PREDICTS 60 PER CENT WHEAT CROP

KENT'S CROP ESTIMATED AT 16 BUSHEL PER ACRE

As a result of a survey of Kent's wheat fields, made this week by Mr. F. W. Oldenburg, of the Maryland Extension service and Dr. Leukel, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the average yield of wheat in Kent county this year is estimated at from 15 to 18 bu. per acre.

An estimate of the wheat fields viewed showed a range of from 10 bushels per acre to 23 bushel as compared to a yield last year averaging approximately 23 bushels to the acre.

The acreage planted in wheat in Kent county this year is about 25 per cent short of the average, and with the predictions of a poor yield it is estimated that the yield of the county will be approximately 60 per cent.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

MOTORISTS COURTESY WEEK

STARTS TOMORROW—MOTORISTS ASKED TO HELP

Mental lapses on the part of the driver, some of which seem trivial, cause the majority of automobile accidents, according to Motor Vehicle Commissioner, E. Austin Baughman. In connection with Courtesy Week July 3 to 9, he outlined as follows, what he termed the most serious of these:

"No. 1: When the driver engages in back-seat conversation and momentarily turns around. This is a serious distraction under present-day traffic conditions. Safety demands the concentration of one's entire attention on the operation of the car. Lack of concentration, the temptation on the part of the driver to turn around, has ditched many a car.

"No. 2: Crowding of the driver's seat. The most skillful driver needs plenty of room for the safe operation of his car and with more than two on the seat, the driver is hampered, especially in an emergency. One-arm driving, also, comes under this category, as it is extremely dangerous to have an arm around a fellow-passenger and but one hand on the wheel, when an emergency arises.

"No. 3: When the driver is sleepy and fatigued. Here danger lurks, for no one can concentrate in driving while in this condition. Stop driving. Let someone else take the wheel, or park somewhere off the highway and take a nap. Dozing while at the wheel is fraught with dire results and has brought an untimely end to the driver or other occupants of a car.

"No. 4: Prolonged study of the dashboard devices. Keep your eyes on the road. An occasional glance at the indicating devices is important, but prolonged study of them often causes accidents. If anything seems to be wrong, stop the car well off the traveled portion of the highway, or turn into a side road where there is little traffic in order to search out the trouble.

"No. 5: Substitution of horn blowing for careful driving. When crossing intersections play doubly safe. The horn is for emergency use, not a device that takes the place of brakes, nor does the sounding of it give the driver the right to speed across an intersection without due regard for approaching traffic, or for pedestrians. The horn-blowing driver not only annoys, but is a menace to highway safety.

"No. 6: 'Hoggng' of the road. Many lapses, some intentional, come under this classification. The driver who persists in holding to the centre of the road; the one who cuts in and out of traffic lines with little or no consideration of the approaching cars; the one who, through intent or thoughtlessness, goes through a red signal light, fails to obey a stop sign or passes a trolley car receiving or discharging passengers, or overtakes a car at a curve or on the crest of a hill, either wilfully or through mental lapse, contributes to the appalling toll of accidents on the streets and highway.

"Strict attention to these rules of conduct will save many lives and prevent multitudes of acidents." Commissioner Baughman said, "If every motor car operator would avoid these lapses and hold to the golden rule of the road—drive as you would have others drive, highways would be safer and there would be more pleasure and comfort in operating a motor car."

Tom White, born and reared at Deals Island, left Somerset several years ago for the movie colony at Hollywood, Cal., where he soon worked up to the position of production manager for the Famous-Players Paramount Production Corporation.

A few years ago Mr. White came to Somerset and purchased a number of schooners, sloops and bugeyes which were towed to California and used in the filming of the great picture "Old Ironsides."

Mr. White has steadily advanced in the moving picture industry until today he is President of the Continental Pictures Company. Feeling the urge of his old home county and state, "Tom" has decided that a movie of the shellfish industry of Somerset and the Chesapeake tidewater would be one of the most interesting pictures he could make. With this in view he will come to Crisfield early in August, with a full corps of cameramen, directors and a number of the most accomplished actors in moviedom and film his coming picture "Nor'easter."

A "thank you" is a forgetine—not from the garden of courtesy.

June Attendance

June was a good month for attendance in Kent schools. Only two of the thirty schools in the county fell below the 90 per cent mark in attendance.

Two schools, St. Paul, taught by Mrs. Lillian Orr Crouch, and Locust Grove, taught by Miss Margaret F. Stoops, had perfect attendance records for the month.

Galena, Miss Lelia N. Ware, principal, led the high school group with a percentage of 98.5, a slight margin over Rock Hall's average of 98.2.

The record for June of the Kent schools, compiled by Mrs. May Mills Beck, attendance officer, is as follows:

SHOPPING JEFFERSON'S

Well, if I get the shopping news this week all mixed up with Democrats and Republicans, committees and votes, you'll know that the hypnotic voices of the delegates to the Democratic Convention have actually got me so worked up I don't know a new style from a Presidential Candidate, (and that's almost a niftie!)

Still life must go on even while these solemn little fellows play their solemn games of word-slinging and make-believe, so let's consider some ideas I picked up for you at Jefferson's this week.

One idea is about curtains. Suppose you've wanted some new ones for a bedroom, or to make your living room cool. Well I noticed at Jefferson's several bolts of scrim and marquisette curtaining left over from the days when we were all afraid to use anything but plain white or buff curtains. But take that plain material, dip it in one of the satisfactory cold water dyes, tint it peach or apricot, tea rose or sea blue, pale lavendar or jade green,—edge it with some quaint ball fringe in white or contrasting color,—or with old-fashioned rick rack with tie-backs of the same and you'd have the most delectable, airy and last-word smart summer curtains you ever could buy,—at a cost of about 75 cents a pair! It's so easy to do, ANY half-wit even could do it successfully!

Then there's slip covers. Take that old-fashioned calico chintz at Jefferson's in green or yellow or scarlet,—so crisp and cool—bind it in smart black, and what a grand slip cover it makes.

And did you know some of the smartest country house table linens for summer are place mats and runners of bright gay prints in scarlet and gray and black or yellow, orange and cream, or green and white, edged with bias banding, or old fashioned embroidered edging or rick rack. You could make a set in half a day. It's fun to work out special color schemes and use your own originality for unusual edges. Mr. Jefferson has a whole box of cute old-time cotton trimmings. Go down and poke around and see what using your imagination will do.

Resourcefully yours,
LYDIA LEE.
