AGRICULTURAL NOTES

(BY COUNTY AGENT McVEAN)

RABBIT RAISERS WARNED AGAINST BIG-PROFIT LURES

Easy mony and lots of it from the rabbit business, held out as a sure return by promoters who seek to sell breeding stock, can not be realized in most instances, says the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculure. The bureau advises people intending to start rabbit raising to investigae thoroughly the local possibilities of a market and the risks of the business before going into it.

The unemployment situation has led some unscrupulous promoters to take advantage of conditions and to sell rabbits to people who are entirely unfamiliar with the field. They predict big returns. Many of the concerns that promise to buy back the meat or fur, or both, are interested primarily in selling breeding stock at very high prices.

WHEAT MAY BE CERTIFIED FOR SEED USE

Such Seed Sells at a Premium

Kent farmers who have high quality wheat free of disease, noxious weeds, etc., which they think suitable for seed may have such fields inspected and if it meets the Standards Set, it may be certified. Such high class seed what sells at a premium price. It is an especially good outlet for wheat of sufficiently high quality.

The County Agent has the details, the application blanks and information. He will aid those who desire to qualify for this outlet for their wheat.

FIRE BLIGHT IN FRUIT TREES

Fire Blight is unusually severe in fruit trees this year. Conditions seem to bright for it. Many twigs are dying and give the trees a disreputable appearance. The loss of leaves and twigs will weaken the trees somewhat but it is felt by the Specialists that the effect will not be serious. Close examination of the blighted twigs reveals that much of the blight is superficial, that it is not spreading, that in nearly all cases the blight is dead or dying. Very few trees will die from the present outbreak.

There is nothing to be done at this time to counteract or control the trouble. Blight is an insidious disease. It is most active when effort is made to stimulate growth by tillage, fertilization, etc. It is more severe some years than others. All he orchardiss may do is to wait. Next winter the dead wood may be removed at pruning time. Any present attempt to cut out the blighted twigs is thought to be not only too expensive, ineffectual and unnecessary.

POTATO TOUR TO BE HELD JUNE 17

Kent Farmers May Go

The ninth annual Worcester County Potato Tour will be held this year on June 17, according to R. T. Grant, county agent. The tour will get under way at 9.00 a. m.

This year the tour will be more in the nature of a field day, as practically all of the potato work has been grouped at the new experimental farm, operated by W .T. Pilchard, one mile south of Pocomoke on the Virginia road. It is planned to inspect the plots at the experimental farm during the morning. Following this, there will be a luncheon.

In the afternoon the entire group will tour the potato growing sections in the vicinity, inspecting spray demonstrations, cobbler seed source plots and new varieties. An opportunity will be had to see the new Katahdin potato, seed of which was secured from the Government Experimental farm at Presque Island. This potato has shown up splendidly, it is said and is causing a great deal of interest among growers of the lower Eastern Shore. Of interest also will be the fertilizer experimenal plots.

If Kent farmers are interested in attending this tour, they are requested to notify to agent.

HISTORY OF JAPANESE BEETLE IN MARYLAND

According to a memorandum prepared by Dr. E. N. Cory, State Entomologist, Japanese Beetle has been known to have been in Maryland since 1926. During that time the State Horticultural Department has made every effort to control its advance and to delay the time when it would become abundant and injurious.

Thus far the work has been very successful—beetles are found to a small extent in twenty-one isolated spots in the State. No beetles have been found in eight counties. No serious damage has been done in Maryland, but the time will come when it will be a se rious proposition. Effort should be made to control and retard the advance of this beetle. It will result in great saving to the people. Quarantine regulations are a handicap also the expense of combating a serious infestation is burdensome.

Control measures and inspection of vehicles justify themselves by the results obtained. Better a bit of inconvenience than the burden and expense of a heavy infestation.

The dollars and cents losses due to beetle are hard to measure but it is serious to many crops, fruits, shrubs, grasses vines and ornamentals. Next week the type and extent of damage to various crops will be presented.

HOME DEMONSTRATION NOTES

(BY HELEN SCHELLINGER)

STRAWBERRY TIME

Were you short of fruits or vegetables for your table last winter? Strawberries are here and plentiful.

Your canning budget should include for a family of six—Fruits seven times a week—144 quarts for six (6) months.

Bulletin No. 55 "Home Canning in Maryland" and Jellies, Jams and Preserves may be had from the Home Demonstration Agent's office.

CANNED STRAWBERRIES

There are three good methods of canning berries—Blackberries, Raspberies, Dewberies, Huckleberries, Elderberries, Loganberries and Blueberries.

Method I

1. Wash, stem, drain and pack. Shake jar and fill to heaping.
2. Place in oven to shrink.
3. Press down gently from time to time.
4. When lid can be placed on, fill jar with hot syrup. Adjust lid and process twenty (20 minutes in hot water bath. Berries are apt to float to the top in this method.

Method II

1. For one (1) quart of berries use 1-4 to 1-2 cup sugar.
2. Place in kettle in alternate layers, fruit and sugar, sugar being last.
3. Cover kettle and let stand 10 to 12 hours.
4. Heat slowly to boiling, pack, fill jar and process twenty (20) minutes in hot water bath.

Method III

1. Clean, boil gently in syrup five (5) minutes.
2. Let stand 12 hours.
3. Heat, pack, fill jar with juice.
4. Process five (5) minutes in hot water bath.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVE

1. Select ripe sound berries, wash and hull.
2. Use equal quantities of berries and sugar (lb. for lb.)
3. Add sugar to the strawberries.
4. Heat gently until sugar is dissolved.
5. Cook rapidly for twenty (20) minutes.
6. Pack carefully in clean jar.
7. Seal immediately.

All jams, jellies and preserves give better results if cooked in small quantities—a quart or two at a time.

The Quaker Neck Neighborhood club will hold their meeting June 22nd instead of June 15th. Five of their members will be attending Rural Women's Short Course. Three of the group will receive certificates for attending full time for four years.

SHOPPING

JEFFERSON'S

Well, well,—another week gone! And yes,—it IS hot, isn't it,—or do you start biting the furniture when the three hundred and sixty-fifth person says that to you?

Anyway, take your mind off the weather for a few minutes by feasting your eyes on the array of grand hot weather items I've lined up for you. Too hot to go city shopping, and considering what you can get right here in Jefferson's,—well, just listen.

First, some new dresses,—I liked especially the soft silk ones in heavenly lettuce green, so cool and inviting, and next I liked a white one with a jacket of oral pomegranite color,—half way between a rose color and an apricot—most unusual. Another that looked deliciously cool and crisp was a blue and white triple sheer crepe. By the way there are a few of those stunning imported linen dresses left. They're so grand for summer,—surely at $3.95 you can't bear to be without one!

Now a word about coats. They are something special. Fine light wool crepe in soft summer colors or white with full length silk lining,—and only $10.85. I noticed the nearest to it in price in New York or Baltimore was $16.75.

II MUST mention those yummy crocheted hats again. They call 'em "Nobbies" you know! A new shipment of white ones are on their way in. Only a dollar for all that smart trickiness.

New handbags next. A stunning brown calf with a tulip fastening,—a black and white combination,—a blue patent leather,—and you'll be surprised at the low prices.

Also, Hist! A sale of pajama and hat sets for children,—cute and only 95c.

Oh, dear—no more room!

'Bye!

LYDIA LEE.

A WORKMAN

"I GUESS I've been pretty lucky about getting jobs, but I give lots of the credit to the telephone. Contractors know I have a telephone and when they've got a job for me they call me."

A MOTHER

"MY BABY, four years old, fell from a window and cut her head rather badly. Thanks to the telephone, a doctor was in my home within ten minutes or less. Please accept my appreciation."

A WELL-KNOWN BUSINESS FIRM

"YOU WILL be interested in knowing that within the last two weeks we have sold 3,000 barrels of flour over the telephone at a sales cost of less than five dollars."

AN INVALID

"TWO YEARS ago after a bad accident I was forced to lie on my back for three months. An extension telephone was run to my bedside and I whiled away many a lonesome hour talking to friends. But best of all I learned to shop by telephone and found it so satisfactory that I now seldom if ever go to a store for anything."

A BUSINESS MAN

"THE OTHER evening I had occasion to make about 25 out-of-town calls in rapid succession. I asked the operator for her cooperation. Words cannot express my appreciation of the wonderful service she rendered me and I feel you should know this."

A HIGH-RANKING NAVAL OFFICER

"HAVE HAD many telephones in many different countries throughout the world but have never had such perfect service as has been rendered me here."

Telephone service is within the reach of everyone and serves a universal need. It is our aim to provide a "Telephone service more and more free from imperfections, errors, or delays."
