FATE OF EUEL LEE STILL IS UNDECIDED

The fate of Euel Lee, alias Orphan Jones, convicted of the murder of Green K. Davis, his wife and two daughters at their home, near Berlin, Md., last year, was still undecided Thurs. when the Court of Appeals adjourned without handing down a decision in the Negro's case.

This case is the only one remaining to be decided of the sixty-four heard at the April term of court, the court having filed all of the other opinions this week.

The Negro appealed after he had been found guilty by a jury in the Circuit Court for Baltimore County January 20.

PICTURES TAUGHT 'TALLULAH' RIGHT WAY TO REHEARSE

"Motion pictures have taught me how to rehearse."

In such startling manner Tallulah Bankhead recently described her film career following eight years of stage stardom.

"Talking pictures are all rehearsals to the stage player," she explained while at work in "Thunder Below" at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

"As a stage actress, I was a poor rehearser. I could never get into the spirit of the thing with an empty house before me. But once behind bright footlights and facing an audience, I always found myself. Then I could time action and lines.

"In motion pictures, one arises at 6:30 a. m. and spends the entire day rehearsing. The same scene is played over and over until actors and directors are satisfied.

"Now I have learned to make a 'situation' my audience. I still rehearse poorly when I know the cameras aren't grinding away. But when 'camera!' is called, an imaginery audience forms itself.

"I have had to get a new perspective all over again in entering motion pictures. I have been forced to learn the film technique just as silent players had to learn the technique of talking pictures."

"Thunder Below," with Miss Bankhead in the leading feminine role and Charles Bickford, Paul Lukas, Eugene Pallette and Ralph Forbes featuring, comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 and 30.

NOW AND THEN

Water Lilies

O star on the breast of the river,
O marvel of bloom and grace;
Did you fall down from heaven,
Out of the sweetest place?
You're as white as the thoughts of an angel,
Your heart is steeped in the sun.
Did you grow in the golden city,
My pure and radiant one?

Nay, nay, I feel not out of heaven,
None gave me my saintly white:
It slowly grew from the darkness,
Out of the dreary night.
From the ooze of the silent river
I won my glory and grace,
White souls fall not, O my poet,
They rise to the sweetest place.

—Unknown

Summer is here. We are surely "knee deep in June." Chestertown is lying in all its loveliness on the water's edge.

A little mountain boy, who is visiting here when he saw the boats rocking on the river, exclaimed with enthusiasm, "Gee what a place to live in." So it is; one of the prettiest towns on the shore as far as location goes. Are we making it so otherwise?

Vacation is here, and the school bell is silent. The bright attractive faces of youth from the College and from the school are missed as one goes along the streets. In the fall, they will come again; but, in many cases not the same ones, for Commencement has begun with many of them.—Commencement, it is hoped, for those who go out into the world of a busy, useful life in the industrial and Literary world; that they will not have to face that bugbear—unemployment and that the problems, that face the country now, will be solved.

The twenty-first of June is over, the longest day of the year. It has brought problems with it, stamps on checks, increased gasoline rates with the promise of many more taxes to come. But the country must face the music. Where the nation has dealt the hardest is with the beauty aids. Women now, when they touch up their faces and lips, may feel that they are doing a patriotic duty.

Quoting from the New York Sun we urge.

"Touch up the eyebrows often—
Color those cheeks, my dear!
Each preparation
Will help put the nation
Back where it's free and clear.

Get out those compacts often—
Don't spare the powder puff!
Lipsticks, my honey,
Bring in the money—
Uncle Sam needs the stuff!

Shakespeare for Slogans

"For laundresses—"Out, damned spot!" Macbeth V, 1.

For divers—"I fain would die a dry death." The Tempest 1, 2.

For bootblacks—"Ay, there's the rub." Hamlet III, 1.

For messenger boys—"Shall I not take mine ease?" Henry IV, III, 3.

For tenants—"See what a rent." Julius Caesar III, 2.

For baseball batsmen—"Do not saw the air too much." Hamlet III, 2.

For convicts—"I have done the state some service." Othello V, 2.

For customs collectors—"Pass by and curse thy fill." Timon of Athens V, 5.

And off they go to the convention! Ritchie, Roosevelt, Al Smith and Alfalfa Bill. What an earful one can get at the radio the next few days, or will it be for the next few weeks? The Dmmy's do not seem to have a stream roller set ready for them. Each has to air his views, and then they all have different views. So we shall have a long wait to see who the dark horse will be.

France is all for France, no arms cut for her! She thinks that 1-3 arms cut will make her look like Venus de Milo.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETS

The adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Council of Chestertown was held on Tuesday evening of this week.

The Front street drainage condition was discussed and report of the survey was made by Chief of Police Samuel E. Cooper. The Council authorized the laying of necessary sewer and curb and gutter to take away the storm water that has been a nuisance for some time. It is estimated that the cost will be $1,000.

Following a request by Mr. Owen C. Smith for a building permit to erect a building on his property on High street and to extend the building line to a line with the store property of Mr. Charles Schreiber. Following a discussion, the following resolution was adopted:

"The Council directs the clerk to acknowledge the application of Mr. Owen C. Smith for a building permit for a new building on High street. The Council has directed the city engineer to give Mr. Smith the building line. His request to extend his building beyond this line is noted. To grant a permit for the purpose is not in the power of the Council under the present charter, such legal right could only be confered by act of the General Assembly of Maryland.

A permit was granted Janes M. E. Church, colored, to hold a carnival on the corner of Mill and Cannon streets for one week beginning Friday, June 24th and ending Saturday, July 2nd, to be opened from 7 to 10 p. m. and on Saturdays to 11.30 p. m.

The discussion of the milk ordinance requiry the sale of only pasteurized milk in Chestertown was carried over until the regular July meeting.

The Council is endeavoring to take care of the bonds and interest on the recent $25,000 bond issue without increasing the present 75c tax rate.

This thing of saying "thank you" may seem Utopian, at times—but it is truly indicative of good breeding.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

A VEST POCKET ESSAY ON THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"

"As president of this school board," orated Uncle Eb, "I am now going to give out the di-plomas to the graduating class. First though, I want to compliment the two boys that spoke fer the class. It was fine elocution. Well, I supose Adam said to his sons, 'Boys, you're livin' in wonderful times—but they ain't like the Good Old Days.' And, I presume the boys registered loud, hearty and unanimous disapproval of the sentiment. Young folks is apt to consider a lot of things necessities that us old folks still regard as luxuries. Fer instance, I ain't so ure the radio give any better entertainment than a party line telephone, or half as much real information. And I ain't settled in my own mind that lookin' at the natural funny pictures in the fambly album, like we old folks did, wasn't more fun than you young 'uns have goin' to made-up movie comedies. Then doctorin' has changed too. In my time, when a doctor graduated, he grew a beard, and hung out his shingle as a specialist of the skin and its contents. Now when a body is ailin', a clinic full of specialists probe his purse, chart him out by longitude and latitude, and navigate up and own his alimentary canal with an x-ray light, measure his blood stream at high and low tide, an' take scundin's of his memory fer hidden repressions. Trouble is, a feller feels so plumb nakd inside and out when they get done, most folks are embarrassed and lose the fun of comparin' aches and pains. I 'spose its the penality of progress.

"Don't think I'm a mite agin progress though. We used to teach only the 3 R's, now we give you young 'uns free choice of a lot of mental fodder same as we put hogs in pasture with a self-feeder of grain. If you don't get your mind hefted up with ideas same as a hog does his carcass, then your digestion must be poor, or your ailin' some way. Animal that ain't doin' well always get me worried—if its a hog I always get afraid its cholera, even though I'm careful to prevent it. When doctors found out that hog cholera affected hogs only, and that the disease was apt to come roamin' on the farm in a sick, live hog, I fenced so as to keep stray hogs off, an' was mighty careful when I bought new stock to see that they were not exposed. Then when they found that about 90 per cent. of the cholera in this State was caused by feedin' infected bones, rinds and scraps of pork in kitchen wastes, I quit givin' that stuff fer desert. Stands to reason that preventin' cholera by common sense sanitation is cheaper than any other way, an' its provedd mighty effective e rme. In fact, I ain't seen an outbreak in years, an' I'll live happy if I never o again. Well, Mother is beginning' to fidgit around(so I guess I better get on with givin' out these dilomas. Jacob Ebenezer Adams, you come forward please—."

"Thank you" falls like sweet music upon the ears of the aged when they have ministered even in the slightest degree to the comfort of others.

DAYS GETTING SHORTER

Tuesday, June 21st, was the longest day of the year and from that day to December 21st, the days will gradually get shorter.

The shortening of day light after June 21st for the first ten days is very noticeable and after that time the extent of sunlight in the evening is very slight.

TUNNEL UNDER BAY ADVOCATED

ESTIMATED COST $15,000,000

Much has been written and said of bridging the Chesapeake Bay to connect the Eastern and Western Shores during the past twenty years but the blue waters of the Chesapeake still remain a bearer to quick transportation between the two shores. Three years ago construction work was in sight but a slump in the bond market indefinitely postponed operations. The subject occasionally comes up and when it does, citizens from other Eastern Shore counties dig deep into the subject and propose a tunnel under the bay. Following a recent article which showed that the subject is still alive, comes the following tunnel suggestion:

Construction of a tunnel beneath Chesapeake Bay, from Love Point to Sandy Point, is proposed in a report just made public by the Denton Chamber of Commerce. It is estimated that the project would cost approximately fifteen million dollars.

The letter of the Denton organization suggests that a committee be formed in Congress for the purpose of sponsoring self-liquidating projects, and that a four-way tunnel between the Queen Annes county and Anne Arundel county terminals be designed as such a project.

"It is estimated that the cost of a four-way tunnel would be $15,000,000" the letter pointed out, "and unless Federal aid can be invoked, it is an opinion that the State be bonded for the total of the contract; that bonds be amortized over a period of twenty-five years, and that the principal of the bonds be repaid from the revenue from the tunnel.

MOTORIST COURTESY WEEK

TO BE HELD JULY 3 TO 9

"No inspection, no restrictions and no requirements—the motorist is urged to take out on the highways that asset which a man prides himself on in connection with his conduct in his own home, in other words Courtesy.

This E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of MotorVehicles, said is the aim of "Courtesy Week," which will be conducted by his office from July 3 to 9.

"How many times have you heard a man speak of his ability to be the perfect host—the outstanding qualities which are exercised in the home; the ethics that he never violates to the ger in his house?", the commissioner stranger in his house?", the commissioner said.

"All these are the kinds of things which I wish to urge the motorist to take out on the highways.

"If he would just show some consideration for the fellow motorist that he shows for the friend, guest or stranger in the home, we shall have one hundred per cent good work and shall not even have a fatality over the Fourth."

DEATHS

Funeral services for Oliver P. Baldwin, former managing editor of the Sun and a member of its staff for fifty years, were held Wednesday at Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Benjamin B. Lovett, rector of the church; the Rev. Dr. J. Wilson Sutton, of New York (a brother of Mrs. Baldwin); the Rev. Edmund Gettier, of St. John's in Waverly; the Rev. Leon Vauthier, formerly of Severn Parish, and the Rev. Francis D. Dafey, of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, Govans, the son of one of Mr. Baldwin's old associates on the Sun. Burial was in St. John's Churchyard.

The honorary pallbearers included Capt. John Ridgely, of Hampton, a schoolmate of sixty years ago; William L. Marbury, John W. Owens, Frank F. Patterson, Edward P. Duffy, who has been with The Sun even a few days longer than had Mr. Baldwin; Folger McKinsey, Francis F. Beirne and Mark S. Watson.

At the service were men and women who long had been acquainted with the veteran editor and associated with him in the many enterprises with which his active newspaper work was connected.

Mr. Baldwin is survived by his widow, formerly Caroline Frances Sutton, of Chestertown; two daughters, Miss Anna Lee Baldwin and Miss Dorothy Baldwin, both of Baltimore, and a son, Hanson W. Baldwin, of the staff of the New York Times.

GAS REPRESENTATIVES HERE

MEET WITH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO DISCUSS GAS RATE

Messrs. N. H. Gellert, president of the National Public Utilities Corporation and S. R. DeFrise, Eastern Division Manager, met with the Directors of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening of this week for the purpose of discussing a reduction of the gas rate in Chestertown.

Mr. Gellert stated and presented figures to show that the Chestertown gas plant is not showing a profit and therefore a reduction in rate is out of the question unless the consumption could be increased. He showed that since the present owners purchased the Chestertown plant a reduction of 39 cents had been made with the hope of increasing the use of gas. Since that time the consumption has been increased two and a half times but the bulk of this increase was on the low end of a sliding scale. If 100 new gas users could be secured in Chestertown a small reduction could possibly be made.
