HEALTH NOTES.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST VACATION TYPHOID

If you are going to spend your vacation hiking, camping, on an auto trip, a bus trip, or in other out-of-doors enjoyment, here are some precautions that Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health ures you to take against the ever present hazard of typhoid fever:

1. Don't bathe or swim in streams polluted by sewage.

2. Boil your drinking water if it is taken from unprotected or questionable sources.

3. Use pasteurized milk, but be sure that it is kept cool, clean and covered. If your only source of supply is raw milk, boil the milk for two or three minutes, chill quickly, and keep the supply clean, cool and covered until used.

4. Wash the hands thoroughly with plenty of soap and water before handling or preparing food for the table.

5. Wash vegetables and fruits thoroughly before using.

6. Always wash your hands before eating.

7. Screen your food and your living quarters against flies.

8. If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last three years, go to your doctor, before you go on your trip and be protected against the disease. Three inoculations a week apart are necessary to complete the immunization.

"The germ that causes typhoid fever", Dr. Riley said, "Is discharged from some one who has been ill at some time from the disease or is a carrier of it. Unless very great care is taken to disinfect the discharges before they are disposed of, the germs may contaminate the water of streams and wells and also may pollute the soil.

"Polluted water is not the only source of typhoid fever. Milk and other foods may be contaminated by being handled by cases or 'carriers'. Carriers are persons who have recovered from typhoid but who still excrete the germs, and who are careless and not clean in their personal habits. Flies, by carrying typhoid germs from filth to food, are another source of danger.

"Knowing that water, milk, flies, fingers and food are the main sources of typhoid fever, we are all very short sighted if we fail to take the necessary precautions against them.

PAL AND BRIDE BATTLE TO HELP WAR-TIME HERO

Unique Triangle In Drama Of "Man From Yesterday"

A war-time pal and a war-time bride fight it out for the possession of a war-time hero in "The Man From Yesterday," a Paramount picture, with Claudette Colbert, Clive Brook, Andy Devine and Charles Boyer in the leading roles. It shows at the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, July 13 and 14.

Miss Colbert, a war nurse, marries Brook in haste during the hectic days in Paris in 1918. They are very much in love, but Brook is called to front line duty. A few weeks later he is reported killed. Claudette turns to Boyer, a young surgeon, for friendship and finds a new love.

While visiting a reclamation hospital years later, Claudette discovers Brook. He has been reduced to poor health by his war experiences, and the only joy of his life is Andy Devine, his devoted buddy, who keeps him cheered with his amusing antics. They are inseparable.

Claudette persuades Brook that her friendship with Boyer is meaningless, and that she will never forget her duty as his wife. She persuades Brook to return with her to Paris. This move takes Andy out of Brook's life, temporarily, but the loyalty that started on the battle field is matched with the loyalty of his recovered wife.

The final scene, which brings Brook and Devine together again, is a terrific heart-wrencher.

All praise is due Miss Colbert and Brook for the distinguished workmanship they bring to their parts as lovers who try to mend a broken romance. But let's give a big hand, too, to Andy Devine. He is even better in "The Man From Yesterday" than he was in "The Spirit of Notre Dame."

The New Lyceum Theatre is showing "The Man From Yesterday" for the first time on the Eastern Shore, and day and date with the big Stanley Theatre in Baltimore.
