied "We have."

"Well then" said the voice "Let him Out."

Thy tell me this is an old one but what is the use of getting a new one, when the old one does the trick.

THE TOWN DOG NUISANCE

The killing of 23 dogs in Chestertown last week has to some extent relieved a nuuisonc to the citizens, but there still remains a number of stray and worthless dogs within the corporate limits of the town that could well be disposed of without regrets to our inhabitants. Some of the 23 dogs that were killed are said to have been poisoned; that method should not have been used as there is great danger of valuable and harmless dogs getting the poison that was intended for others.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whaley will move shortly from their home on Maple Avenue, to their home on West Main St.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE ORCHESTRA TO BROADCAST

The Washington College orchestra will broadcast from station W-F-B-R, Baltimore, a half hour program from 4.45 to 5-15 p. m., Saturday afternoon, March 5th. The program to be broadcast will include selections by the orchestra, a brass quartettte, and a vocal solo by Mr. Charles Harris, Eastern Shore winner of the Atwater-Kent audition contest. Arrangements to broadcast were made by Mrs. Donald Hooker, of Baltimore, Editor of "Equal Rights," the organ of the Woman's Party. Mrs. Hooker spoke at Washington College during the fall and had the opportunity of hearing the orchestra personally.

The orchestra is under the direction of Dr. Frederick G. Livingood, faculty director, who is Head of the Department of Education at Washington College. The student director is Mr. Lindley E. Cook, of the class of 1932.

On March 13th the Washington College orchestra will present a program at the U. S. Veterans' Hospital at Perry Point, Md., under the auspices of the Jarman Post of the American Legion of Chestertown, Md. The college assembly program of March 10th will be presented by the orchestra.

The program for Saturday's broadcast follows:

1. "War March of the Priests" (from Athalia), F. Mendelssohn orchestra.
2. Vocal Solo, "On the Road to Mandalay," Oley Speaks, Mr. Charles Harris.
3. Overture, "The Scarlet Mask", J. S. Zamecnik, orchestra.
4. Brass Quartette, "One Fleeting Hour," D. Lee. Messrs. Fleetwood, Cook, Usilton, and Capel.
5. (a) "Liebestraum," F. Lisxt. (b) "Menuet" (in G), L. von Beethoyen, orchestra.

—Mrs. Fred Reels, of Skinners Neck, was taken to Easton hospital for treatment on Tuesday evening of this week. The trip was made in the local ambulance.
