COMMENCEMENT TIME for Universities, Colleges and Public Schools is near at hand after which thousands of graduates will be looking for positions in the professional, commercial and trades activities, while thousands of former employees in these fields have been thrown out of employment by the depression that extends throughthe entire world. While the outlook is not very bright for these graduates and seekers of position, they must face the situation with courage and a determination to do their part in helping to restore business to its pre-war place, though just how this is to be done it seems no one has been able to solve.We must make up our minds to the fact that business will most probably never return to the standard of the past number of years, so we must adjust ourselves to a compromise between the former extravagant period and the present depressed conditions. During past years fortunes were made, as it were, over night and now fortunes are lost in a day. People who possessed large means but a few months ago are now in the bread line seeking necessary food to sustain life. With conditions as they now exist it is to be hoped the coming generation will be broad enough to lay political selfishness aside and work out a system that will restore confidence and sound business prosperity.

The Curbstone Diplomat

By WILLIAM S. COLLINS

The free street dance and ice-cream furnished by Gill Bros., as an advertising stunt on Monday night attracted an estimated crowd of three thousand pleasure seekers from five counties, to Chestertown. Some were here to dance, some to look on, but all out for a good time.

Cross street was roped off from Cannon street to High street, the road thoroughly cleaned, was sprinqled with meal. Chestertown's excuse for street lights of course were not sufficient; so special lights were provided.

Long before the orchestra arrived the street was crowded. A specially constructed stand for the orchestra stood in the center of the road. When the orchestra showed up the stand had to be cleared of children, so as to give to musicians enough elbow room.

At last the music started and everything was ready for action, but who was going to start the dancing, no one seemed to be willing to start the ball rolling. Now all this got on the nerves of one of our main street business men; so grabbing his spouse from the curb he dragged or rather pulled her to the road and they started the dance. This broke the ice and soon the road on the High St. side of the band stand had several couples dancing to the jazzy music.

The Cannon street side of the street seemed to be neglected but not for long Two lassies dressed in the latest in beach pajamas blew in from Rock Hall. Needing plenty of room for their snaky twists they chose the Cannon street side of the stand. This side immediately gained in popularity as far as spectators were concerned and also drew several more couples that wished to pep the dance up.

The master of ceremonies had to spend mos of his time keeping the spectators on the sidewalk so the street could be used for dancing. The C. & P. Telephone Co. came to the rescue by stretching a wire along the curb and this did the trick.

A Mr. and Mrs. came up from Denton and won the waltzing contest. Sure they were here from Denton, Kent Island, Chesapeake City and all around.

When free ice cream time came, three thousand and five hundred people were served. Of course some were served twice but many, not caring to stand in line were not served at all.

After free ice-cream the orchestra went to the old armory and the dance was continued there. Was it a jam? After getting in you could appreciate how a sardine feels in a can. Remember, it was all free.

Excuse the first person, but from my point of observation I enjoyed looking over the crowd. The dancers were mostly young bloods.. What was the crowd around the walls there for? Some to watch and meet friends and then my eye caught two of our leading gossips; there, I suppose, to get some material for conversation. They must have been out of luck for the whole affair, considering the size, was very orderly. Even the prize W. C. T. U. boy was there. Lets hope he was talking through his hat when he wrote part of his essay, because I would hate to think he was writing from experience.

The Gill boys surprised me with the large crowd they drew and the extent of the territory they covered. They had more people dancing at this street dance than Cambridge had last year at their Armistice Day celebration. The crowd was also handled better.

This might give the merchants an idea to organize and put on something like this every now and then to stimulate trade. It sure brought people to town.

KEEP OUT THE JAPANESE BEETLE

PREVENT QUARANTINE IN KENT COUNTY

All Kent Countians will be interested in preventing an infux of Japanese beetles. A determined effort will delay the day the Japanese Beetle is here in force. Directed thought can aid in lessening the damage done by this beetle in future—through the selection of plants, trees, shrubs, which are least subject to beetle damage.

Kent has been fortunate in escaping quarantine and inconvenience. The beetle traps have thus far shown a very light infestation—in fact, only Chestertown or 4th election district is under any form of Japanese Beetle quarantine. This fact should not lead us to a feeling of security or immunity. The beetle area gets closer and closer each succeeding year and will arrive too soon to please anybody.

Beetle traps will again be placed in Chestertown and scouts will be on the lookout to detect the presence of the beetles elsewhre. Available information indicates that control operations are effective in reducing or holding the beetle population at a standstill. In no case in Maryland has infestation spread rapidly where control operations are practiced. At present about one-fourth of Maryland is under quarantine on account of the Japanese Beetle.

The State Horticultural Department, the Maryland Extension Service, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Plant Quarantine and Control Administration, the various local organizations and individuals will cooperate in undertaking to control and retard the spread of Japanese Beetle in Maryland.

The County Agent has information regarding the damage beetles do cost of control—selection of plants least effected by the beetle. Next week these points will be discussed.

WANTED: Men & Women

The opportunity of a lifetime

Do you know that a million and a half rabbits are wanted for fur this year? You can raise some of these. You can make big money doing it. The chance of a lifetime for every farmer, poultryman or citizen of the county. Investigate as I did. It will cost you nothing.

P. E. Corkran—that's my name. I live at Easton, Md. I want everybody to know that I investigated. I made money raising rabbits. You not merely buy rabbits. This company I'm telling about actually puts you in business and pays you as high as $2.50 a pound for all of the choice breeders you can raise, less of course for runts. But think of that. This price and their fair and square four year contract are the things that interested me. And if you want a few thousand extra dollars too, this year, you'll see. Write or phone me about this big proposition raising Chinchilla and Rex Rabbits.
