VOL. LXXVI---NO. 14 | CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1932 | $1.50 PER ANNUM

FEDERAL TAX ON BOATS

The Federal tax on boats which became effective July 1, 1932, is to be collected on the following scale:

5—Length over 200 feet, $200.00.
50 feet, $10.00.

2—Length over 50 feet and not over 100 feet, $40.00.

3—Length over 100 feet and not over 150 feet, $100.00.

4—Length over 150 feet and not over 200 feet, $150.00.

5—Lngth over 200 feet, $200.00.

This includes both power and sailboats. It excludes boats used exclusively for trade, fishing or national defense.

Foreign-built boats, purchased after January 1, 1926, and owned by citizens or by domestic partnerships or by corporations shall be taked twice the amount specified in the foregoing.

To us the above schedule is one of the most unjust pieces of legislation we have ever known. Take for example a canoe boat which is of long slim structure and will in most every case measure over 28 feet, the value of which will be about $100.00 is taxed for $10.00, while many pleasure cruisers with a value of $5,000 to $6,000 and measuring 28 feet and less pay no taxes.

MRS. HARRIS WRITES ANOTHER STORY

MUCH PRAISE FROM POST ARTICLE

Mrs. Evelyn Harris, of Betterton, has won a big reputation as a writer since the appearance of her article in the Saturday Evening Post, "Farming Without Money" which appeared in the issue of June 18th. This article brought many letters of praise and urge to write more. The letters covered a variety of offers ,ranging from proposals of marriage to offers to loan money.

The article was so well accepted that another article, "The Curse Of Amateurism" will appear in the Post at an early edition, in which she points out the menace of the millionaire farmer.

A flattering request to write a book for the literary guild has been accepted by Mrs. Harris and "Wings" a prereview booklet of literary accomplishments will soon carry an article on the book which Mrs. Harris is to write. Writing is proving more profitable than the raising of pears, berries, locust posts and the sale of sand and gravel, although the years of agricultural endeavor as given her the subject for her literary accomplishments.

CAUGHT A BIG ONE

Wicks Westcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon W. Westcott, went fishing with Capt. John Dickerson near Deep Point last week which was branching out in the fishing game for Wickes. Although an ardent fisherman for a large part of his few years, his activities have been confined to the catching of anti-chokers and sun fish, but last week he hooked a 3 1-2 pound hard head. Remembering the story of "Jonah and the Whale," he called for help and Captain Johnnie helped him land what proved to be the thrill of a life time for Wickes.

TO OPEN BOHEMIA BRIDGE

Present plans call for the opening of the new concrete bridge over Bohemia River the first part of next week.

One span which is directly opposite the drawer of the old bridge cannot be completed until traffic is taken off the old bridge due to boat traffic passing through. traffic will be diverted around this span until it is finished which will be about two weeks.

WHEAT FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

Just a reminder to the ones who so willingly gave a bushel or more of wheat to the Children's Home, in Easton, last year. New contributors are needed. This gift to the flour fund means so much to the support of forty children, and is very much appreciated by the managers.

FRESH-AIR FIEND'S PLOT

Physical Culture Expert (to client): "All these exercises for increased strength must be done in front of the open window."

Client (owner of new house): "But that's just it. I want the increased strength first so that I can open the window!"

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Mary Vannort Simpers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Simpers, of Chestertown, and Mr. Elias Nuttle, of Denton, was announced at a bridge party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Simpers on Friday evening of last week. The wedding will take place in October.

Miss Simpers is a graduate of Washington College and since graduation has been a member of the faculty of the Rock Hall High School.

Mr. Nuttle is a graduate of Washington College and is engaged in the lumber and coal business in Denton, Md.

CONCERT AT MIRACLE HOUSE

CHANTERS OF BOURNI TEMPLE TO ENTERTAIN TOMORROW

A treat is in store for the children at the Miracle House at Claiborne, Maryland, and for residents of the Eastern Shore on Sunday, July 17th, when the Chanters of Boumi Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles Mystic Shrine, Baltimore, Maryland, will render a concert from 6 to 7 p. m. at the Miracle House. The members of the singing group will be in attendance at the Seaside Ceremonial which is to be held at Ocean City on Friday and Saturday, July 15th and 16th. On their return to Baltimore they will stop at the Miracle House at Claiborne Maryland, and present the concert, which will be open to the public. Mr. William B. Matthews, Managing Director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, is a member of the Chanters and was instrumental in securing this outstanding musical organization to appear at the Miracle House.

ROTARIANS MET AT TOLCHESTER

The annual intercity meeting of the Rotary Clubs, of Elkton, Chestertown and Denton, was held at Hotel Tolchester on Wednesday evening of this week.

The principal speaker of the evening was Mr. Charles Puff, of Philadelphia who held his audience with a story of the finding of what is believed by archeologists to be the "Holy Grail" in Antioch, Syria, and which is now in a vault in New York City.

The Rotary Club will meet next week at the Mad Hatter Tea room on Washington Ave.

—A report states that negotiations are underway for the sale of the Newnam's Wharf farm on Chester River and Southeast Creek. This is one of the most beautifully located farms on the upper part of Chester River.

NOW AND THEN

THE CROW
BY ALICE MATHEWS

I wonder why God made the crow?
Was it because Love's golden wick
Had been blown out and all the glow
Of light was plunged in darkness thick?
The crow likes well the falling gloom,
Responsive is he to the moon
When light doth falter in Dawn's room
Behold, all swift the crow has flown
Toward some unpleasing garden spot
Where rocky wood makes shadows dim,
His glossy coat doth seem a blot
When sun beams pipe their morning hymn.
I wonder what within Love stirred,
When He created such a bird?

It is true that Crows are not very much loved, and that they destroy other birds and eat chickens but they are mighty wise birds with all of that. Once, in the mountains a friend who had lost a great many chickens, in spite of scare crows, asked me to watch them a little while I stood on the porch and saw one lone crow on a tree near by. As long as I stood there, he was silent, but as soon as I went in the house, he gave a caw and a whole flock of crows appeared. only to fly away as I reappeared. There were no chickens caught that evening.

HOT WEATHER HINTS

Cool tips for hot weather from the city health director: Keep calm—let Hoover and Roosevelt fight it out. Don't quarrel. Keep your mind occupied—with something besides the weather. Wear light clothes, eat vegetables, sleep a lot and be your age.

A President's proposition to the fish he is trying to catch:
You have your troubles,'
But no camera hounds,
No newspaper reporters
Trail you and you don't
Have to lay cornerstones,
Christen battleships, open
New lodges, press buttons and
Throw out first baseballs.
All you've got to do is to
Avoid eating anything with a
Hook in it . . .
If that was my only worry
I'd be tickled silly!
All right, trout, I'll make
You a proposition . . .
Lissen: I'll change places—
I'll come down in that nice,
Clean, deep, cool pool . . .
You balance the budget!
I wonder if the trout would be willing to change places with him.

Are you reaping any good from the depression?
The tree that never had to fight
For sun and sky and air and light,
That stood out in the open place
And always got its share of rain,
Never became a forest king,
But lived and died as it began.

I saw an osprey, last week, swope down and catch an ell. How the ell wiggled and struggled but the strong claws held it fast as it flew to a neighboring tree. I would have liked to have folowed further and seen which won in the long run, but the sky soon swallowed them up, and they were lost to view.

Surcease

Now convention days are over,
Every speaker disappears,
And a quite distracted nation
Gets a chance to rest its ears.

The Perpetuation of Milton's Famous Mulberry Tree

From the Saturday Review

A slip from Milton's famous mulberry tree in Christ's College, Cambridge, now three centuries old, has been planted on the master's lawn at University College, Oxford. A famous mulberry, although slightly older than Milton's, still bears an abundant crop of fruit year by year. Adjoining it is a younger tree, also fruitful, which probably grew from a slip of the original. There are many studies of longevity in animals, more particularly, of course, in the case of horses and dogs; but the literature of trees and shrubs is rather scanty. Oaks are proverbially said to live 900 years—300 to grow, 300 to mature, 300 to decay—but the period seems far too long.

Queen Victoria, though one of the richest sovereigns of her time, was very careful not to waste. Hearing that one of her grandson, who was at that time at Oxford College, had gone beyond his allowance, she wrote him, telling him how necessary it was not to spend more than one's means. He wrote back to her that he had heeded what she had said and had sold her letter for $100.00 and paid all his debts with it. His grandmother was not pleased.

"I LIKE THE DEPRESSION"

"NO MORE PROSPERITY FOR ME"

The following article is clipped from the "Publishers Auxiliary," a trade newsaper. It met with such favorable comment that we are passing it on to our reader with the hope that it may give renewed courage and cheerfulness to some wo are inclined to be depressed with the present business conditions of the entire country.

It was written by Henry Ansley of the Amarillo, Texas Globe News.)

I have had more fun since the depression started than I ever had in my life; I had forgotten how to live, what it meant to have real friends, what it was like to eat common every day food. Fact is, I was getting just a little high-hatted.

Three years age, only one man of the News-Globe organization could be out of town at one time and he had to leave at the last minute and get back as soon as possible. Many times I have driven 100 miles to a banquet, sat through three hours of a bunk to make a five-minute speech, then drive the 100 miles back so as to get ready for work the next morning.

Nowadays, as many News-Globe employes as are invited make those trips and we stay as long as we want to. The whole outfit could leave the office now and it wouldn't make any difference.

I like depression. I have time to visit my friends, to make new ones. Two years ago when I went to a neighboring town, I always stayed at the hotel. Now I go home with my friends, stay all night and enjoy home-cooking. I have even spent the week end with some of the boys who have been kind enough to invite me.

It's great to drop into a store and feel that you can spend an hour or two or three or a half day just visiting and not feel that you are wasting valuable time. I like the depression.

I am getting acquainted with my neighbors. In the last six months I have become acquainted with folks who have been living next door to me for three yars. I am following the Biblical admonition. "Love your neighbors." One of my neighbors has one of the best looking wives I have ever seen. She is a dandy. I am getting acquainted with my neighbbrs and learning to love them.

Three years ago, I ordered my clothes from a merchant tailor—two and three suits at a time. All my clothes were good ones. I was always dressed up. But now, I haven't bought a suit in two years. I am mighty proud of my Sunday-go-meeting-clothes. When I dress up, I am dressed up and I don't mean maybe. I like the depression.

Three years ago I was so busy and my wife was so busy that we didn't see much of each other, consequently we sort of lost interest in each other. I never went home to lunch. About twice a week I went for dinner—at 6.30 o'clock. I never had time to go anywhere with her. If I did go on a party I could never locate her, since there was always a "blonde" or a "redhead" available I didn't much worry about it.

My wife belonged to all the clubs in town. She even joined the young mothers' club. We don't have any children, but she was studying—and between playing bridge and going to clubs, she was never at home.

We got stuck up and hifalutin. We even took down the old family bed and bought a set of twin beds—on the installment plan.

When I would come home at night, if my wife was at home, she would already be in her bed and I would crawl in mine. If she came in first, it was vice versa.

We like the depression. We have come down off our pedestal and are really living at my house now. The twin beds are stored in the garage and the old family affair is being used. We are enjoying life. Instead of taking a hot water bottle to bed these cold nights she sticks her heels in my back just like she did before Hoover was elected.

I haven't been out on a party in 18 months. I have lost my book of telephone numbers. My wife has dropped all the clubs. I believe we are falling in love all over again. I am pretty well satisfied with my wife. Think I will keep her, at least until she is forty and then if I feel like I do now, I may trade her for two twenties.

I am feeling better since the depression. I take more exercise. I walk to town and a lot of folks who used to drive Cadillacs are walking with me. I like the depression.

My digestion is better. I haven't been to see a doctor in a year. I can eat anything I want to.

I am getting real, honest-to-goodness food. Three years ago, we had filet mignon once a week, now we have round steak and flour gravy. Then, we had roast breast of guinea hen, now we are glad to get sow-bosom with the buttons on it.

I like the depression. My salary has been cut to where I can't afford to buy lettuce and spinach and parsley and we can't afford to have sandwiches and desserts and all that damfoolishness which has killed more good men than the World War.

I like the depression. Three years ago I never had time to go to church. I played golf all day Sunday and besides I was so darned smart that there wasn't a preacher in West Texas who could tell me anything.

Now I am going to church regularly, never miss a Sunday.

And if this depression keeps on, I will be going to prayer meeting before long.

I like the depression!

FARMERS PICNIC AUG. 18

TO HOLD 2ND ANNUAL BEAUTY CONTEST

The second annual Kent County Farm Bureau beauty contest will be held on the 18th day of August in connection with the annual Farm Bureau picnic. The yearly outing will be staged at Tolchester Beach. The most attractive Farm Bureau girl in the county will be chosen out of a number of contestants by capable judges and she will compete with other county winners in the second annual Maryland Farm Bureau contest to be held in Baltimore in connection with the annual State convention, early next year.

The county winner will be entertained in the Maryland metropolis as the guest of the Farm Bureau and, judging from the experience of the sixteen Farm Bureau beauties who went to Baltimore last January, she may anticipate three enjoyable days at a big city hotel, interspersed with trips to important and interesting places, the trip culminating in the big annual convention ball which will be preceded by a style show and the beauty contest.

Miss Louise Morris winner of the county contest last year said, in speaking of her experiences, "I just wouldn't have missed the trip and the thrills of the big convention. An elaborate entertainment program was mapped out for the girls in advance and I especially enjoyed the trip through a big newspaper plant, a course luncheon as the guest of a large department store manager, a trip through the Goodwill Industries, seeing a famous movie star as guest of a Baltimore theatre and being introduced from the stage and numerous other items on the crowded three-day visit, winding up with the style show and beauty contest before 2,000 people and the big dance in the ballroom of the Lord Baltimore Hotel to the tunes of a large orchestra. We were entertained royally and finally had newsreel pictures taken with Governor Ritchie with our pictures in every big newspaper and movie theatre in the United States. I shall never quite forget the experience."

Miss Stella McGrady, of Cecil county was the state-wide winner and was presented with a large chest of flat silver by the Governor on behalf of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation. Each of the other girls received gold pieces.

This county wants to select the most attractive Farm Bureau girl for its represntative this year. Local Farm Bureau officials hope all Farm Bureau girls, members of Farm Bureau families, will attend the picnic and enter the contest.

Remember the time and place the 18th day of August at Tolchester Beach.

PREPARING FOR REGATTA

TO BE HELD ON AUGUST 13TH AND 14TH

The regatta committee of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club are making arrangements for the annual regatta to be held on Friday and Saturday, August 13th and 14th.

The regatta this year will be known as the Chester River Regatta and efforts are being made to make it a community affair through the cooperation of all the various communities on the Chester River and tributaries.

The program will be similar to that of the past two years with sailing races at the mouth of Chester River on Friday, and Saturday's program will be staged at Chestertown and will consist of sailing and speed boat races.

The feature of Friday's program will be the gold cup races out in the bay and the star boat races inside Love Point.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED

Centreville, Md., July 12—Mrs. Charles Meredith, 70, wife of Charles Meredith, of Ingleside, was so badly burned Tuesday morning at her home that she died a few hours later at Emergency Hospital, Easton.

The accident occurred when the aged woman went to the kitchen of their home to prepare breakfast. She lighted a gasoline stove, and it is believed that some of the fluid had been spilled on the stove, the blaze caught to her apron, and in a few minutes her entire body was enveloped in flames. Her husband made an attempt to save her by wrapping her in a rug, but in her frantic efforts to protect herself she ran to the yard, where she rolled on the ground.

HEARING ON HOSPITAL SUIT

CASE TO BE TRIED AT OCTOBER TERM

The hearing on the demurer in the case of Messrs. Henry W. Catlin and Charles Duffield against the proposed Kent and Upper Queen Anne's county hospital for the return of their donation was held on Monday of this week with Chief Judges William Adkins and Associate Judge Thomas Keating on the bench.

Mr. Henry Catlin asked for the return of a $10,000 donation to the proposed hospital on the claim that the provisions of the donation were not complied with. He is represented by Mr. Harrison W. Vickers.

Mr. Charles Duffield asked for the return of a $2,000 donation for a children's ward in the proposed hospital on the claim that the amount of money raised is not sufficient to build the hospital. He is represented by Mr. James Young, of Philadelphia and Mr. Harrison W. Vickers.

Messrs. R. Hynson Rogers and Stephen R. Collins represent the Hospital Board in both cases. The court had reached no decision on the hearing of the demurer at the time of going to press.

Shortly after the drive for funds for the hospital was closed, the original directors purchased a location on the Barroll development near Washington College and Mr. Henry Hopkins, architect of Baltimore, was employed to draw plans for the hospital. When bids were received for construction the cost was found to exceed the amount of money on hand and construction work was postponed until more funds could be obtained. Later when the cost of building material was lowered new bids were asked for and an injunction to prevent construction was brought by the plaintiff's in the above suit.

The case will be tried at the October term of Court.

WHEAT CROP BELOW ESTIMATE

POOREST CROP IN YEARS—PRICE LOW

With the major part of Kent's wheat crop already threshed, the crop estimate by experts several weeks ago was far below the actual results.

Estimates by crop specialists showed that the wheat crop in Kent county would average approximately 17 bushels to the acre but the actual results of that already threshed will lower this estimate to barely 10 bushels.

The crops reported will range from 2 1-2 to 20 bushels. Farms that have been growing 20 to 25 bushels show a return this year of 8 and 10 bushels.

Among the largest crops reported is that of Dr. Julian T. Power on his farm near Tolchester where the crop was reported at 20 1-2 bushels.

The poorest return reported was 2 1-2 bushels.

According to a statment made this week by a Kent County farmer, who has been closely in touch with the wheat crop for a long period of years, stated this week that the crop this year is the poorest since 1872. In 1906 the crop was poor due to much rain and hot sun, but was better than this year.

ART CLASS EXHIBITS

The work of the art classes of the Chestertown elementary school is on display in the various store windows in Chestertown. This exhibit is the work of the sixth and seventh grades had taught in the schools by Mrs. R. D. Moore.

Mrs. Moore, a graduate of Maryland Institute in Baltimore, donates her services one day a week in teaching this art work and the display reflects a great deal of credit both to the pupils and teacher. Each piece of work is signed by the pupil and this is the second year that Mrs. Moore has so generously donated her services.

Mr. Ammel, of Fairlee, is also donating his services in the teaching of art to the upper grades of the Fairlee school and the work of the pupils of this school has also been on display.

FORMER ROCK HALL GIRL DROWNED

MRS. HAZEL KESSLER IS VICTIM NEAR BALTIMORE

Mrs. Hazel Kessler, formerly Miss Hazel Ashley, of Piney Neck, and daughter of Mrs. Augusta Ashley and the late Columbus Ashley was drowned when se lipped from a rock at Beaver Dam quarry hole near Cockeyville.

She was a graduate of Rock Hall High School and entered the training school at the Maryland General hospital from which she graduated in June 1931. She married Mr. Calvin P. Kessley, of Baltimore, last February.

According to a report of the accident the couple had been visiting relatives at Butler Monday. They left for Baltimore early Tuesday, the bride to go to their apartment and the husband to report for work at the Gas and Electric Company, where he is a merchandise salesman.

On the way the husband decided to stop at the quarry to take a swim.

After slipping from a rock on which she had been sitting while watching her husband swim, the 21-year-old bride, sank to the bottom. Mr. Kessler dived and found her almost immediately, started to bring her to the surface, but her struggles bore him down.

Mr. Kessler stated further: "I came up for breath, but she was still under the water. I dove again, several times and groped around, but couldn't find her. Then I realized I needed help, came to the surface and started to hunt for someone to help me."

Lee Yingling, who lives several blocks from the dam, said that two small boys ran to his house and said they had seen a woman struggling in the water.

He rushed to the spot but could see no one. On the rock, however, was a towel so Mr. Yingling dove in several times and finaly located the woman's body. When he brought her to the surface she was clutching her husband's ring in her hand.

There were scratches on Mrs. Kessler's shoulders when she was brought to the surface. The ambulance crew at Cockeysville was called, but upon It's arrival Mrs. Kessler had already been pronounced dead.

The water is twenty feet deep at the point.

NO HOG CHOLERA IN KENT

NO OUTBREAKS REPORTED DURING JUNE IN COUNTY

Hog cholera was reported on 10 premises in the State in June, compared with an average of 13 outbreaks for this period during the last 13 years. Eight were classed as backyard outbreaks, and 2 were on farms where hogs are bred and raised. Nine were primary, or new outbreaks, and 1 was secondary, or due to the spread of the infection.

Montgomery county had 3 outbreaks; Baltimore, Carroll, Charles, Frederick, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, and Worcester, had one each. Feeding table scraps containing infected bones, rinds and scraps of pork, apparently was the cause of 8 outbreaks. A hog sick with cholera, was turned loose and visited friends in a neighboring hog lot, and caused another. Raw garbage fed to one herd was responsible for another outbreak, and several losses.

In the 10 outbreaks reported, 82 hogs were involved. Nine, or approximately 11 per cent., were dead, and 23, or approximately 28 per cent., were sick before the outbreaks were reported. Due to prompt reporting in the majority of cases, comaratively low losses were exerienced. Hog cholera works fast, and control measures must be equally speedy, if severe losses are to be avoided.

Of the 10 outbreaks reported, 8 were in herds of 9 hogs or less, and 2 were in herds of 20 and 22 respectively.

Grunts from the Air

In a certain village, populated chiefly by colored folks, one of the leading citizens is in bad odor with his neighbors. This man kept a small herd of hogs in his backyard, and fed them delicious, but malodorous, garbage, despite warnings he had received that raw garbage and hog cholera were boon companions and that the perfume from his hog lot was not enjoyed by the neighbors. One day, three little porkers failed to include their usual healthy appetite. Feeling feverish and uncomfortable, they cooled themselves off in a wallow, which flowed into an adjoining hog lot. Needless to say, both herds developed cholera. But the owner thought little of this; in fact, he returned that day the male hog he had borrowed from his father The male hog carried the infection back home, and passed it into two adjoining hog lots, when he kissed his lady friends through the line fence.
