BY A WOMAN

ANNA ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

If Franklin Roosevelt does becomes president of the U. S. he will certainly have an able assistant in his wife, Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. She is always ready to aid and encourage her husband and has raised a fine family, one girl who is now Mrs. Curtis Dail and four boys.

Mrs. Roosevelt is tall, with deep blue eyes and wavy light brown hair. She swims, rides, plays tennis and golf, "all badly" she adds. "My chief relaxation is long walks in the country."

Both of her parents died when she was ten. Mrs. Valentine G. Hall, her grandmother, reared hrr. She studied abroad and at 19 made her debut. During her debutante days she was wooed and won by Franklin Delano Roosevelt nd at 21 she married him. "T. R." gave her away and Alice Longworth was her brides maid.

Mrs. Roosevelt's wool yarn and knitting needles go every place with her. She has no compunction about knitting at an informal tea in the executive mansion; durink a chat with friends or even at a political rally.

Knitting is only one of several sidelines to housrkeeping. She is now 48 years old also, teaches school; runs a furniture factory at Hyde Park; finds time to write magazine articles; acts as consultant to a publishing house and is a member of the committee of the Junior Literary Guild to srlect books for children.

Three days of each school week, Mrs. Roosevelt teaches American history and English literature at Todhunter School for Girls in New York. The latter part of each week she is in Albany as hostess at the mansion.

She has done much to aid the unemployed and took all of her family dwn to the East side in New York to see the pathetic breadline there.

Some one who was in the Womrn's Club in New York said: "I always notice that when Mrs. Roosevelt comes in the women leave the othrr groups, and surround her for she is a most interesting person.

When Mr. Roosevelt had infantile paralysis and it seemed that he must give up his political career, she urged him to keep on, and now that he has been restored to health, she, who is politic minded makes politics a daily discussion at the family table. No wonder with such a help meet the Governor has made good in every position which he has held, and will have a charming hostess for the White House if his campaign is successful.

HEALTH

It has just been said that Mrs. Roosevelt takes long walks in the country. Walking is really a health giver. With the bridge at hand and the stone roads everywhere one can surely spare half an hour to be in the open. It will do much for the complexion and be a ready aid to reducing exercises. It is also an aid to digestion. Let it be a part of the daily program.

Even if very busy a little less sleep will not hurt you and the early morning is a fine time for reflection, and to see the beauty which lies around you.

LA MODE

Tailored Blouses

For every informal occasion London is wearing the shirtwaist frock, as tailored as possible, and often in a rather somber color, with just a dash of bright accessory. The tailored blouses are short sleeved, as a rule, and there is more than a hint of a return to the suspender or shoulder-strap dress before long.

Linen Underthings

Dainty hand-made underthings to wear with cotton and linen summer dresses will be fashioned of fine white linen, a fabric highly favored before the era of silks, satins and laces. The new "unmentionables" are trimmed with val lace or filet and Irish lace and are as exquisite as their more aristocratic sisters.

Lady and Leopard

Leopard Skin, both real and imitation, trims some of the late spring coats. The trimming, whatever the fur used, is almost always in the form of cuffs. One sleeve with leopard cuffs is a double idea; wide from shoulder to elbow where, from beneath the cuffs, a second sleeve close fitting, extends to the wrist.

MOSQUITO WAR ON

TO SET MOSQUITO TRAPS

Announcement was made at headquarters of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association at Salisbury, on Tuesday, that the work of locating mosquito traps as the first step in the preliminary survey toward mosquito control has been completed throughout the entire Peninsula.

The State of Delaware had its traps and arrangements completely cared for sometime ago, and Maryland, following the joint meeting held under the Del-Mar-Va Association auspices, arranged to cooperate throughout the nine countes on the Eastern Shore. There was a question as to the cost in the two Eastern Shore of Virginia Counties, but through the assistance of Dr. F. C. Bihsop, principal Entomologist, Bureau of Entomology, Washington, D. C., and the mutual cooperation, arrangements were finally completed to place traps in those counties as well.

This, according to the Del-Mar-Va Association report, means that for the first time practical steps have been taken toward a plan for the elimination of mosquitoes throughout the Peninsula, and with the voluntary assistance given by the U. S. Department of Public Health, as well as through Dr. Bishop's department and the aid from the individual State Boards of Health and Bureaus of Entomology, a movement, which but a short time ago would have been deemed impossible, is now actually under way.

A series of articles prepared by outstanding authorities and revised by Dr. Bishopp, as chairman of the Special Committee named when the representatives from the three states met at the call of the Del-Mar-Va Association, will be released regularly to the press of the Peninsula. Much of this material carries advice which may be followed with effective result by individuals to relieve conditions in their immediate vicinity and at very little cost. Later plans for the extensive plan will be based upon the findings which the preliminary survery provides.

Long Flights of Birds

It is a moot question what birds hold the distance flight records, but several mentioned by Laurence B. Fletcher, of the Northeastern Bird Banding association, are at least worthy of honorable mention. A banded tern traveled 9,000 miles from Labrador to Madagascar, in the Indian ocean, Fletcher related, while a humming bird made a round trip from a Franklin (N. H.) garden to the pampas of central South America.

SHOPPING JEFFERSON'S

This week, dears, we shall have a little story with a moral, all about the Law of Compensation. Like this—It's hot, to begin with, the depression continues to depress, the voice of the stump speaker's heard in the land and it's a bore in general just to live. But stay! The moral of our story gleams with a ray of hope,—with all the dullness of mid-summer about us,—yet is one spot of excitement, the Mid-summer Opportunity Sale at Jefferson's.

Just listen to this! Dozens of the best-looking little silk dresses, chiffons, crepes, prints, jackets and all, are to go on sale today. They were $5.75, and mighty good value at that, but imagine this! They are to be sold now for $3.95. There are all sizes and types of dresses, tailored street suits, afternoon silks, party chiffons. Don't, for pity's sake miss this chance. You can get TWO for about what one would normally cost, and you couldn't buy the material alone for $3.95.

Next is hats. All of them, and they're NEW, are to go at $1.00. If you don't indulge yourself in a new hat, or several of 'em, you're not as smart as I think you are. And these are NOT trashy hats, they're GOOD.

Then comes Shoes. All the lovely beige kid shoes, all models and sizes, which are supposed to sell for $5.00 and $6.00 are to go at $1.98. Did you ever hear of such a thing?

One last crack. Brand new—not on sale but bargains just the same—are stunning new printed jacket frocks, of genuine Cheney Silk, washable, made to sell at $10.00 to be had at Jefferson's for $5.95. DON'T, DON'T miss this.
